THE HARMONY
MYSTERY CASE
NOW IN COURT
Husband, Accused of Wife Murder, Was Given Preliminary Trial Yesterday—Expert Evidence Damaging to Defendant.

Charlottetown, P. E. I., Feb. 12.— At the preliminary trial in Summeside, today, of Thomas Corbett Ellis, of Harmony, who is charged with the murder of his wife, important testimony that gives a new turn to the case was submitted by Colonel J. S.
Jenkins, M. D., of Charlottetown. Dr.
Jenkins took with him to Montreal portions of the body of Mrs. Ellis, including the head and neck and parts of the chest and left hand and wrist.
These portions were examined by Dr.
McTaggart, Professor of Medical Jurisprudence at McGill, and by Dr.
Jenkins. The latter stated today that in his opinion, the deceased came to her death from a wound in the carotid artery. The jugular vein was not severed. Asked if the wound could be self-inflicted by razors or scissors found on the table, he replied, "It is possible, but quite unlikely." He further said that it might be self-inflicted by clever hands in a determined way, but it was not likely. The wound did not have the appearance of a self-inflicted one. He was also asked, "Do the conditions of the wound, as you say it, suggest that it was self-inflicted?" His reply was "No." On cross-examination he said that the deceased, who had been a nurse, would likely know a great deal about the position of the artery and veins and would likely know where best to cut herself, such as the jugular vein. The doctor would not state positively that the wound was inflicted by some other person.

On re-examination by the Attorney-General, he said that if a right-handed person was desirous of committing suicide he or she would commence on the left side of the neck. The wound in Mrs. Ellis' throat was on the right side.
