SAYS LEMON JUICE WILL REMOVE FRECKLES

Girl! Make this cheap beauty lotion to clear and whiten your skin.

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of orkard white, shake well, and you have a quarter pint of the best freckle and tan lotion, and complexion beautifier, as very, very small cost.

Your grocer has the lemons and any drug store or toilet counter will supply three ounces of orkard white for a few cents. Massage this sweetly fragrant lotion into the face, neck, arms and hands each day and see how freckles and blotches disappear and how clear, soft and white the skin becomes. You! It is harmless.

How to Cure Biliousness

Doctors warn against remedies containing powerful drugs and alcohol. "The Extract of Roots, long known as Mother's Syrup, has no dose or strong ingredients; it cures indigestion, biliousness and constipation. Can be had at any drug store." Get the genuine. 50c. and $1.00 bottles.

SHOULD CARRY THEIR CERTIFICATES

Order-in-Council Issued Regarding Those Liable to be Apprehended Under the Military Service Act.

An order-in-council issued in an extra of the Canada Gazette, stipulates that any person who is liable to be apprehended as a waratee should carry on them their reasons for exemptions and the following certificate, or certificate signed by two persons knowing the age of the person.

Married: Marriage certificate.
Foreigner: Certificate from his Consul.
Honourably discharged: Certificate to that effect.
Member of the clergy: Certificate from religious authority.
Exempted: Exemption papers.
Not with the class: Certificate to that effect.

If upon or after the first day of June, 1918, any such male person be found without the requisite evidence or certificate upon his person or in or upon the building or premises in which he is, he shall give prima facie evidence to the satisfaction of the Canadian Expeditionary Force so long as his services shall be required, unless or until the fact be established to the satisfaction of competent authority that he is not liable for military duty.

Penalties are also edicted against persons issuing false certificates; while authority is given to any person to denounce persons falling under the order-in-council.

Regarding the Habeas Corpus, the following is stated:

Notwithstanding anything contained in the Habeas Corpus Act, or in any other law or statute, and notwithstanding any right or remedy of habeas corpus, proceeding by way of habeas corpus, all persons who in fact or hereafter may be in or taken into or held or detained in military custody shall be held detained and remain in such custody without bail, inquiry or mainprize, until released by direction of the Minister of Militia and Defence, or delivered by his order to the civil authorities.

OPEN REVOLT FOR EIGHT DAYS

Story of Great Mutiny in Austrian Fleet Early in February.

The London Times' correspondent with the Italian army says that news is trickling through Italy from time to time about the great mutiny in the Austrian fleet early in February, and it is possible now to give a fairly accurate idea of what happened. The mutiny began at Pola, but, as it broke out almost simultaneously at Cattaro, it looks as if there had been collusion between the two ports. It was among the arsenal workmen that the rising began at Pola. They demanded the abolition of various disciplinary measures and punishments inflicted on shipboard and ashore. The movements soon spread to the ships in the harbor. The crews left their posts and thronged the docks, burning and acting as they pleased. Their officers were powerless, but there seems to have been no fighting between them and the mutineers.

Red Flag at Cattaro.

The naval authorities parleyed with the men for a week and finally all the sailors and workmen's demands were granted.

At Cattaro the mutiny took a more serious turn. Six cruisers and several destroyers hoisted the red flag. The German and Baggar elements in some crews held aloof, and there were encounters between them and the mutineers, the guns of one cruiser being turned on another, and several mutineers being killed. However, the mutineers, got the upper hand after three days and became masters of the port. The officers were seized, the Admiral commanding being taken by the sailors from his flagship to confinement in a vessel in the harbor, where he received apparently no very gentle treatment.

Demands for Peace.

The mutineers gave all orders afloat and ashore. These were printed and signed, "The Committee of the Crews." The wireless apparatus was seized and the sailors' committee thus communicated to Vienna its demands, among which the request for the immediate conclusion of peace was prominent.

Alarm was caused by these measures, and conciliatory, non-military replies were sent. After many prolonged discussions the authorities in Vienna decided to despatch to Cattaro a division of the fleet, under German-speaking Austrian Admiral, upon which it was thought that reliance might be placed. When this appeared before Cattaro the position was critical, as murmurs had broken out in the new division.

The situation was saved by the Teutonic element in one of the revolting cruisers in the harbor getting free and hauling down the red flag. Negotiations were opened on an equal footing between the Admiral and the mutineers, and finally the latter consented to surrender the vessels on receiving written guarantees that no action would be taken against any man and that a number of the grievances would be settled. The Cattaro force then returned to its allegiance, after having been in open revolt for eight days.

Cashiered Officers.

In consequence of the mutiny, Emperor Charles cashiered a number of high officers on the ground that it was their slackness that had permitted the outbreak. About thirty officers are believed to have been retired. The fleet has been put under command of a notoriously severe and much-disliked Admiral. Efforts were made later to revoke the amnesty to the mutineers, and they have been severely punished, supposedly for subsequent offences, but nothing has been done publicly, as most of Austria's sailors belong to the oppressed races.

There is no doubt that the ferment continues in the fleet, as well as in the army.

ON THE WAY TO THE MUSQUODOBOITS

Among the attractive booklets recently issued by the Publicity Department of the Canadian Government Railways is one devoted exclusively to the Musquodoboits Valley branch and all connected with it. A large section of the well composed and interesting reading matter refers to the City of Halifax, its historic associations, commercial prominence as a port, its public buildings, its military and naval services of the Empire, its unapproachable harbor, basin, and wharves, its public buildings, its surroundings, etc. The town of Dartmouth, as the starting point of the Musquodoboits Branch Railway, likewise receives attention, and reference is made to its business prosperity and beautiful surroundings.

Under the heading "On the way to the Musquodoboits," there is given a description of the branch line and of the towns and villages passed through the manufacturing, fertile lands, sporting facilities, gold mines, etc. The 500 great lumbering operations add possibilities that directness and possibilities of the whole Halifax-Musquodoboits district, showing plainly to the eye just what places are served by the railway.

"The Valley," it says, "has been the home of some of the ablest men high in the affairs of church and state. Her people are a hospitable folk, and the stranger in her midst is assured a courteous welcome. Musquodoboits has crossed the Bay of Fundy, and her progress will be in keeping the renewed energy of her people and the richness of her resources."

Halifax Chronicle.

ARE YOU A MAN?

If you are, you either shave your face or go to a barber. If you visit a barber you may have the unfortunate experience of Mr. Butler, of Bridgeport, Conn., who developed what is known as "Barber's Rash" on his face through the use of an infected razor. He writes:

"My face was covered with sores, which caused me a great deal of suffering and inconvenience, and I was unable to shave for four weeks. Repeated applications of Zam-Buk, however, entirely rid me of the trouble."

For scientific, old sores, blood-poisoning, burns, and cuts there is nothing to equal Zam-Buk. All dealers sell box for $1.25.

THE FARMER.

"I'm glad I am a farmer, a farmer would be remote from death and danger, from swords and bombs and shells. While kaisers and such fakirs are marching with defeat, I saw my rolling acres to barley, oats, and wheat. And pretty soon the cash'll roll in to swell my store; I'll get two bones a bushel, and may three or four. And folks who see me getting a fancy price for wheat, will give me lots of pitting, and say 'I can't be beat.' Such men will save the nation!" I hear their fervent cry; "they are the land's salvation, without them it would die. They guard our sacred banner and Germany they'll beat; each day they help to can her, by bringing in their wheat!" It's pleasant to be saving my country's cherished home, and still assuage my craving easy pleasures. I feel my pulses quicken with loyalty, by Jing, when I can sell a bushel of wheat, a calf should bring. I feel said pulses flutter, a glow is in my soul for a pound of butter I get a goodly roll. And always while I'm selling my thistles, weeds and chaff I hear the people yelling, "The farmer is our staff!" He grows two rows of onions where but one grew before, he'll squash the kaiser's bunions, and save our threatened shore!"

Son Will Have to Get a Hump on New Mother (reading aloud from letter from son Bill, in France): "I have transferred to the camouflage department."

Pa, what is camouflage?

Father: "That is—Why, or that is kind of feller who flags the camel train."
