POLITICAL NOTES.

Our opposition newspaper friends amuse themselves with what may be called political nine pins. Number one starts a "rumor," as to something the local government is going to do. It is always an invention, pure and simple. Then number two says that number one has said so and so; whereupon numbers three and four state that so and so is the case. Then number two says the plan has miscarried, and numbers one, three and four the prospect of its early triumph never treat the public to many columns about the weakness, cowardness, or whatever you like, of the government in not carrying out their alleged intention. We have summer, the latest instance being in connection with the vacancies in Westmor-

The other papers named by the Sun were either already in opposition or are not in opposition. Among other so called changes, which are quoted as indicating outbursts of public virtue, is that of the Gleaner, and this is enough of itself to dispose of the whole of our contemporary's article. If the Sun wants some refreshing reading, let it turn to what it and its that sheet supported the government.

The Woodstock Press must have a large by the character of the rumors it serves

Does the Press endorse the "no Irish need apply" card upon which the St. John six were elected? Any body can make up a ridiculous story; but it is another matter to defend a position, and we should dearly like to see our Woodstock contemporary try its hand at showing in what way the Hanington-Stockton-Gregory combination is to be

The Maple Leaf does the Sun up very sharply for alleging that it had withdrawn its support from the local government. It says: "We say it calmly and with due deference to the undoubted ability of the Sun's editorials, that if they were less audacious and more accurate they would wield much greater influence over its readers, both friends and opponents. In the end there is nothing to be gained by a wilful distortion of facts. The Sun knows very well that the Maple Leaf has not changed its attitude towards Mr. Blair yet seeks cunningly to convey a contrary impression, and what may be true in this case may be true in the case of other papers upon which the Sun has passed its

The Carleton Sentinel does not often hit out straight from the shonlder, but it does so at the Sun and its tribe for their vilification of Mr. Blair and the local government, and expresses the belief that the future will fully justify the confidence which it and other friends of the attorney general have in his political integrity.

To the Heirs, Executors, Administrators of Assigns of Andrew Mouat (or Mowat), late of the Parish of Douglas, in the County of York, Farmer, deceased, and Elizabeth his widow, and all others whom it may concern:

sent to jail a few days ago for resisting the police. It was inconvenient for him, as he was preparing to get married, and the appointed day would arrive before the end of his imprisonment. Most men, in similar circumstances, would have postponed the happy day, but Charley was not to be balked of his purpose by a little thing like imprisonment. The day came on Tuesday, the maiden (Miss Annie De Grace) was on hand also, likewise the Rev. Mr. Harrison, and the ceremony was performed. It was, to use a contemporary's stereotyped headline, "a very pretty wedding."

John McNabb, a farmer residing on the Bay side, about three miles from St. Andrews, committed suicide last Thursday night. He took a dose of paris green, which resulted in his death at that time.
