Governor Formally Inaugurates Celebration—Speeches of His Excellency, Archbishop Howley, Rev. Mr. Stacey, Canon Smith, Rev. Mr. Bartlett and Mr. Seymour—The Naval Review—His Excellency Opens the Exhibition—Torchlight Procession on the Harbor and Illuminations

Special to Evening Telegram.
HARBOR GRACE, Yesterday.
The Fiona with Governor Williams and suite arrived at noon, arrangements were then completed to land at 2 p.m. Shortly before that hour the launch was seen to leave the H. M. S. Brilliant with a barge in tow filled with marines and bluejackets under command of the Captain. They landed at public wharf and formed guard of honour. Sharp at 2 p.m. the Governor accompanied by Lady Williams, Private Secretary Fitzherbert and A. D. C. and several others landed. The wife and daughter of Captain were also present. Governor Williams was received in State by the Executive of Committee and also by a squad of police, the band playing "God Save The King." Archbishop Howley, with Bishop March and Monsignor Roache, with Canons Noel and Smith and Rev. Mr. Bartlett and other clergymen were also present. Mr. Stacey, the representative from Bristol, took an important part. It was a most imposing function; and after the reception the band took the lead, and followed by about forty carriages and large crowds of citizens, proceeded along Water St. thence up Cochrane St. to Shannon Park. The band stand was reserved for the speakers. Judge Oke

Introduced His Excellency, who formally opened the celebration. He made a patriotic speech telling what good John Guy and his two colonies had done for Newfoundland and the whole British Empire. Judge Oke then read a telegram from Bristol from our Premier, Sir Edward Morris, wishing every success to the celebration and hoping that the future trade between Bristol and Newfoundland might be even greater in the future than in the past, also earnestly wishing he was amongst the celebrators. His Grace Archbishop Howley next came forward and gave

A Historical Review of our country and paid a marked tribute to the merchant Venturers of Bristol. He was glad, he said, to see such enthusiasm amongst the people on these historical events. The next to come forward was the Rev. Wm. Stacey, the representative of Bristol. He gave, probably, the finest speech of the day, and foretold a glorious future for Conception Bay. He remarked to your correspondent that the people of Harbor Grace were fully repaid for all their trouble and expense

By the Success of the Celebration. Canon Smith, of Portugal Cove, as usual gave a thoroughly rousing Newfoundland speech, congratulating all on the good time that everyone was enjoying. Rev. J. W. Bartlett gave an eloquent oration on our past history and the greatness of the Empire. A. H. Seymour, M.H.A., was the last speaker, as the programme had to be curtailed owing to the delay of the Fiona. The next item on the programme was the naval review of over two hundred marines and soldiers headed by Lieut. Prichard on horseback. The warriors

Marched in Perfect Order to the strains of the British Band, who were well practiced to the tune of "Life on the Ocean Wave," and other marching music. While the review was progressing the H. M. S. Brilliant kept up salutes from her heavy cannon. It was unanimously pronounced a grand success, and Lieut. Prichard is to be complimented on the excellent drill and martial appearance of his men. The Governor with the Commander and Officers of the H. M. S. Brilliant, also the Committee and visitors next proceeded in carriages to Coughlan Hall where the Exhibition was opened. The grand display took all visitors by surprise and is

One of the Marked Features of the Celebration. The Garden Party which was held in the Park while these events were taking place, was most enjoyable. The ladies in refreshment rooms were kept busy helping ice creams, candies and flowers; a little later dinners were served. The illumination of the town is now in full swing. The H. M. S. Brilliant is sparkling with electric lights, and her searchlights are playing on all points of the harbor. The procession of 400 lighted torches is now on the harbor in boats. Greek fire is being burnt on each boat, enhancing the beauty of the situation. Dances are being held in the halls and happiness and enjoyment reign supreme.—H. F. S.

35,000 Shipbuilders Go on Strike.

Special to Evening Telegram.
BERLIN, Aug. 16.
As a result of the fight between the German shipbuilders and their employees at the ship yards of Germany, except the Government works, are now idle as far as new construction is concerned. Naval construction assigned by the Government to private yards is at a standstill, and ship owners are in many cases sending their ships to England for the necessary repairs. The men demand an increase of 10 per cent in wages and a 55 hour week. The shipbuilders maintain that these demands are cloaked for political purposes and cannot be granted. The number of strikers number 35,000 men. Sympathetic strikes of the employees in the allied trades are now being organized.

A Floating Disinfecting Plant.

Owing to the epidemics of cholera and other contagious diseases that break out in different parts of the world, the sanitation authorities of London, Eng., have fitted the barge Thames with a complete disinfecting plant and will use it to fumigate all vessels and cargoes that fall under suspicion of the inspectors.

The plant, the main feature of which is its system of combined suction and delivery, consists of a machine that has a capacity of 60,000 cubic feet of disinfecting gas per hour, boilers, pumps, and sufficient hose to carry the gas to any part of the largest steamer that discharges at London.

When a ship requires disinfecting, the barge is moored alongside, and two flexible pipes, one suction and the other delivery, are connected from the ship's hold to the machine. The machine withdraws the air from the hold, and then forces disinfecting gas at a high temperature back into the hold again. This combined suction and delivery causes the gas to circulate well and to penetrate through a closely packed cargo.

THE FATAL CONTINENT. AFRICA HAS BEEN THE GRAVE OF DARING EXPLORERS.

Many Intrepid Britons Have Perished Trying to Unravel the Secrets of the Dark Continent—Lieut. Boyd Alexander, Who Was Killed in the Rubber Country, is the Latest Victim in the Quest.

We still call Africa the "Dark Continent." We might equally well term it the "Fatal Continent," for it has claimed the lives of a greater number of explorers than all the rest of the world regions of the earth put together.

The latest victim of the African savage is an Englishman—Lieut. Boyd Alexander, murdered by natives in the rubber country of the Wadai. Wadai is the last stronghold of the slave trade, and is controlled by the dangerous Mohammedan secret society known as the Senussi. Lieut. Alexander knew the risk he ran. His death adds one more to the long list of British martyrs to the cause of civilization.

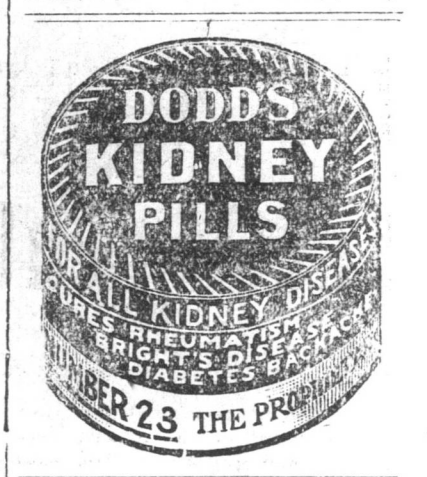

"I mean," wrote Mungo Park, more than a hundred years ago, "to sail east with the fixed determination to discover the termination of the Niger, or perish in the attempt." He did perish in the attempt. Near Broussa the natives made a fierce attack upon his expedition, and Park was obliged to fly down stream, taking the risk of shooting the dangerous rapids. His canoe struck a rock, split in pieces, and flung him and his companions into the raging waves of foam. Park made a desperate effort to swim ashore, but was swept away and drowned.

Twenty years later, in 1826, Major Alexander Laing, another hardy Scot, made a successful attempt to visit the mysterious city of Timbuktu. Before he reached it he was set upon by Tuaregs—those masked bandits of the desert—who left him for dead. But though covered with wounds, he pulled through, and reaching Timbuktu stayed there for some months until the fanatic inhabitants drove him forth into the desert. He reached El Aruan, a small oasis in the Sahara, and there was literally cut to pieces. Capt. Clapperton was another victim, but his death was due, not to savage spears, but to the fever-laden mists of the Niger. His servant, Richard Lander, tended him to the end, and carried his papers safely to the coast. On his journey Lander had many thrilling adventures. In one place he was caught by natives, and subjected to an ordeal by poison—that is, he had to eat a portion of the deadly Calabar bean. By a miracle he came through it unharmed, and afterwards, in company with his brother, conducted a fresh expedition, which solved the puzzling problem of the mouths of the great River Niger.

The greatest of all African explorers was David Livingstone, whose experiences of the "Dark Continent" began in Bechuanaland in 1840, and extended over thirty-three years, during which time he walked tens of thousands of miles over the bush paths of Central Africa.

His last journey was made through the upper part of the Congo Basin. He describes the country as "one vast sponge, intersected by countless streams." The blazing sun beat down, and raising a constant stream of mist, and being the rainy season everything was saturated day and night. Under these awful conditions even Livingstone's iron physique these were held by the enemy, and in the fight that ensued all the Europeans but one—Lieut. Polguin by name—were killed. He struggled on with a few native porters. But now there was no food. The starving men went mad, fell on one another, and the fate of poor Polguin is too ghastly to be here described. Eventually, four sharpshooters reached the town of Wargla, the sole survivors of 88 persons who had set out full of hope a little more than five months previously.

MGR. BRUCHESI MAY BE MADE CARDINAL SOON.

New York, Aug. 8.—Private advices have been received in this country and confirmed by the Rome correspondents of the higher class of Catholic journals to the effect that Pope Pius X. has intimated that the long-heralded consistory will be held next November. It is of particular interest to this country and Canada, for although it may happen that no American prelate will be raised to the Senate of the Catholic Church, it seems a certainty that the apostolic delegate at Washington, Mgr. Falconio, will be among the new cardinals. In fact, this is openly stated by well-informed correspondents of Catholic papers in England and America.

Some also intimate that Pape Le-gate Cardinal Vannutelli may be the bearer of a private communication on a similar subject to Mgr. Bruchesi, and that it will be made known at the close of the Congress in Montreal.

At all events, the Pope has been at pains recently to show his fondness for the Archbishop of Montreal.
