GO IT, NIGGERS!
BY J. M. DUNBAR MOODIE.

Go it, Niggers!—stand your ground!
Friends in need are ever found.
Beneath your skins of swarthy hue,
But show your hearts are firm and true,
Trust to your cause—your knives and triggers,
The North will help you,—go it, Niggers!

Tell me not of white men's laws:
Liberty's a glorious cause:
You have hands to work or fight:
God made the black man like the white,
And he will ever help the right.

Trust in Him—your knives and triggers—
And God will help you,—go it, Niggers!

Slaves of toil,—and slaves of lust!
Tread your tyrants in the dust,—
Debased and trampled though you be,
Tell them, God made all men free:
Their birth-right,—Hope and Liberty!

Trust to your cause—your knives and triggers—
The just will help you,—go it, Niggers!

Go it, Niggers!—stand your ground,
Freemen still are foremost found.
Would you wives and children see
Bless'd with new-born liberty?
Then shed your blood to set them free.

Trust to your cause—your knives and triggers—
For God will help you,—go it, Niggers!

What care I though brothers,—friends,
Hold you for their selfish ends?
Though deposed still your cause disown,
Grasp your rifles,—take your own.

Trust to your cause—your knives and triggers—
The brave will help you,—go it, Niggers!

What is man,—when Freedom's fled?
A tomb that wraps the living dead,
Thousand years ago while hope remains,
Fight for your own,—not tyrant's gains:
In Death—or Life—you burst your chains,
Trust to your cause—your knives and triggers—
And God will help you,—go it, Niggers!

Reminiscence of Fulton's 1st Steam Voyage
AND RECEIPT OF HIS FIRST PASSENGER MONEY.

Some twenty years since, I formed a travelling acquaintance upon a steamboat on the Hudson River, with a gentleman, who on that occasion related to me some incidents of the first voyage of the Fulton to Albany, in his steamboat, the Clermont, which I have never met with elsewhere. The gentleman's name I have lost; but I urged him at the time to publish what he related—how however, so far, he has never done.

I chanced, said my narrator, to be at Albany on business, when Fulton arrived there in his unheard-of craft, which every body felt so much interest in seeing. Being ready to leave, and hearing that this craft was to return to New York, I repaired on board, and inquiring for Mr. Fulton, I was referred to the cabin, and there found a plain gentleman, wholly alone, and engaged in writing.

"Mr. Fulton, I presume."

"Yes, sir."

"Do you return to New York with this boat?"

"We shall try to get back, sir."

"Can I have a passage down?"

"You can take your chance with us."

I inquired the amount to be paid, and after a moment's hesitation, a sum, I think six dollars, was named. The amount in coin I laid in his open hand; and with an eye fixed upon it, he remained so long motionless that I supposed there might be a mis-count, and said to him, "Is that right, sir?" This roused him as from a kind of reverie; and as he looked up at me, the big tear was brimming in his eyes, and his voice faltered as he said, "Excuse me, sir; but memory was busy as I contemplated this, the first pecuniary reward I have ever received for all my exertions in adapting steam to navigation. I would gladly commemorate the occasion over a bottle of wine with you, but really I am too poor even for that, just now; yet I trust we may meet again, when this will not be so."

Some four years after this, when the Clermont had been greatly improved, and two new boats made, making Fulton's fleet three boats regularly plying between New York and Albany, I took passage in one of these for the latter city. The cabin in that day was below, and as I walked its length to and fro, I saw I was very closely observed by one I supposed a stranger. Soon, however, I recalled the features of Mr. Fulton; but without disclosing this, I continued my walk and patiently waited the result. At length, in passing his seat, our eyes met, when he sprang to his feet, and eagerly seizing my hand, exclaimed, "I knew it must be you, for your features have never escaped me; and although I am still far from rich, yet I may venture that bottle goes." It was ordered; and during its discussion, Mr. F. ran rapidly but vividly over his experience of the world's coldness and sneers, and of the hopes, fears, disappointments, and difficulties, that were scattered through his whole career of discovery, up to the very point of his final, crowning triumph, at which he so fully felt he had at last arrived. "And in reviewing all these," said he, "I have again and again recalled the occasion and the incident of our first interview, at Albany; and never have I done so, without its renewing in my mind the vivid emotion it originally caused. That seemed, and still does seem, to me, the turning point in my destiny—the dividing lines between light and darkness in my career upon earth; for it was the first actual recognition of my usefulness to my fellow men."

Such, then, were the events coupled with the very dawn of steam navigation—a dawn to be still recalled by many; and such, as Fulton there related them, were the early appreciations, by the world, of a discovery which has invaded all waters, causing a revolution which has almost literally brought the very ends of the earth in contact.

HOW WIVES ARE CALIFORNIANIZED.
Just see how the wicked men induce their wives to let them go to the gold diggings by working upon their innocent love of display:—

There is a wicked man I know—
He coaxed his wife to let him go;
But this is the way he did it, though,
To get to California:
Says he—"I'll send you lumps of gold,
Much more than your two hands can hold,
In your own carriage you'll be rolled—"
Says she—"Now Jim, you know, my dear,
I cannot live without you here;
But one's own carriage sounds so queer—
You may go to California!"

There is a lesson in each flower,
A story in each stream and bower;
In every herb on which you tread,
Are written words which, rightly read,
Will lead you from earth's fragrant sod,
To hope, and holiness, and God.

The following curious specimen of letter writing was found somewhere by somebody, if we have not forgotten, and brought to us to decipher. We refer the matter to the reader, premising that it was evidently written by some affectionate father in the country, to a dutiful son in town:—

"My dear son I am much obliged 2 u 4 the CDs u cent us last 2sday by LN. BB.—I expect the KN pepper with thanks—the slugger kum a little 2 late. S i hed jest 2 borrr haf a kufpul v Missus ON. The T is xLent—bettern that we got of MRE U muther tells me 2 thank u 4 the OPM. It makes Her nerves feel very EZY. Ur sister MA. sez sheel much obliged 4 the RTfishals—thinks them very queryous and sez she shel ware um 2 church 2morrer. Good by. Ur father John Smith."

Only One Journey through Life.—James Simpson relates the following, which may serve to fix salutary thought on the readers' mind:—When I was a young man, there lived in our neighborhood a Presbyterian, who was universally reported to be a very liberal man, and uncommonly upright in his dealings. When he had any of the produce of his farm to dispose of, he made it an invariable rule to give good measure—over good, rather more than could be required of him. One of his friends observing his frequently doing so, questioned him why he did it, told him he gave too much, and said it would not be to his advantage. Now, my friends, mark the answer of the Presbyterian. "God Almighty has permitted me but one journey through the world, and when gone I cannot return to rectify mistakes." Think of this, friends, but one journey through the world!

Rivalry in France.—The news from abroad is as uninteresting as usual.—France is as busy as ever with intrigues and balloons, and it is difficult to say which is more particularly "the man of the situation"—Louis Napoleon or Monsieur Poievin. This latter gentleman is getting so amazingly popular that really his chance of the Presidency is by no means a bad one. Last Sunday, he ascended in his balloon from the Champ de Mars, and from the bottom of a car fastened to that in which he himself was placed were suspended by the shoulders three young women in gauze wings! And on next Sunday Madame P. is to mount the skies on a white bull, in the character of Europa! What are Louis Napoleon's sausages and champagne breakfasts to this! Be sure that the universal cry will soon be not Vive l'Empereur, but Vive Poievin, and really it is impossible to determine which is the greater hero.—London Cor. of Colonist, Oct. 13.

Linguistic.—"Good mawning, Miss Primp—how's your health since you took the wataw cuaw?" "Much lettaw, I thank you. Maw says I'm so much stoutaw and freshaw, she shall send me again next summaw."

"Friend Jones, prepare yourself to hear bad news."

"My gracious!—speak—what is it?"

"Your wife is dead!"

"Oh dear, how you frightened me I thought my house was burned down!"

Silence.—Silence is the softest response for all the contradictions that arise from impertinence, vulgarity or envy.

What's in a name?—At the Westboro' Fair they had a cow named "Jenny Lind," and a calf named "Barnum."

Sin is never at a stay: if we do not retreat from it, we shall advance in it, and the further on we go the more we have to come back.

Religion is equally the basis of private virtue and public faith? of the happiness of the individual, and of the prosperity of the nation.

True Bill.—Don't believe that a lawyer is any wiser because he coxks a quizzing glass to his eye; or that a Jurymen isn't keen because he wears a home-made coat.

The human heart rises against oppression, and is soothed by gentleness, as the wave of the ocean rises in proportion to the violence of the winds, and sinks with the breeze into mildness and serenity.

Funny—Very—if true.—People say that in the Far West, caterpillars are found, from the heads of which plants sprout, which grow three inches in length. On this principle some of our Parliamentary sap-heads, would grow most excellent greens.

A worthy Benedict, residing at Preston, being suspicious that his "better half," had a predilection for "strong waters," and observing her place a bottle in the cupboard, in order to disappoint her, emptied the contents into a glass and qualified them off. The expected nectar was turpentine.

A man recently committed suicide off the Feather River, in California, when a coroner's jury was empaneled, heard the evidence and brought in a verdict that the man was a "d—d fool!"

"I stand upon the soil of freedom," cried a stump orator, "No," exclaimed his shoemaker, "you stand in a pair of boots that have never been paid for."

ATTACHMENT.
County of Waterloo. BY virtue of a Writ of Attachment, issued out of Her Majesty's Court of Queen's Bench at Toronto, to me directed, against the estate, real as well as personal, of Elijah Nellis, an absconding or concealed debtor, at the suit of Jordan Charles, for the sum of Fifty Pounds for debt, and the sum of Five Pounds for costs, I have seized all the estate, real and personal, of the said Elijah Nellis return within the jurisdiction of the Court from whence the said Writ issued, and put in bail to the action, or cause the claim of the said Jordan Charles to be discharged, within three calendar months from the first day of the publication of this Notice in the Canada Gazette, all the estate, real or personal, of the said Elijah Nellis, or as much thereof as may be necessary, will be held liable for the payment, benefit, and satisfaction of the claim of the said plaintiff, as well as for the payment, benefit, or satisfaction of the claim or claims of such other plaintiff or plaintiffs as shall or may take proceedings against the property and effects of the said Elijah Nellis, within six months from the issuing of the above-mentioned Writ of Attachment, in virtue of which this Notice is published.
