A conference was held last night between the board of works and Manager C. B. King, of the company, and the latter agreed to make the change. He explained that the reason for placing the lights above the cars was to enable the motormen to better see ars coming on single-track lines, where there was a considerable incline, such as on Wellington street south, and other lines.

"These lights have worked well until the new system of lighting was put in," Mr. King informed the committee. "However, I will admit that they are not so successful at the present time. East End Ball Games.

Messrs, Charles G. Moorhead, Dr. A. J. Wyckoff, F. Simmons, and James Fitzgerald, of the East End Baseball Lengue, made application for the use of Queen's Park to hold their games. Ex-Ald. Moorhead explained that the East End League lost Springbank Park some years ago, and since then had played in Queen's Park. They were willing to allow other clubs the privileges of the grounds, but as they had always Saturdays and holidays, they considered that they should be given those dates.

An application was also presented from the Methodist League asking for dates, and after some discussion it was decided to allow the East End League, Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights for practice, and games on Saturdays and holidays, and the Methodist League, Thursday and Saturday nights.

A deputation was present fat Weston street be widened, but the matter was laid over until the committee visited the place.

night to protest against the reciprocity agreement.

The chair was occupied by Sir William Mortimer Clark, formerly Lleutenant-Governor of Ontario, and the meeting was arranged by a committee whose nucleus was composed of the eighteen well-known Liberals who two weeks ago denounced the agreement and declared that they could not follow their party leader in supporting the measure. The affair was decidedly one-sided, as nobody was allowed to speak on the other side of the question.

ed to speak on the other side of the question.

The meeting was announced as a non-partisan gathering called to organize a campaign of education in opposition to the reciprocity proposals of the Laurier Government. All the speakers with the exception of George Tate Blackstock, K. C., were Liberals, and the sentiment of the meeting was overwhelmingly in accordance with the views presented by the opponents of reciprocity.

Sir Mortimer Clark said that the question was not a party one. A crisis had come saudenly upon the country, and the men who called the meeting could see no reason for the adoption of a haphazard policy without notice, and without demand for it. If Canada was at the parting of the ways, he preferred the way to London, and not the way to Washington. In fifty years the only overtures from the United States had been hostilo ones.

Mr. Lash reviewed Canada's increasing prosperity, and said that in the season of contentment the country had seen startled by Mr. Fielding's an nouncement of an agreement made i nouncement of an agreement made in secret, and without a mandate from the people. After recovering from the first shock of the bomb, the country realized that it meant a reversal of the Government's polley. Canada's trade would be tapped all along its southern boundary, widespread and revolutionary disturbance would follow. Canadian nationality would be diminished, and the expressed desire of the United States for annexation would be brought nearer accomplishment.

Mr. Lash then told of the deliberations of prominent Toronto Liberals, which led up to their statement of protest, and the formation of an organization to work against the agreement. When the true inwardness of the proposals was understood, Mr. Lash predicted, Canadians would rise up and settle once and for all that Canada is to be free to carve her own destiny. destiny.
