Along the Line to Caplin Bay.

III.
L. C. M.
Keough. As many of our readers are aware Captain Keough was a hustling man, and was foremost in the trade of Caplin Bay, his splendid homestead and property reflected great credit upon his enterprise. A few months ago the gallant Captain passed away; having done his work, he laid down his charge, and entered into that higher life, which lies beyond that valley, and that shadow, and that transition, which we call death.

Before returning to the picnic field we completed our circuit of the harbour, and noted the condition of the homes and dwellings in general. They are substantial and comfortable, and every dwelling in the place is painted white, and the out-houses and stables are lined or whitewashed, and every comfort and independence is visible in every direction. This is a very encouraging feature of our out-port life, and something that we should feel justly proud of, and it is a fair contradiction to some of the humiliating stories which are circulated abroad about Newfoundland. We did not enquire the number of inhabitants of the place, but we noted that the names were among those who first colonized the Peninsula of Avalon. Such names as Keough, Power, Ryan, Sullivan and Hayden are the most prominent of the place. The forefathers of these families came direct from Ireland and brought with them the faith, traditions and accent of that land, and whatever success has been attained is solely due to their industry and enterprise. Without the advantages of lighthouses, roads, or steam communication they established themselves in comfort, and they continued at their post of duty until at the present time they have telegraph communication, steam communication, and splendid roads, and now the railway; and as a climax to their success they are about to build a splendid church to the honor and glory of God. The sight chosen for the edifice is ideal for the purpose, it being on a pleasant elevation and about one hundred yards from the main road. The ground is already prepared for the building, and the road to it is also constructed and is properly graded and ballasted and coated with top dressing. We did not enquire who built the road leading to the site of the church, but we understand it was done by the good people themselves. When we next visit Caplin Bay we hope to see the church completed, and trust that as its spire shall point heavenwards, so may the highest desires of the people point in the same direction.

(To be continued.)

The davits used in lowering the ice were of iron and were very strong. They struck us as having belonged to some large steamship, and no doubt like the flag on the picnic grounds they were a relic of shipwreck and loss. The wharf and ice house generally are very conveniently situated for the purpose, and judging from the number of bankers then in port, we decided that the proprietor of the ice house at Caplin Bay must do a brisk business. We did not enquire as to whose ice house it was, but we had the impression, although we hardly know why, that it was the property of the late Capt.

An Ad. Stunt.

A Newfoundlander in Boston writing to a friend in this city under date of July 5th, gives an account of some of the things that had taken place on the 4th of July celebrations (or the "Glorious Fourth" as it is called) at Revere Beach, the great summer resort of that city, says it was a grand sight. One of the Boston papers states there was 800,000 people present and 100,000 men, women and children were bathing in the water. The Boston American, one of the greatest papers in America, announced that a flying machine would fly over the Beach in the afternoon, starting from Marblehead, about 30 miles from the Beach. All eyes were gazing in that direction, finally the machine was seen coming and it came so near the people on the Beach that they could hear the engine working. It flew around about one dozen times. On the bottom of the machine was a boat attached occupied with one man and it rested on the water. The man in the machine went up and down over the Beach throwing down thousands of slips of paper with as high as twenty dollars marked on them. The whole thing was the work of the Boston American which proved to be a great success for that paper. A person who was fortunate enough to receive one of the slips so marked had nothing more to do but go to the office, present the slip and get the money. The scheme worked a big advt. for the American which goes to show what means some persons will adopt to gain notoriety. The number of papers sold that day amounted to over one million copies.

Gower St. Church Service.

Rev. W. P. Wornell was the preacher at Gower Street Church yesterday morning, and delivered a discourse that was highly appreciated.

In the evening Rev. Dr. Cowperthwaite made a pleasing reference to the coming of Rev. Douglas Hemmeon. He also referred in terms of deep feeling to his 24 years spent in Newfoundland, nine of which had been spent as Superintendent of Gower Street Church. The rev. gentleman has occupied the pulpit at that church every Sunday since the death of Rev. Dr. Rogers, and upon retiring will carry with him the respect and many pleasant recollections of the congregation to which he has so faithfully ministered.

Dr. Cowperthwaite will supply at Gower Street until Rev. N. Guy arrives, after which he hopes to spend a two months vacation in Canada.

AT THE NICKEL.

The wonderful story of "Father Beauclair" will be told at the Nickel Theatre this evening. The play was written and acted by Hal Reid, the author of The Confession. The story is historically true as related by James Cardinal Gibbons. Wherever produced this play has been well received, the press has spoken very favorably of it. That it will be popular here goes without saying.

"The Coast of Chance" is a strong drama by the Selig artists. There are two comedies: "Found Out" and "The Trail of the Itching Palm." There is also a comedy drama by the Lubin Company, entitled, "Kidnapping Father." Miss Gardner will be heard in one of her dainty songs, and Messrs. McCarthy and Ross will give new music. De Witt C. Cairns, a baritone of great power and sweetness will arrive shortly for the Nickel Theatre. Everyone should make an effort to see to-day's entertainment.

Minard's Liniment Co. Limited.
Gentlemen—Last August my horse was badly cut in eleven places by a barbed wire fence. Three of the cuts (small ones) healed soon, but the others became foul and rotten, and though I tried many kinds of medicine they had no beneficial result. At last a doctor advised me to use MINARD'S LINIMENT and in four weeks time every sore was healed and the hair has grown over each one in fine condition. The Liniment is certainly wonderful in its working.

L. O. A. Parade.

The Loyal Orange Association held its annual "July 12th" parade yesterday, attending Divine service at Wesley Church. Over four hundred men, including members of Royal Oak and Leeming Lodges, turned out. At 2:30 Leeming Lodges turned out. At 2:30 and proceeded via Long's Hill, LeMarchant Road and Patrick Street to Wesley Church which was filled to its utmost capacity. Prominent in the parade were Rev. F. R. Matthews, B.A., Hon. D. Morrison, who has been indisposed for several weeks, and John Badcock, a veteran Orangeman. The sermon which was delivered by Rev. Mr. Matthews, was a masterly effort and dealt with the religious, social and political conditions of England and France, during the seventeenth century. His remarks were substantiated by historical facts, and their general trend showed a broad conception of the subject with which he dealt in a most interesting manner. Emphasizing the ideals of the Association, which stood for Equal Rights and general tolerance, his remarks were listened to with great attention by the large congregation present. At the close of the service the collection was presented to Rev. Mr. Matthews by Grand Master Squires, and Mr. W. R. Stirling, the Secretary of the Committee, thanked the Rev. gentleman on behalf of the Committee and Lodges. The procession upon reforming, returned to their Hall by way of Hamilton and New Gower Streets. After the usual votes of thanks to the clergyman, choir and Church officials were passed the Lodge closed.

Dear Sir,—I have analyzed a sample of Sulphate of Ammonia made at your Works and I found 20.5 per cent of NITROGEN, Sulphates of Ammonia and Nitrate of Soda are the two principal Nitrogen manures.
Sulphate of Ammonia is less soluble than Nitrate of Soda, consequently it is a safer manure to use during a wet season.

Stuffy McInnis.

Red McInnis says: The most unlikely looking pup may cop blue ribbons when grown up, upsettin' all the dope. The scrawny-l o o k i n' fauntleroy, a reglar sissy when a boy, grows up—big White Hope. When Stuffy McInnis joined the Macks' the wise o cracks 'bout founding institutes. Their laughin' rang out loud an' strong when Connie said this kid 'fore long would fill o' Davis' boots.
"First base?—That kid?"—Au, cut the fun!" the fans all said. "It can't be done." But Connie played his hunch. He knew the kid was short on height but figured he'd produce all right because he had the punch. That first year Stuffy was just nineteen but in that swell in-field machine he fit just like a glove. There must be springs in Stuffy's legs; he gathers in the wildest pegs—both sides, below, above.
An' he don't fall down at the bat. Ask any pitchin' guy 'bout that. They'll tell you Stuffy's there. His two-base wallops sure look fine a scuddin' out the third-base line. He don't pop in the air. The boy is just a youngster yet an' it's a purty darn safe bet he'll shine for some more moons. There's nothin' 'bout this little man that smacks of flashin' in the pan or single year balloons.
