

WILL CONFINE EFFORTS TO CHILD WELFARE

Local Council of Women
Show Resentment Over
Action of Exhibition Association—Endorse Use of British and Canadian Films.

The local council of women decided on motion at its meeting yesterday that it would not, as an organization, take charge of the catering at the exhibition this fall, but in consideration of the many demands on the time and efforts of its members in connection with the national council meeting and other activities, it should devote its efforts on behalf of the exhibition solely to child welfare and should await the announcement by Dr. Roberts of the child welfare programme before undertaking anything definite along these lines. Mrs. David McLellan, who had been appointed convener of a committee to arrange for the women's department of the exhibition, explained that since the exhibition association had appointed four women, Mrs. Lawrence, Mrs. G. A. Kahring, Miss Grace K. Leavitt and Miss Clara McGivern, to take charge of the women's department she had taken no further action in the matter.

Mrs. H. Lawrence explained that the association had appointed herself and the other women entirely without their solicitation or knowledge and had elected women to its board because of a decision made after the last exhibition six years ago that an organization whose work affected women's interests should have women on its directorate. It hoped to have the co-operation of all women's organizations and this year especially when it was feared that there would be a large deficit on account of heavy repair expenses, the women were urged to support the exhibition as a patriotic duty to their city as well as for the welfare of women throughout the province.

The association had suggested that the council should take charge of the tea room, sharing the profits with the association; that the women's work department should go to the association; that the child welfare be in charge of the ministry of health with the assistance of interested societies, and that the art department be managed by the art club. Some members felt that the association in appointing women to its board without consulting the women's council which had been the means of making the women's department formerly responsible for an annual loss—become a profitable department, had shown discourtesy and a forgetfulness of past favors. It was explained that when the women's council had taken over the women's department the affiliated societies had banded together to supply all the food for the refreshment room and the proceeds had gone to the council and the societies and that for the last two exhibitions the council had asked affiliated societies to take charge of the catering on separate days during the exhibition.

Much food was said to have been wasted and in view of the present need for food conservation it was thought more desirable for the catering to be undertaken by a professional caterer.

Child welfare was said to be the most important work which the council could devote itself to and Mrs. E. A. Young moved that the council, in view of the many demands upon its energies, should devote all its labors in connection with the exhibition to the child welfare department. Mrs. J. Boyle Travers seconded the motion.

Mrs. David McLellan then moved an amendment to Mrs. Young's motion to the effect that the council, while declining to take up any other work for the exhibition, should await the announcement of Dr. Roberts as to the programme of child welfare before undertaking anything definite along this line. The amended motion was carried.

The use of British and Canadian films in Canadian motion picture theatres was strongly endorsed by the St. John Local Council at its meeting yesterday afternoon when the president, Mrs. E. Atherton Smith, was in the chair, and it was decided that a resolution to this effect should be submitted at the annual meeting of the national council in St. John. Further details in connection with the national annual meeting were dealt with.

Miss Alice Estey, treasurer, reported a balance in the general fund amounting to $88.42 and, in addition, the national council reported the names of Mrs. E. Atherton Smith, Miss Grace K. Leavitt, Mrs. R. J. Hooper, Mrs. W. Edmond Raymond, Mrs. J. H. Doody, and Miss Alice Estey with substitutes, Mrs. George P. Smith, Mrs. John McAvity, Mrs. J. Willard Smith, Mrs. E. A. Young, Mrs. D. P. Chisholm, Mrs. W. Bonnell, Mrs. L. Green, Mrs. Isaac, and Mrs. J. Boyle Travers. The report was adopted. Mrs. James F. Robertson was appointed convener of the committee in charge of the devotional exercises of the national meeting.

Reports of various committees in charge of arrangements for the national meeting were received. Mrs. Raymond, for the hospitality committee, reported thirty-five hostesses assured, seventy-two delegates already registered and others expected who had not registered as yet. Mrs. D. Scott, of Outremont, Quebec, had been offered hospitality by the council and was expected to arrive in St. John on Friday, May 29. Mrs. E. Atherton Smith

CITY NEEDS A BETTER HOSPITAL

Dr. J. G. Bowman Tells Large Audience What Is Needed—City Commissioner Also Speaks.

The executive of the Women's Hospital Aid were the guests of the Commercial Club, last night, in the Great War Veterans' assembly hall, Wellington Row, when Dr. John G. Bowman, president of the American College of Surgeons, addressed the meeting on "The Right to Be Well," and Commissioner Bullock, Jones, Thornton and Frink talked on "How to Make St. John a Better Place to Live In."

Introduced by Stanley E. Elkin, M. P., president of the club, Dr. Bowman took up the subject of his address without preliminary remarks. He assumed that not all were interested in public health so much as they were in their own personal health. Everyone wanted the right to be well. This right, he thought, should be classed with those other rights of freedom from violence, granted by courts, and the right of good government, granted by legislation. With reference to health, the only thing that approached a court of law was the general hospital and he thought no hospital was worthy of the name that could not give a pledge of the best care that can be given by science and human effort. Most hospitals were considered nice boarding houses for the sick, where some got good care, and some did not, but gradually there is evolving an institution where everyone can get the best medical and surgical service that is known to humanity.

"This work," said the doctor, "cannot be done by the doctors alone. It calls for the devotion of the whole people, and if you really want to 'make St. John a better place to live in,' you will have to put some of that determination into the making of a better general hospital."

"A hospital is not a hospital," he declared, "until the citizens are proud of it; until they can take the visitor to the place and say 'Here is a place where you cannot get poor service.' An efficient general hospital is one of the greatest prizes any community could possibly have." (Applause.)

T. H. Bullock.
Mr. Bullock said he believed the city was going ahead, that people were showing an interest in the place and that it was a good sign when the community stands up for the old home town both indoors and outdoors. The city has good schools, churches, pastors, parks, squares, drinking water and hospitals. If the people would stand for heavier taxation, they could get the best the heart could wish for. Better streets would make for a better city. Some of the streets are abominable and could be helped with some gravel in the rut. He closed by hoping the city could stand the stress and storm of the present condition of the financial market.

John B. Jones.
Mr. Jones, though laboring under the handicap of a severe cold, delivered an interesting address on the civic situation as it pertained to the present condition of the financial market.

John Thornton.
The commissioner of public safety thought there was not enough interest taken by the citizens in public affairs and said it was only by all getting together that St. John could go ahead. There is a lot of criticizing, but if the critics would go to city hall and show how the work could be done better, something better might be done. He thought the city should be equipped with a better fire apparatus, a municipal building should be erected on the corner house site, which would also serve as a memorial to the boys who had fallen overseas. He believed the question of making St. John a better place to live in was up to every individual citizen and not only to the representatives at city hall.

Dr. James H. Frink.
The new head of the public works department said he had taken that department because there was no other for him. There was a lot of work to do in his department, but it was up to the holders of the purse-strings to say what work would be done. If he had the money the work would go ahead fast enough. City bonds are on the market now and if the moneyed citizens really want improvements, they could do no better than take up whatever amount they can. He referred to the fine work done by the provincial government on the Robbsey road to the One Mile House and wished there were more pavements of that kind in the district. He wants to extend the city's housing accommodations at Stanley ward, where 400 acres of the Tucker estate are waiting to be developed and intends to start a concrete sidewalk on the Adelaide road that will run to Millville and straighten the Millville road and have water and sewer connection extended.

"I do not intend to spend all my time patching holes in the sidewalks, and putting bricks in the retaining walls," he declared, amid the applause and laughter of the audience. Most people thought that in getting grants from the city they were getting something for nothing, that the controller and the chamberlain went down to the cellar of city hall with a pick and shovel and dug up enough money to suit all needs. All money comes out of the taxpayers; the citizens pay for everything that is done, sooner or later. In closing, he asked for a closer and more united community spirit, which he thought was lacking in the city.

Colonel (Dr.) Murray MacLaren, C. M. G., referring to the address by Dr. Bowman, said there was no subject more important than that of a proper equipped general hospital. The speaker, he declared, was a specialist in the St. John General Public Hospital would not be on the list of the approved by the society, at the Montreal meeting to be held in the autumn but if the citizens want the hospital the map, they will have to put it in for it is not there now.

J. King Kelley, K.C., county secretary in moving a vote of thanks to Bowman and the other speakers, there is a need of a modern hospital the city, with a capacity of 300 beds, which would cost about $1,500,000, present in the children's ward, nurses are putting an arrow in the red.

There is a better epidemic hospital costing about $200,000; a maternity hospital, a children's hospital and a pathological building. He appealed the other members of the club to their support to the appeal for hospital accommodations.

Mrs. E. Atherton Smith, in second the vote of thanks, also thanked Commercial Club for its courtesy in giving the executive of the Women's Hospital Aid.

C. G. I. T. RALLY.

The C. G. I. T. rally held their rally for the season in the recreation centre last night, and there were more than 200 present. All entered into the enjoyment of the evening's programme, which after routine consisted an inspirational address by Miss Ma Allison, the presentation of prizes to novelties shown at the Shamrock tea. After three rousing cheers had been given for The Leaders, for Miss Ma Allison and for the C. G. I. T. Programme, a social hour and refreshment brought the very happy evening to close. They parted dispersed, looking forward to meeting again next fall for an even bigger and grander season.

Formerly of West St. John.

A recent Edinburgh paper contains an announcement of a presentation to a former pastor of the Carleton Place, Ontario, church. On account of ill health the Rev. James Burgess, Beach Parish church, has been advised by his doctor to take a period of rest. This having been made known to the congregation a sum of between £70 and £80 was readily subscribed and handed over to the reverend gentleman.
