Israel and Canada: 2010 and Beyond

The past 60 years mark just the beginning of Canada and Israel's story as partners. The collaborative multidimensional relationship is founded on shared values and close political, economic, social, cultural and academic ties. Dynamic groups of Canadian-Israelis contribute to both societies, demonstrating a lasting commitment to a mutually beneficial relationship. Canada and Israel will continue to strengthen their ties and to define themselves as democratic, forwardthinking nations. Each is independent and unique in its characteristics, but we share the fundamental objectives of peace, partnership and mutual respect.
