

Impurities of the Blood

Anyone whose blood is impure should read this Testimonial

Mr. Chas. Martin, Box No. 367, Kenora, Ont., writes:—"Three years ago, while working in Hamilton, Ont., I was taken sick, and no one knew what ailed me. Every bit of food I ate I vomited up and consequently I became very weak. My landlord told me that after that he thought at one time I was booked for the cemetery. Walking down street one day I happened to see Burdock Blood Bitters in a druggist's window so went in and got a bottle. Before I had taken half of it I broke out, all round my joints in sores. I showed it to my landlord and asked him what he thought of it. He told me it looked as if I had a heavy attack of chicken pox. Both he and his wife tried all they knew how to persuade me to stop taking the B.B.B., but it was no use. I had gotten so bad I thought it did not matter much whether I went under or not, so I got a second bottle and judge to my surprise to see the sores begin to disappear, and by the time I had taken three bottles I did not care for the best man in Hamilton. I am 61 years of age and am able to do a day's work with the next man, thanks to B.B.B.

dissolved stuff, and then the other. In that way, he reasoned, there would be no waste. He would get the full benefit of the powder, and it would not be necessary to wear a napkin to save his clothing from damage.

Preparing two more powders, he carried out the scheme, and it worked beautifully. When the second glass of the liquid mingled with the first in his stomach, there were doings. The stuff effervesced and spouted out of his mouth like a shower of miniature soap bubbles.

"What on earth is the matter with you?" exclaimed his wife.

Wiping the tears out of his eyes, and regarding her with sorrowful countenance, he replied:

"I am the human geyser, the wonder of the new century, and the despair of the medical and scientific world. I am the biggest idiot in St. Louis County, and I'm going to make a bee-line for a lunatic asylum before I bust. Bring me a handkerchief, please."

The Lady and the Boy.

A lady was calling at the home of a New Denver hopeful, says the New Denver (B.C.) Ledger, and, during a brief absence of the mother from the room, was entertained by the three-year-old. He had just been provided with his first pair of suspenders, was proud of them, and, boy like, wanted to tell about them.

"Yo' doesn't know what I's got, Missus Blank," said he. "I's got—I's got—" But he had forgotten the name, and could get no farther. He was not to be outdone, however, and, looking inquiringly into the lady's face, innocently asked:

"What yo' call 'em things what yo' hang yo're pants on?"

Joking a Politician.

A good joke is told on F. L. Moore, the fusion candidate for State senator, which happened at one of his meetings in the country. Before the meeting, relates the Moscow (Id.) "Mirror," some wag decorated the wall of the building behind the speaker nicely, and beneath the decoration placed a placard with the following:

"From '93 to '97 I made $18,000 in fees on mortgage foreclosures." "Down with money power." "F. L. Moore, attorney for the Northwestern & Pacific Hypotheek Bank and Lombard Mortgage Company." "I am pledged to vote for the payment of the governor's Coeur d'Alene war debt, if elected."

Whenever Mr. Moore would grow eloquent, the wag who had arranged the decoration would pull a string and expose the placard, the crowd would cheer, and the speaker thought he "had em." He failed to notice the decoration, and imagines that the audience was charmed by his eloquence.

He Did His Best.

A young lady at a summer hotel asked an artist friend who was spending his vacation there, if he would mind doing a small favor for her.

"Certainly not," he said eagerly; "what is it?"

"Thank you so much," she exclaimed gratefully. "I wish you would stop at Mrs. Gannon's little shop and get three large bone buttons, the kind with two small holes in them. They're for my new bathing suit, you know. Just tell her who I am and it will be all right. You needn't pay for them."

Now, the artist was a bachelor, and had never bought anything but collar buttons before. So on the way to the store he kept repeating the instructions that he had received. Eager to relieve his mind, he rushed up to Mrs. Gannon and reeled off this surprising speech: "I want three bone buttons for a small bathing suit with two large holes in it. Just tell me who I am and it will be all right."

An Exciting Race.

One moonlight night an old Northumbrian who had imbedded rather too freely, was going towards home at a breakneck pace with his gaze fixed upon his shadow. After going about half a mile, he stopped. "Vey, aa've often heerd tell ov folk gannin' past thorsels," he muttered, "but aa divvent believee it's true, because aa've run aal the way th' neet, an' aal be hanged if aa cud even catch up te mase!"
