

THE GRAY-DORT CAR

For the past ten days we have been putting the Gray-Dort Car to a series of tests and have proved her capabilities. The power is all that can be desired. As a hill climber this car will delight you. There is no better lighting and starting system known than the Westinghouse, and that is what the Dort has.

The Gray-Dort is medium-priced with all the conveniences of a high-priced car.

We have secured the services of a first-class demonstrator and will be pleased to show you this up-to-the-mark car.

Cupid Routs Highlander

It may be all right to leave a sweetheart behind the first time a soldier goes to the trenches, but not the second time, according to George Campbell, a kilted Highlander from the Gordon and McLean Highlanders, who was married to Miss Jessie Brown in New York on the eve of his departure for the West. He left his fiancée once before to go to the British Fighting Front.

Some Helps For the Gardener

"Will you say in your column whether or not pruning potatoes will help them? Ours are about two feet high and we have thought of cutting them back."

Nothing is to be gained by cutting back the potato tops. It has been characteristic of the potato plants this year to grow very tall and spindly, but there is no reason to expect that the crop will be increased by cutting them back. All the foliage is needed for the proper development of the tubers.

"My Swiss chard blights just before it is ready for use. Also the buds on the potatoes fall off just before they open. What do we need to do?"
From this sample of the Swiss chard that received the writer would say that the plants were seriously infected with lice, and also to some extent with mildew. Probably the lice caused the most serious trouble, and the plants should be immediately and thoroughly sprayed with a tobacco preparation which can be obtained in small bottles at the seed stores, care being taken to have it reach the underside of the leaves. The lice must be killed. They cannot be poisoned. Arsenate of lead has no effect on lice. The mildew can be kept in check by the use of powdered sulphur, which is inexpensive and can be obtained at the seed store. It is easily applied with a cheesecloth bag, being dusted onto the plants, preferably when they are wet with dew. With prompt action the Swiss chard will soon recover. The Lighter Side of Life

Treason.
First cow—It is going to be an awful summer for us.
Second cow—Yes, it will probably be treason to kick the farm help.
Why?

"England will soon be a republic if she changes her money to dollars and cents."
"Why?"
"How's that?"
"Have to give up her sovereigns."

He Did, But.
"I thought you turned over a new leaf."
"Well, the wretched thing blew back."

One Woman and Another.
Flora—All her clothes are made over in Paris!
Dora—Yes, made-over, I'm sure!

Sympathy.
"I like spring."
"I don't care for work any time, but it is only in spring that I find that attitude viewed tolerantly."

The magistrate (to the diminutive prisoner)—There is no use your denying that you struck the policeman and that you were drunk.
The prisoner (looking at the big policeman)—Is this the policeman I struck, Your Worship?

The magistrate—Yes.
The prisoner—Then I must have been drunk.

Her Supposition.
Mr. Goodleigh—Her age really surprised me; she doesn't look twenty-eight, does she?
Miss Snapper—Not now, but I suppose she did once.

Good Policy.
"I never interfere with other people's affairs."
"No! I stopped that years ago, when I checked up and found that all the money I had ever made came from minding my own business."

The Meanest.
Burke—He's the meanest man in town.
Smirks—And why?
Bprks—I told him I bossed my wife and he went and told her.

Selling Caste for Pelf.
There is a small shoeshine boy who is my friend and confidant. The other day, when a bigger and better dressed boy passed, my friend pointed him out with a disdainful thumb.
"Dat boy," he remarked, "has gone to de big city. And he used to be de lousiest shiner in de park."
"What," I inquired, "is he doing now?"
"Gone to de big city," my friend insisted, "learning to be a plumber."

Up-to-Date.
She—He stole the livery of heaven to serve the devil.
He—Livery nothing! He made his get away in a six cylinder.

Too Modern.
She—You don't hear these good old fashioned hymns sung any more at church.
He—I guess you are right. The congregation broke down last Sunday in singing Old "Hundred".
She—What was the trouble?
He—The organist tried to rag it by playing it fifty-fifty.

Hubbubs. That solemn household of yours seems the personification of carelessness. I suppose she never breaks anything.
Subbubs—No, she has been here nearly a month now, and hasn't even cracked a smile.

GERMANY SEES U. S. INEFFICIENT

Liberty Loan Response Called Meagre as Compared to Effort Expended.

Washington, July 26.—According to German press reports cabled to official circles here, Germany may look with complaisance towards America's participation in the war for several well defined reasons, which are:

The Liberty Loan was successful only because of propaganda and the extraordinary inducements offered by the banks to the public. American women are being used in the flying corps, and other American women are donning uniforms and being taught to use firearms.

American troops already in France are willing home asking that no more troops be sent because of food shortage.

An important part of Pershing's force is made up of laborers only, who are to repair railroads.

The text of an extraordinary article along this line which appeared in the Vossische Zeitung follows:

"In connection with America's economical preparations attention may be called to the fact that the figures of the result of the Liberty Loan seem without importance in proportion to all used means of propaganda. The Liberty Loan finally succeeded because the banks granted loans to the general public at extraordinary favorable terms. Consequently the last moments brought a great many subscriptions.

Scott at Uniformed Women.

"It is significant for the American conception of war that several women succeeded in being accepted for service in the Flying Corps; in one case a woman was even accepted by the Coast Artillery to have charge of signalling. Department stores and other large business houses, as a joke of advertising, put their many thousands of female employees into uniforms and train them in the use of firearms. For an explanation they point to the possibility of these female armies having to maintain order all over the country. All German-American women are suspected and the remainder of the population is systematically incensed against them.

"Meanwhile American serving in France are writing home letters in which they express bitter disappointment and warm against further transport of American troops unless America makes lasting and sure arrangements about the food proposition; for France, they say, is facing starvation because of her inability to plough her fields; it is much more important, they continue, to send transports of agricultural laborers in order to take care of the soil of France.

Pershing's Force Discouraged.

"By the way, even now an important part of Pershing's divisions consists of laborers only; so-called pioneer regiments belong to the division. They are nothing else but railroad laborers only, enlisted to rebuild the destroyed railroads of France. An interesting detail is the fact that the American troops carry many well trained dogs who are to attack straggling patrols.

A telegram to the State Department reports that persons who have recently been in Germany state that Germany lacks 600,000 tons of wheat to last to the middle of August, when the harvest is gathered. The military governor at Allenstein, Eastern Prussia, issued a notice that there would be a great lack of bread and wheat from June to August. Orders were issued to rush the cutting of wheat. The harvest prospects are reported to be good in western Germany only.

German Food Shortage Worse.

It is also reported that the food situation is appreciably worse during the past three months. From another quarter it is reported that the tension between Austria-Hungary and Germany is extreme to the extent that internment camps are opened in Germany for suspected Austrians.

It is believed in this quarter that there will be no revolution in Germany. The Emperor's popularity is steadily diminishing, and even the nobility will be glad to get rid of the Hohenzollerns, but there is no chance of an uprising because of military discipline.

He believes there is no chance of reducing Germany to her knees by starvation, but that the want of war materials of all kinds will make it impossible for Germany to last through another winter. Twenty million marks worth of oysters have been imported from Holland for the use of troops and hospitals, though nurses in many hospitals have been bribed to sell supplies of these to outsiders.

The provision of the Oregon prohibition law forbidding residents to manufacture wine for their own use has been described as "extreme legislation" and "barbaric and drastic," but nevertheless constitutional, by Supreme Justice T. A. McBride of the Oregon Supreme Court.
