Few things are so changeable as the weight of the body; indeed, it is rarely the same for a few minutes together; and if a man were to sit on one of the plates for a whole day the other plate would be constantly oscillating within certain limits. The state of the weather and the time of the year influence our weight. In summer we grow fatter than we are in winter, because we drink more and our beverages are warmer than in winter, and the curious property of increasing our weight. We increase in weight from April to October, when we begin to lose the substance gained during the summer. From December to March we remain stationary, and in April the fattening process begins again.

For moving cars about in car shops, yards, etc., over short distances, the Royal Arsenal, of Florin, Ill., has contrived a simple and powerful jack. A clamp is secured to the car sill, and a plate having a V shaped notch is applied to the rail. A lever is then moved, throwing a roller forward, which propels the car. The lever is then moved backward, the plate takes a new hold, and the operation is repeated.

The obelisk of Luxor, now the pride of Paris, tells its own story—it bears upon it a record of the achievements of Sesostris, the renowned Egyptian monarch, who is supposed to have conquered all Asia and Ethiopia, and according to Herodotus, the great Egyptian reigned 3713 years before the Christian era began. If this be his record the obelisk is over 5500 years old.

Incomprehensible writing paper has been invented by two Salamanca students, which is warranted to resist the most intense heat. Two little children in Wayne County, N. Y., lately lost their lives through the carelessness of their father who carried in one of his pockets some pills. Mr. Gill, the English astronomer, who went to the Island of Ascension, to observe the recent opposition of Mars, obtained fifty-seven sets of observations, so that his expedition may be regarded as a successful one. It is expected that the results, when completed, will give us valuable information as to the sun's distance from the earth. FACTS ABOUT DIPHTHERIA. The prevalence of diphtheria brings out many new facts in connection with the origin and spread of the dreadful malady. A New Haven paper says it was introduced into that part of the country about twenty-five years ago in an exceedingly virulent form by the immigration of remains in West Haven. Nearly all who were exposed to the exhalations from the graves died in spite of all that could be done to save them. The poison that arises from drains and cesspools resembles that of diphtheria, and even if less violent manner, importance freshly illustrated by these facts.—Boston Post.

A SOLICITOR'S DUTIES. The English Attorney General, in opening the case for the prosecution of the Scotland Yard detectives, a fortnight ago, thus referred to the charge against Mr. Froggart, one of the defendants, when commenting upon the duties of professional men:—"Now Froggart is a solicitor, and his duty is to use his best exertions to obtain the acquittal of his client. But this if he goes further than that, and knowing his client's guilt, tries to get rid of the evidence that may be obtained against him; and endeavor to obtain the acquittal of his client by such means, he ceases to be his advocate, and becomes an accomplice. It is difficult, writes the Law Times, to take any exception to the general proposition here laid down by the chief law officer of the Crown.

HORRIBLE DEATH. An accident of a most terrible and painful nature occurred on the Boston and Oxford line, by which Miss Jeanne Bennett, aged 16 years, a daughter of Mr. Thomas Bennett, met a horrible death. The girl went to the barn on an errand, and on leaving jumped from an open window a few feet from the ground on to a pile of refuse manure, etc., below. Some person had placed a crowbar in an upright position in the manure pile, and on this the unfortunate girl struck with such force that it penetrated her body to the depth of 6 or 8 inches. No one was near to help her, but, though suffering untold agony, she succeeded in crawling nearly to the house when the mother heard the cries of her dying daughter. For twelve hours the girl suffered agonies worse than death, when death came to her relief. The family have the sympathy of the whole community in their sad bereavement.—Branford, O.M., Express.

AN ITALIAN ROMANCE.

A sad affair has lately been brought to light in Italy. In a small cave near Udine, a woman was found who had been imprisoned there for 33 years. In 1844 she became attached to an Austrian officer, but her father, a violent hater of the Austrians, who at that time were in possession of that part of Italy where he resided, refused to give his consent to a marriage. The girl stated that she would then marry without his permission. He dissuaded her anger and during a walk in which he accompanied her, he induced her to descend into the cave with him by means of a rope ladder, with a view of examining it. He was the first to ascend to the surface, and, withdrawing the ladder, left her. She was kept regularly supplied with food and clothing. Even when her cruel father died she was not released, for her sister, who hated to the Austrians was equally great, continued the imprisonment. The unfortunate woman, on her liberation, had a complexion of a death-like pallor, caused by the darkness in which she had long lived, and her voice had departed through constant cries for help during the early part of her sequestration. She could speak only in a hoarse whisper.

THE GREAT SHOSHONEES REMEDY AND PILLS. The success that these medicines have met with since their introduction to the public some years ago, proves plainly to the most skeptical that they are medicines that perform what they are advertised to. The virtues of these medicines have been well tested, and have withstood their trial in a most satisfactory manner. For diseases of the Blood, Liver, Lungs, &c., they are unsurpassed. We have instances of miraculous cures of these diseases, and of many others. If any one is afflicted let him try a bottle of the Remedy and a box of Pills. No injurious effects will follow their use. So that you may be sure as they are purely vegetable; there being no mineral matter in them. The cost is small, while the advantages derived from their use are most delicate persons, for you are sure to get relief from their use. The medicines are widely known throughout the Dominion, and are for sale by the principal medicine dealers. Try them, and be convinced that these medicines are no humbug. No one who has tried the Shoshonees Pills has ever pronounced an unfavorable opinion of them; no family where they have been used will be without them. Full information take their leave when the Constitution of the body is secured by the use of the Circular from any drugstore in the Dominion, or by mail from the proprietor in pint bottles $1; Pills 25 cents a box.
