Hon. S. H. Blake Scores the Ross Government for not Repudiating Guilty Agents.

Ml yDear Foy,—I am glad you came to see me yesterday. It affords me pleasure to hear you speak of the great need there is for most strenuously endeavoring to drive out corruption in connection with our elections, our election trials and the governmen tof the country generally. I rejoicly to hear what you are hoseful. rejoice) to hear what you are hopefully looking forward to accomplish in this way. I will be only too glad to aid you in any manner in my power, atthough it may be in a small way, to the accomplishment of this end.

EVILS TO BE DEPLORED.

It is much to be deplored that there are those who have been educated to the low level of holding themselves out as shogs ready to be bought in the market by the highest bidder. It is much more to be regretted that there are those ecculiving apparently is much more to be regretted that there are those occupying apparently honorable positions as barristers, solicitors, merchants and constables, who prostitute their position for a consideration, sell it, and work amongst this purchasable commodity, making it possible for them to decrease themselves by their reading to the consideration. making it possible for them to de-grade themselves by their readiness to buy them. This regret is further despened when those who sit in high places supply the money with-out which this debauching could not be carried on, and, with the know-ledge that it is thus being used, greed-ily accept all the benefits/that flow from this unhallowed and degrading means. Possibly, however, the lowest depth of infamy has been recently reached when the rulers of our pro-vince, without compunction, seek to vince, without compunction, seek to obtain the advantage of purchased and perjured evidence. The baseness thus percolates from the top through the agents of the purchasable commodity and makes a seething mass of cor-ruption which should be hateful to every man in our community.

A CARNIVAL OF CORRUPTION Ample opportunity has been given o repudiate this method of seeking to etain power. But no agent has been repudiated. No official has been dis-nissed. No victory won through this means has been refused. All that has been done has been approved, by accepting without quest on whatever has

COUNTRY TIRED OF GRITS.

COUNTRY TIRED OF GRITS.

The country is weary of the Baron Munchausen stories of what our rulers say they have done in greater Ontario; and of the statements ad nauseam of the wonders wrought by grants, concessions, subsidie, of our own property for a substantial quid pro quo to retain in power the Duke, de Braggadocios or the Counts de Rodomontades, whose never silent trumpets ostentatiously proclaim their mighty works.

THE MORAL DECLINE.

THE MORAL DECLINE. We regretfully look back upon an old Ontario, far greater than the present, because of the righteous, just and honest government of Sir Oliver Mowat. We are quite prepared to accept an Ontario smaller in area, but far greater than the Ontario smaller in area, but cept an Ontario smaller in area, but far greater than the Ontario as it stands to-day, because of the political morality which was then our just pride and strength. If we weigh that which some are pleased to call greater Ontario in the true balance as against lesser Ontario, we should find that right, justice and truth being in the one balance, the lesser Ontario as it stood than it for greater in the

WHAT THEY FAILED TO DO. , People have grown tired of the mere talk of attempts to make pure the political atmosphere in our province. This talk becomes hateful when it is found in the lips of those whose power is based on such corruption — whose acts cause it - and whose power, if properly exercised, should have ended at long since. We have had no dismissals, on prosecutions, no determined attempt to end this reign of debasement; and the people, treated as fools, are asked to be satisfied with farcical commissions and empty talk.

ONTARIO LOOKS FOR REFORM,

We have had a surfeit of govern-ment of "campet bags," "lobbies," ment of "campet bags," "lobbies," "commissions," "concessions" and "referendum." We want true and wise men at the helm, who will, with the position, accept the accompanying responsibilities, and, like statesmen, give honest legislation and just administration; or else give place to those who are willing to carry on the government of our country on these lines.

HOPES FOR SUCCESSFUL ISSUE. I believe there are many to-day who are looking to you to aid in exercising from our midst this demon of corruption, which is poisoning our national life. They hopefully expect the 7th of January as a day when shall be heard an unmistakable utshall be heard an unmistakable ut-terance on the part of the people, showing that they earnestly desire to eleanse and uplift our province; to introduce truth, honesty and right-cousness, which alone exait and make great a nation, and will really give us a greater Outsario, of which we may be instity wround.

That you may be abundantly successful in this effort is the earnest wish of.

Yours faithfully, d) H. S. BLAKE. Faces and figures are all important. With the first we like to meet a smile, with the latter our obligations.

Some curious glimpses into the life ion on the endowed charities in the County of London, a few of which have just been issued as parliament on sermons set by city men in olden times. That estimate varied from 5s to £1 10s. One Thomas Brightwell left a bequest for a sermon to be preached on the 5th of November every time it fell on a Sunday, the minister to get 13s 4d, the cierk 3s 4d, and the sexton 1s 4d. But David Gittin had a more modest idea of the value of a sermon in the same parish. He required two sermons for 10s, one to be preached or the secsermons set by city men in olden parish. He required two sermons for 10s, one to be preached on the second Sunday in Advent, and the other on the second Sunday in Lent. The reader got 2s, the churchwarden 2s 8d, and the poor sexton 4d for each occasion. John Ireland thought 13s 4d enough for two sermons. In 1660 John Winn left a curious bequest to the parish of St. Bennet, Paul's Wharf. A pound was set apart for an annual sermon, the text apart for an annual sermon, the text to be taken from the 5th chapter of St. John and the 27th verse. He also left enough to buy twelve penny loaves for twelve poor people of the parish who attended a sermon every Friday in the parish church. But he expected more for his pound than the annual sermon, for before and after the sermon the minister had to spend the sermon the minister had to spend an hour examining or instructing the poor people in the Christian doctrine. The most generous donor of the preacher was James Wood, who thought a sermon in St. Nicholas-Cole-Abbey was worth £1 10s every alternate year. In 1625 he bequeathed to the Company of Bowyers a sum to enable them among other sum to enable them, among other nings, to repair to the parish church chings, to repair to the parish church named, after they had sworn in their wardens, and master every second, ear, there to hear a sermon and pay the parson £1 10s, and the clerk and sexton 1s 6d each. Thus a crumb lodged in the larynx near the vocal longed in the laryllx hear the vocal cords produces violent irritation and prolonged coughing, which often results in actual pain.
