

Triple Entente, the, military preparations of, 118-120
 True enemies of the German people, the, 12
 True traitors, the, 12
 Tsar, the, "supports his two accomplices, England and Germany, for booty and revenge," 7; meeting with King Edward at Reval, 8; 30; and his Ministerial Council in 1913, 81
 Turkey refuses to sign the Bryan Treaty of 1913, 191

U

Ullatein, Herr, 357
Underlying Feelings, by H. S. Chamberlain, 380
Understanding pamphlet, quoted, 63, 73
Union of States of the Hague Conferences, the, by Walter Schücking, 151
 Unionist Government, its unwearying work for peace, 198
Universal Pocket Atlas, 1915, Hickmann, 122
 Universal service, 294
 University of Berlin professors' appeal, quoted, 157

V

Venezuela incident, the, 1902-3, 56-60
 Viviani, M., 14
 Voluntary reduction of naval construction—Naval holiday, 271-274
Vorwärts' enormous daily lists of obituary notices, 293; quoted, 301n.; correspondence in, between Vorwärts—cont.

von Bethmann and the General Committee of the Pan-German Union, 351-352
Vossische Zeitung, 1913, on "The Alarmists," quoted, 359
 Voting at the second Hague Conference, 180

W

Wagner, Prof., 157
 War of conquest, an imperialistic, 4
 War of defence, a, still German opinion, 1
 War of liberation and defence a German lie, 5
 War-strength of the opposing Powers, 126-128
War—the Father of Things, 418-421; article by Rohrbach on, quoted, 418, 419
 War, the, not one of defence, 4
What would Bismarck have Done? by Count von Leyden, 314
 When is war inevitable? 104-108
Where must the War Lead Us? by Rohrbach, quoted, 423
 White, Andrew D., late American Ambassador in Berlin, Autobiography of, 151; sends letter by Dr. Holla to von Bülow as to Germany's negative attitude towards arbitration, 161
 Who provoked the European War, 10
 Wiemer, Dr., leader of the Progressive Popular Party for Greater Berlin, speech of, 148n.
 Wilamowitz-Möllendorff, Prof., 157