Wonderful Words! Beautiful Words!
When Prof. Morse returned from Europe to America in 1844, he proceeded at once to Washington to induce the House of Representatives to grant an appropriation of $30,000 for the completion of the telegraph line between Washington and Baltimore. The matter was then referred to the Senate for final action, and on the last right of the is 30,000 for the completion of the telegraph line between Washington and Baltimore. The matter was then referred to the Senate for final action, and on the last night of the session it was passed. Morse was informed of the result of the vote by Miss Ellisworth who had greatly expisted him by her influence. The tine was completed, and Miss Ellsworth had Morse's promise that she would have the privilege of sending the first message. Morse had business in New York, and had just money the enough left to pay his expenses there and bask. On his return he at once sent for Miss Ellsworth, and after ascertaining that the line was in order he asked her what message he would send for her; she immediately replied: "What hath God wrought?" Words that ought to be written in characters of living light.

Since that time the great telegraphic system has been a boon, and a source of priceless value to mankind. Paine's Celery Compound came to the rescue of the sick and perishing at a time when it was greatly needed. Prof. Edward R. Phelps, M.D., LL. D., gare to the world and to its suffering ones a remedy for the stay of disease and death which it never had before. It held out to the weak, nervous and sleepless victim the beautiful motto, "Use and Find Life"; and those who had fath and used it were restored to their friends and made whole in mind and body.

Since its introduction thousands in all lands have been restored to health and strength, to sing its praises and to recommend it to others.

Sufferer, from whatever form of nervous disease you may suffer, use Paine's Celery Compound; it possesses to day the same healing powers as in the days of its great originator. It will cleanse and thoroughly invigorate the whole system, and give a tone and vim to the body which will enable you to sleep well and live happy.
