For the C. P. Herald. MR. D'ARCY MCGEE AT THE IRISH PROTESTANT BENEVOLENT SOCIETY FESTIVAL, IN QUEBEC, MAY 10th.

-In one of the Quebec papers I notice that, according to invitation extended to Mr. McGee, that gentleman filed an appearance at the annual festival of the Irish Protestant Benevolent Society, and on the occasion electrified the assembly with one of those bursts of eloquence that has the ring of the true metal. But on reading those poetical orations of Mr. McGee, the reader is often in doubt whether Mr. McGee's con-

In Arithmetic they showed that they understood what they have been learning, and were not drilled superficially for some days previous, as it is sometimes the case, in order that they may show off at the examination. In Grammar. also, they acquitted themselves well, but in Geography, the writer thought, they excelled. Oh, what a debt we Canadians owe to our chief Superintendent for our present system of education—the opinion of a few bigots to the contrary notwithstanding. There was nothing I admired more than the exercise of the boys-I know not what to call it-it is very like military discipline. It would be too tedious to describe it, suffice it to say, that it was gone through with wonderfu precission. If the little urchins knew that they looked so like soldiers, they would feel large. Why cannot this be adopted in all our Schools? Wishing you and your paper prosperity I remain, Mr. Editor, your obliged scrvant.

Medical aid was procured, but all human skill proved unavailing to arrest the progress of the inflamation. At the early age of twenty four years, in the prime of youth, with bright prospects, this young man has been called away from a large circle of friends who deeply mourn their loss, for he was highly and deservedly respected by all his acquaintances, and his leath has caused a void amongst his many riends that will not soon be filled un Truly, "in the midst of life we are in death,

FATAL ACCIDENT .-- A young man named Souverein was accidentally shot on Bunday afternoon last, at Cote St. Paul, by another young man named John Truax Truax was loading a rifle, and had put in the ball before the powder; he afterwards put in powder by the nipple, filling a percussion cap with it, placing it on the nipple, and striking the cap with his hand to shake the powder into the chamber. While doing this the cap exploded, and Souverein, who
