ARTISTIC AND PRACTICAL IDEAS FOR THE COUNTRY HOUSE.

Floral Bedrooms—A Blue and White Dining Room—An Inviting Lounging Chair—The Newer Wall Papers. Linen Tulle Hangings.

Painted furniture has been revived during the past few years in bedroom sets for the country house. Natural designs of flowers are now added as a decoration, helping to name the different sleeping rooms—the pansy chamber, nasturtium room, etc.

Dining rooms in the country are often furnished now in the white paint of colonial times. Tables and chairs

LOUNGING CHAIR FOR WARM WEATHER. are following the idea in white enamel paint, and an old set of furniture that must be refurnished may receive the new treatment in preference to the shellac and stain. In a white dining room the cool effect will be furthered with blue linen hung at the windows, a white and blue paper applied to the walls and a Scotch rug of blues and greens laid on the floor.

A lounging chair brought from the West Indies by tourists, who found it delightful for warm weather, has been imitated successfully in our own hand-made willow, with a shelf added for a cup and a glass and a pocket for slipping in a newspaper or magazine. With cushions and pillows properly adjusted the chair is almost as comfortable as a bed and picturesque from whatever angle it is seen.

The covering of the interior walls of houses out of town may be less restrained than that chosen for the city residence. Some radical departures are possible with the crown patterns that take the place of the old time frieze, the square trellis that super-sedes the diamond shaped lattice, hunting and stag scenes that follow tapestry designs, and imitations of wash goods—dimities, gingham and canvas—instead of burlap.

In one summer home where space was insufficient for the dresser and sewing machine in the family room a clever device combined both pieces of furniture. A pine board the width of the machine top was fastened to four legs that raised the board above the open works of the machine. A long rule of muslin was tacked around the top of the board, and when the machine was not in use this attachment served as a dressing table to hold brush, comb and the smaller articles for the toilet.

Cretone has held its popularity for many years as a hanging for bedroom windows and for covering furniture. Its usefulness is being lately extended into the living rooms of the summer homes, and a parlor or drawing room is often seen with flowered coverings on chairs and sofas.

Hand printed linens make artistic covering for upholstered summer furniture. New ways for using linen tulle are constantly being discovered. It has been adopted for furniture, either upholstered or as slip covers; for window or door hangings, for book rack and photograph covering and for bedstead and bolster covers.

A picture screen can find a place in almost any room in the summer home. The upper part of a screen of the kind is fitted with glass in each panel to protect the picture, the framework holding both together.

In a home situated on a much travelled, dusty highway the furniture is of necessity put into slip covers for three months of the year—Delineator.

Household Wrinkles.

Extra care should be taken not to get chilled when overtired.

Do you ever think of a "color scheme" for the kitchen? Why not? A "delft kitchen," blue and white, is very attractive.

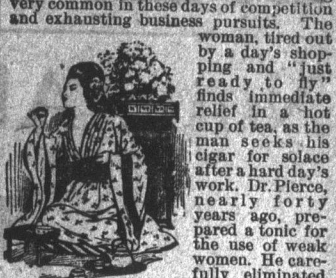

To extract grease spots from leather rub softly with flannel dipped in ether.

No more soggy pie crust. Sprinkle the bottom and side crusts of the pie with finely grated breadcrumbs. They will not be noticed in the fruit and mince pies.

To keep cheese from becoming hard wrap it in a cloth moistened with vinegar.

Avoid the dark circle around the poles of hard boiled eggs by putting them to cook in cold water and allowing them to boil slowly fifteen to twenty minutes after the water comes to the boiling point.

The use of stimulants to spur up a tired and worn-out nervous system is becoming very common in these days of competition and exhausting business pursuits.

The woman, tired out by a day's shopping and "just ready to drop," finds immediate relief in a hot cup of tea, as the man seeks his cigar for solace after a hard day's work. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, nearly forty years ago, prepared a tonic for the use of weak women. He carefully eliminated any harmful or injurious substances from its composition, excluding alcohol and narcotic drugs, and only incorporated such drugs as his long experience had proved to be useful in relieving woman's ills. Its success was immediate and remarkable, and it stands to-day as the foremost remedy for diseases of women. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription not only cures, but it relieves pelvic congestion and inflammation and gives tone and vigor to the organs.

"I want to tell you of the great improvement in my health since taking your 'Favorite Prescription,'" says Mrs. R. Jones, of Forest, N. C. "When I began its use I was a nervous wreck, and could not get on my feet. I noted a great improvement before the first bottle was all used. I felt like a new person. Can ride horseback and take all kinds of exercise and am well and happy. For constipation, the true, scientific cure is Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. Mild, harmless and sure. No other pill can compare with them."

THE PARIS CAFE.

It is the Frenchman's Outdoor Home.

For an hour or two of the day the cafe is the Parisian's outdoor home. There he gets all the morning and afternoon papers. There if he likes he may write his business letters and private correspondence. Many a "client" writes all or most of his correspondence at his little marble topped table. The garçon brings him the black portfolio stocked with letter paper and envelopes and pens and ink. Notre client may use up as much paper and envelopes as he pleases. These are provided by the staff of waiters at their own charge, not by M. le Patron, the landlord—a curious custom. Notre client is welcome to sit there all day long over his newspapers and correspondence and his glass of bordeaux or his "chateau" (perhaps with a nip of rum in it when the weather is cold). The counter is reserved for waiters, and for M. le Patron's wife or daughter or lady clerk, who sits behind it receiving orders.

The "habitués," "nos clients" or passing customers are comfortably seated at their neat, scrupulously clean little tables. Outside the chairs and little tables are arranged in rows, three, four, five, six deep. There "nos clients" sit at their ease underneath the broad awning when the sun is ablaze. Winter drives "notre client" indoors, though out he will come again on the slightest temptation from the weather, for your Parisian loves fresh air, loves to gaze over his light bordeaux or his "bock" at the tide of human life as it sweeps by. On the inner half of the pavement beneath the awnings, behind the trees, along the miles of boulevard, sit in their thousands in spring, summer and autumn the customers of the Paris cafe.—London News.

SHAM ARMOR.

Story of a Once Famous Vessel in the Russian Navy.

Among the anecdotes told by Colonel P. A. Wellesley in his book, "With the Russians in Peace and War," is one concerning a once famous vessel of the Russian navy. When the ironclad Peter the Great, from which so much was expected, was in course of construction the deputy acting minister of marine, on being suddenly asked by the czar what progress the ship in question was making, lost his head and replied that she would be ready for sea in three weeks. The emperor expressed great satisfaction at the news and said that he would shortly inspect the vessel at Cronstadt. It so happened, however, that far from being ready for sea, the ship was still in dock and that her armor plates, which were being rolled in England, had not even been delivered. In view of the emperor's threatened visit all useful work on board the ship was stopped, and hundreds of men were set to work night and day at the erection of cabins, the covering of the ship with sham armor, the erection of wooden turrets and the like.

"When the Duke of Edinburgh came to Russia I told his royal highness this story," continues Colonel Wellesley, "which he was most reluctant to believe. I told the duke, however, that he would soon have an opportunity of judging for himself at a naval review, and I predicted that, as he was a naval officer and therefore sure to detect anything wrong, some excuse would be made to prevent his going on board that particular ship. The duke expressed to a Russian naval officer his desire to visit that ship, but objections were raised to his doing so.

"Then the emperor, noticing that something was wrong, ordered a boat to be lowered immediately to take his royal highness on board. After the review the duke told me that I was wrong about the turrets being made of wood, as he had placed his hand on one of them, and it was made of canvas and yielded to the pressure of his fingers."

A SWIMMING HORSE.

The Proper Way to Ride the Animal in the Water.

A military journal of Paris gives this account of the way a horse should not be ridden and of the way he should be ridden in swimming a stream:

To begin with, it must not be supposed that a horse always swims naturally and with ease the moment he is off his feet in the water. The animal under such circumstances has but one notion—to keep his head out of the water and to lift his shoulders as high as possible.

In doing this his hind quarters sink, and he finds himself almost standing upon his tail, or at least in a position three-quarters erect.

In such a position, if the rider draws upon the reins or throws his body back in the least, the animal's hind quarters will sink more and more, his body will take a vertical position, and, beating the water uselessly with his forefeet, he will finally sink.

As soon as the horse gets off his feet in the water let the rider grasp a handful of the animal's mane, leaning at the same time well forward upon his shoulders, but without touching the horse's head. The rider's knees should be pressed tightly to the horse's sides; otherwise he is likely to be swept off by the water.

This is the only position which will enable a man to remain in the saddle and the horse to swim at the same time.

The reins must be held loosely and each well to one side. If the horse is to be guided in the water give the loose rein a little jerk in the direction desired. But it is in the highest degree important never to pull on the reins.

Hair and Intellect.

"Did you ever notice," asked an observant woman, "how many intellectual people have Auburn hair? At the theater the other night I don't remember noticing a single reddish head of hair among the hundreds of uncovered heads spread out before me. They were the well-coiffed heads of the average nice woman. The next night I attended a meeting of a very learned society at which there were perhaps 200 or 300 of the brainiest thinkers and educators around town, and without turning my eyes I picked out at least a dozen Auburn haired women in the few seats in front of me. Now, that was more than a coincidence. It argues something for the possessor of Auburn hair, I should think."

Curious Paradox About Hands.

It is a curious paradox that, as a rule, the large handed man loves small things, details, exquisitely finished objects and is microscopic in his tendencies, while he whose hands are small delights in colossal of every sort, loving ostentation and display, immense houses, majestic estates and all else that is upon a great scale. His handwriting is large and perhaps full of flourishes, while that of the large handed man is small and precise.

Simply a Lottery.

Dr. Phaker—Take this prescription. It will either kill or cure you. Patient—But suppose it kills me? Dr. Phaker—Nothing ventured, nothing gained. My motto is, "No cure, no pay," so I'm taking a chance as well as you.

In Time of Trial.

Daughter (looking up from her novel)—Papa, in time of trial what do you suppose brings the most comfort to a man? Papa—An acquittal. I should think.

The soul of man is infinite in what it covets.—Ben Jonson.

Disraeli as a Dandy.

A contemporary of Disraeli in his memoirs records this impression of that famous dandy's personal appearance: Usually he wore a slate colored velvet coat, lined with satin; purple trousers, with a gold braid down the outside seam; a scarlet waistcoat, long lace ruffles falling down to the tips of his fingers; white gloves, with brilliant rings rippling down over his shoulders. When he rose in the house he wore a bottle green frock coat, with a white waistcoat, collarless, and a capful supply of gold chains.

YOUR EYES

Are surely worth more to you than the price of a pair of glasses. If you value your eyes have them properly fitted at once. Delay and your eyes may become so bad that no glasses will help them, then you will regret it the rest of your days. This is true every word of it. Do not trust travelling Opticians and peddlars to fit you with glasses. They get your money and you get the experience. This we know because it is told us by people that come to us for glasses after having bought of the Spectacle peddler. Our Optician is a graduate of the Detroit Optical college and is fully equipped with all the modern conveniences. We will examine your eyes free of charge, at the sign of the Big Clock.
