THURSDAY, JUNE 11.

LIBERALS VOTED AGAINST CANADA.

The Liberal party was given an opening on Thursday, when the Grand Trunk Pacific bill was up for consideration, to make it imperative upon the company to purchase all possible supplies in Canada. Mr. R. A. Pringle, Conservative M. P. for Cornwall and Stormont, submitted an amendment to the bill, by which he sought to add a clause making it binding upon the Grand Trunk Pacific to use Canadian made supplies. He called attention to the fact that while the Canadian Pacific bought all its coal in national markets, the Grand Trunk dealt with foreigners. Every Conservative member of the railway committee voted for Mr. Pringle's proposal, but a large section of the Liberal party, headed by Hon. A. G. Blair, voted it down. Thus a chance of striking a vigorous blow for Canadian industries was lost. It was another case of placing private opinions before the welfare of the country. With such a clause in their charter, the Grand Trunk Pacific would have been compelled to spend millions among our manufacturers and this would mean employment for thousands.

THE ROYAL COMMISSION.

Apart from any prejudices of partisanship, every patriotic Canadian will feel that the report of the royal commission on the Gagey charges has gone too far. It will be a positive blow to the respect with which the bench in Canada has been regarded, and rightfully regarded, hitherto. Above and beyond the mere political considerations of the case this is to be deplored.

When all is said and done the royal commission was appointed to perform one duty on behalf of the public. That duty was to answer the question, "Where did the money come from? The money was there. Its presence and existence was one fact in the case which could not be got around or gainsayed. Like the corpse in a murder case, it was there and the one chief duty of the judges was to discover where it came from and how it came to be there. In that duty the commission lamentably disappointed the public. If the sweeping finding of the judges is correct there is no alternative of the public but to believe that the judges consider not only that the Government is blameless, but that a disgraceful conspiracy was hatched; that from some source—certainly not Mr. Gagey's bank account—a large sum of money was forthcoming around which was to be woven a tale of perjury to implicate honorable and innocent men—ministers of the crown. There was no two ways about it.

Now, what is the position of the judges to-day before the people of the Province? They failed to find where the money came from. They declare that they positively found where it did not come from, and, without going further, they confiscate the cash, and denounce Gagey as not to be believed on oath. If they had gone further and performed their duty—if they had found a little of evidence to justify the obvious inference of their judgment that the money was supplied as part of a conspiracy of perjury to defame an innocent cabinet there might be a reason for the sweeping inference which amounts to an indictment, but there was absolutely nothing to base it on. On the contrary, they throw aside the evidence of Gagey and those who corroborated him; also the circumstantial facts arising from the desperate position of the Government, the peculiar dealings between a minister of the crown and the member for Manitoulin—even the "try to forget some things" incident is brushed aside, and from the mass of evidence presented, the judges, without ever having reached the kernel of the case—the discovery of where that damning bundle of bank notes came from—take upon themselves to declare that Stratton and the Government are completely innocent; that Gagey is a fraud and a perjurer and that the cash shall be confiscated. In view of their failure to perform what was entrusted to them, every fair-minded man will feel that they have gone too far—that the rehabilitation of the ministers who appointed them is altogether too complete. If their failure to find where the money came from was unavoidable, then cautious judges would at least hesitate to condemn the accused though they might report the case against the accused as not proven. In the face of the Shannon-Sullivan revelations and a dozen other facts which the public is seized of, if the judges were not, the public verdict on the judgment will be, to say the least of it, that the finding was injudiciously sweeping.—Ottawa Citizen.

THE REAL JUDGES.

The right of final judgment rests with the people, and the report of these commissioners is by no means conclusive. An equal right of criticism and judgment may be claimed by the humblest elector in the most remote settlement in Ontario. The fact chiefly to be deplored is that the report of the commissioners may be interpreted by extreme Liberal partisans as giving judicial sanction to practices which are a disgrace to the state.

SOCIETY.

HAPPY EVENT.
A very pretty ceremony was performed by Rev. G. H. Cobblehead, in Park St. Methodist Church at 12 o'clock noon yesterday, in the wedding of Miss Nellie Gammage, eldest daughter of Mr. E. C. Gammage, of this city, to Rev. J. H. Osterhout.

The bride looked very pretty, as did also the bridesmaid, Miss Alma Gammage, sister of the bride. Rev. R. A. McCormick assisted the groom. The groom's present to the bride was a Gerhard Heintzman piano. To the bridesmaid he gave a beautiful locket and chain, and to the pretty little flower girl he gave a bracelet. The happy couple left for Chicago and other western cities on an extended tour, amid the good wishes of a host of friends.

Frank Phelps played Mendelssohn's wedding march at the ceremony. The gifts were many and costly. Mrs. Osterhout will be much missed by her many friends in this city, especially in the Sunday school and Epworth League work.

HELP IT ALONG

Jack Pleasance, proprietor of the Grand Central Hotel, is authority for the statement that the hotelmen of the Maple City will give $150 toward a celebration to be held in Chatham any holiday after the first of July. Besides giving this donation they will give any such project their utmost aid and attention.

Patti's Peculiarities.
"Mme. Patti, the famous singer, who will tour again in Canada and the Republic this year," said Marcus Mayer, her former manager, to a reporter, "is not a woman of caprices. When she does not sing, it is because her voice is not in condition."

"On the day of a concert she does not speak to anybody, and in conversing with her on these days she will either nod her head or shake it in reply to questions. "If she should have a crying spell, she will be unable to sing. Only once during my management of her last tour do I remember this to have happened. She has a woman companion who has been with her for the past thirty years, and on one of our trips Mme. Patti was so upset by her companion she shed tears and could not sing that evening."

"Mme. Patti sings only twice a week and is more careful of her voice than she would be of a child if she had one. She has for a pet a small dog that she takes with her on her travels."

Mr. Hare's Favorite Stories.
The late Augustus W. Hare, the English writer, used to tell a story of Dean Stanley, who was a cousin of his. Stanley was proverbially absentminded. On one occasion he was driving in Sicily with a friend. It was bitterly cold. Stanley had his traveling bag with him and decided to put on an extra wrap. Roars of laughter from the street urchins awoke Stanley at last to the fact that he had put on a nightshirt over his coat. Mr. Hare was fond, too, of repeating a story of Khedive Ismail of Egypt. Nassau Senior was to be received by his highness, who had been warned that Senior kept a diary. "Oh, yes, I quite understand," said Ismail. "M. Senior is the trumpet and I am to blow down it." Every story teller has his favorite schoolboy's answer. Mr. Hare's was this: "A lie is an abomination unto the Lord, but a very present help in time of trouble."

Women always hold to a pet idea until it is worn down to a point so fine that it cannot be seen.

All men may be born equal, but they don't stay that way long.

Your Next Suit!

Just a few words about it. The suits we are showing for this season are smart, handsome, and decidedly well-bred. They are CLOTHES OF QUALITY, for they contain every good quality known to the tailoring art, moderate prices or suit luxury.

YOUR SUIT IS HERE.
The best tailoring talent in the land has built these suits according to the latest custom model. Shapely shoulders, narrow collar lapels, drapey with swing and dash are hard things to describe in words, but easily shown in the garments.

To buy the suit you'd like to wear will cost less money here than you think. If you'll stop in for a look, we'll suggest anything that we know, where you will buy your next suit.

Special Prices. Special Qualities.

There are 50 great soloists in Ringling Brothers' famous military concert band and their selections, accompanied by a mammoth 68-stop cathedral pipe organ has never been equaled. They will show in Chatham on June 18th.

Two lads, one 12 years old the other 14, appeared before Judge Houston yesterday morning to answer to a charge of swimming inside the city limits. The boys were told to return Saturday, when their case would be investigated.

A citizen, who went down on the moonlight excursion the other evening, calls attention to the manure piles along the river front. Their noxious odors and unsightly appearance make it very disgusting for patrons of the boat. The Health Inspector should get after those responsible for this state of affairs.

The rarest of all wild beasts is the rhinoceros and the only one in captivity is in the menagerie of Ringling Bros. World's Greatest Shows. Naturalists estimate this specimen as beyond price, and scientists, explorers and students have come from all parts of the world to inspect the curious beast. The educational value of a visit to this menagerie cannot be overstated. They will show in Chatham on June 18th.

Pat Doolin was the second sidewalk cyclist to get in trouble since the $2 rate was cancelled. He went to the police station, pleaded guilty, paid the cost of a dollar fine and escaped after being marked to the extent of $3.75. James Doolin caught a young fellow riding on the sidewalk on Park street. When he saw that James was wise the cyclist quietly picked up his wheel and chased across lots and escaped.
