SATURDAY, DEC 4. 1886

CITY AND PROVINCIAL.

The Fort Rouge people are clamoring for a few letter boxes, or if they can't get it a branch postoffice.

The many of Mr. Thos. Eadsforth, of Rat Portage, will be pleased to hear that he has somewhat recovered from the accident he met with a short time ago.

The city engineer has been instructed to notify the owners of flowing wells, on private property in the western part of the city, that the flow of the same must be stopped.

Mr. Edmund Shore, an old resident of Winnipeg, died at Qu'Appelle on Saturday from the effects of a kick from a horse. He was the father-in-law of Mr. T. J. Montgomery and Mr. H. Mulholland.

The demand for prepaid tickets seems to be good in the city. Mr. J. V. Barber, a local steamship agent, on Monday sold 11 tickets from Naples to Winnipeg; three from Hamburg to Winnipeg; one from Glasgow to Winnipeg.

T. Snow, D. L. S., one of the Dominion commissioners for the examination of swamp lands, returned to the city Monday evening, having completed his work for the season.

MAN. AND N. W. T.

Regina, Nov. 25.—The troop of Mounted Police which has been stationed at Wood Mountain all summer has returned for the winter to headquarters here.

Inspector McGibbon in command of the detachment of N. W. M. Police, which has been stationed at Alameda and Moose Mountain district during the summer months has returned to Regina with his detachment.

It was inadvertently stated that Mr. J. W. Tewsey had taken charge of the Landsdowne Hotel. Mr. F. Arnold still retains the proprietorship of the hotel, but in consequence of great pressure of business he has let the rear portion of his hotel to Mr. Tewsey.

Fort McLeod, Nov. 23.—The brewers and others have been given leave to sell the stock of beer they have on hand.

Inspector Saunders arrived yesterday with 25 men, and will remain at Macleod for the present.

The rivers are pretty well frozen over yesterday. Belly river at Frank Strong's crossing would hold a man on horseback.

The first cold snap really worthy of the name, introduced itself on Saturday morning with a blinding snowstorm, driven by a cold north wind.

Lethbridge, Nov. 22.—The weather turned very cold and stormy on Friday last, with a heavy fall of snow on Saturday and Sunday. This is exceptional for this early in the season, and we yet may have four or five weeks warm weather before real winter sets in.

Notices of application to build a line of railway west from here to British Columbia, and also a line south of Fort Benton, Montana, are given by the Northwestern Coal and Navigation Company.

H. M. Cairns, of the Rocky Mountain

Telegraph Company, who are building a line south from Fort Benton to Medicine Hat, was here last week. He expects the line will be open for business by the new year.

The Conservatives of Lethbridge held a meeting on Monday evening to organize. A committee was formed to communicate with the Calgary association and secure by laws etc.

The citizens are endeavoring to form a company for fire protection, the Calgary fire having aroused them to the great danger the town would be in, in case of fire breaking out.

Skating on the river has been a popular pastime the past week.

It is expected that the daily mail will be inaugurated shortly.

Business is extremely good. Commercial travellers report Lethbridge as being one of their best points in the west.

W. Whyte, gen. sup. of the C. P. R., and Robt. Kerr, general freight and passenger agent, visited here on Tuesday last. They were shown through the mines by Mr. E. Dyall, the general manager, and expressed themselves delighted with the excellent facilities the company have for mining and handling the coal.

SACRED SYMBOLISM.

There is something in the Catholic Church which strikes every outsider entering a church—the vestments the priests use at Divine service. These vestments are various colours. There is white, red, green, purple, and black. There is a meaning in each of them, and it might be well to explain their different meaning and when they are made use of.

White signifies in nature light itself, and in order of knowing it means knowledge and the light of faith, of truth; with references to our affection it signifies joy, happiness, pleasure. This being the case, the Church uses this color on all the Feasts of the Blessed Trinity—since God is infinite truth; on all the Feasts of the Lord Jesus Christ, since He is the light that shineth in this world.

EVENING PRAYER.

Even as it is necessary to begin the day with God, so it is no less necessary and wholesome to end the day with God; hence God has, even in the Old Law, ordered morning and evening sacrifices.

The objects of evening prayers is: To thank God for the graces received during the day; re-consider, by examining our conscience, how we have made use of these graces; to ask protection from all harm during the night, hence we should recommend ourselves to the protection of our guardian angel, and especially to the Blessed Virgin.

See in the following incident how God sometime rewards, even in a temporal way, this common place act of devotion.

A pious young lady, named Pauline von Wolkenstien, lived in her country residence about six miles from the city. One night, just as she was saying her evening prayers, a carriage stopped before her house, which was to convey her to a lady friend of hers who was sick.

able an open book, by the side of which stood a candlestick with extinguished candle. He looked into the book and read the following word: "My good God would that I had spent this day without sin; how tranquil would be my steps. Would that the remainder of my life be spent without sin, when would death which is so terrible for man, be nothing more for me than a pleasant sleep!"

THE DESTRUCTION OF MODERN ROME.

Famous for her legends, famous for her history and famous, for the many ruins and relics of ancient days within her borders, Rome stands second to no city in her holds upon the hearts of mankind. Every one, no matter what his nation or religion, must feel a reverence for the Eternal City, and a desire that she may always remain possessed of the myriads of historic objects and make her the shrine toward which all pilgrimages now, as in former ages, tend.
