A Snap Shot!

No two stores are exactly alike. Every business has got to find out for itself its own possibilities, and youth and age are often together in buying experience at a costly premium. When we began in Toronto nobody knew what it was to sell strictly for cash, to close even reasonably early, or to make sincerity part of store manners. We were very much alone at the beginning and we've been very much alone ever since. Others are copying this season what we did last, but this business is reorganized every day, and the pace we set is meant to discount constantly our own past. Keeping everlastingly at it is the keynote to this store. First in everything is the enthusiasm of this business.

This list is merely a snap-shot—a suggestive hint of things we sell at prices you like to pay. The full details are at the counters:—

A REACTIONARY MOVEMENT.
A leading fundamental principle of popular government is the idea of equality in the eyes of the law. The domestic history of nearly all nations is made up of continuous struggles for the part of the people of the most favored classes privileges that they have enjoyed over the rest of the community. These favored classes have enjoyed not only purely material advantages, but in the dominion of thought and religion they have exercised a tyranny over their fellow citizens. The people of superior sense, the people of superior religious sects have been the cause of more legislative wrangling and political discord than any other department of human affairs. This idea of the absolute equality of the people has been asserted in Canada as strongly as in any other country, and in the subject is far from being satisfactorily settled. If this idea of absolute equality were fully operative in this country we would have had no Manitoba school question, we would have no Separate school question in Ontario, we would have no exemption business, if there is any historical truth that we should recognize above all others it is the doctrine of the absolute separation of Church and State. The facts of history prove that harmony can exist in no State where this fundamental principle is not recognized. In Canada we will never be freed from wrangling until the principle of Church interference in the State is eliminated from our politics, root and branch.

It is with regret, therefore, that The World notices that certain members of the Anglican and Presbyterian churches are doing their best to place this principle in the unfortunate position it found itself half a century ago. They propose to rob every pupil in the Public schools of half an hour's tuition that has been paid for by the taxpayers. We admit that these reactionary gentlemen are sincere in their efforts to impart religious teaching in the Public school. But sincere and well-meaning people often commit egregious blunders, and those who would shorten the school day by legislative enactment in order that a particular kind of religion may be propagated are committing a blunder of this kind. Yesterday a deputation of Jewish citizens waited on Premier Hardy and protested against the Public school curriculum being curtailed for the benefit of special sects. By what right does Rev. Mr. Langtry, who has been demanding that the 750 Jewish children who attend the Public schools in Toronto shall be robbed of half an hour's tuition daily? The movement is decidedly reactionary. It will not succeed.

A GOOD BEGINNING MADE.
The City Council some time ago committed itself to the principle of insisting that the tire of a wagon should be proportionate to the load carried. Yesterday the County Council passed a resolution to petition the province to enforce the wide tire idea in the County of York. The city and county are thus a unit on the question of wide tires, as well as of free roads and free markets. It is to be hoped this united action in regard to wide tires will prove but the first step in a movement to secure good roads throughout the city and county. It has been established by scientific road-builders that the broad tire system not only does not injure a properly constructed roadbed, but actually improves it. We know of no practical question in which the farmers of York County can more profitably interest themselves than that of good roads. Good roads are not only a source of comfort and satisfaction to those who use them, but they are economical from a pecuniary point of view. The local press of York County ought to make this question of good roads the burning issue of the day. They should keep hammering away at the idea until the farmers are convinced, as they can be if the matter is properly presented to them, that it pays to have good roads.

A CHANCE FOR AN IDEAL COLONY.
From time to time recently there have been discussions in the press as to the possibility of establishing colonies in the west and conducting on utopian principles. It is argued if these colonies are organized under the most approved and economical conditions that the colonist may enjoy all the advantages of village and town life with the independence and competency of the farmer. A splendid opportunity seems open at the present time for giving this idea a practical trial. The Rainy River country is a model agricultural one. It is fertile, fairly well timbered and amply supplied by water. While the district is without railway facilities it possesses a splendid waterway by means of which the products of the land can reach their market cheaply. This agricultural district is admirably situated in the centre of a great mining region. It forms the garden of an area 300 by 50 miles. A ready market for all the produce raised in this district will be found along the water stretch that forms its southern boundary. The only objectionable feature of the country is its climate. While the summer is all that could be desired the winter is somewhat of the Manitoba order—long and rather severe. Otherwise the country is as favorable a one as any colony can expect to get possession of for nothing, or at a nominal price. If the gentlemen in Toronto who were proposing to organize a colony last winter will turn their attention to the Rainy River we think they can find the very kind of land they desire, and furthermore we believe they will find no difficulty in securing responsible people to join with them in the formation of the colony.

The Ontario Government ought to give the modern colony idea a fair trial. Let a section of, say, four miles square along the river be set aside for any colony that may be organized for settlement according to this idea. This area would comprise about 10,000 acres, or 80 acres each for 125 families. The scheme would involve the formation of a village on the river, in the centre of the river front. Here the colonists would have their cottages, all within a radius of 300 acres. Each house would have an acre of ground. The streets would be laid out on the most approved principle. The colonists would all be within five minutes' walk of the school house, church, library and store. Twenty-five miles of light tramway would afford ample means of communication between the village and the various 80-acre plots into which the reservation would be divided. These roads would run diagonally, so that no location would be more than a mile from the track. The supplies of the colony would be handled on the co-operative plan, and the products would be marketed in bulk with a view to the saving of freight and other expenses. There is no reason why a project of this kind should not succeed if it is properly managed from the start. Many men would be disposed to take up agriculture as a pursuit if they enjoyed the same kind of life as the mechanic in the town. In the ideal colony such would be possible. The colonist farmer would return to his village home every night after his day's labor, and after supper, he would be free to go to the village library, church, entertainment, riverside park, curling rink or any of a dozen other attractions that the colonist idea renders possible. The World will be glad to lend its assistance to any bona fide movement that may be organized to carry out a colonization scheme of this kind. If the colony idea is feasible at all it ought to be under conditions such as prevail in the Rainy River country. We are arguing, of course, on the assumption that the Government will give the colonist the land they desire for nothing, or at not more than one dollar per acre. A colony of industrious people ought to be able to make the project a practical success.

INNOVATION IN PRISON REFORMS.
The warden of the penitentiary at Columbus, Ohio, has adopted an innovation in prison garb which it is thought will have a healthy moral effect on the prisoners. He divides the inmates under his charge into three classes, according to the nature of the offense for which they have been convicted, and as well as according to their demeanor in prison. He adopts three styles of uniform to harmonize with this division. If a man makes constant trouble and infringes the prison regulations, he wears the old-fashioned stripes. It shows that he is a well-behaved fellow on the whole; he wears another kind of uniform, less conspicuous, but still distinctive. But if he is generally obedient and shows some self-respect, he is permitted to wear clothing which is hardly distinguishable from that of an ordinary citizen. The man who has been committed for a minor offense and who still retains a sense of pride and self-respect should not be degraded to the level of the individual who is lost to all sense of respectability, even within the precincts of a prison. The warden's idea seems to be worthy of study and of being put into practice. It is not an expensive innovation, and it may have a beneficial effect upon those prisoners whom it is possible to influence by prison discipline.

C. VANDERBILT TO QUIT.
It is rumored that William E. Will take Cornelius' Place in the Business World.

New York, Nov. 19.—It is generally believed in Wall-street that Cornelius Vanderbilt will never again return to active business life, but that William E. Vanderbilt, his brother, will take Cornelius' place. Cornelius Vanderbilt looked after the railway interests of the whole family. He was chairman of the boards of directors of the Big Four, Lake Shore & Michigan Southern, New York Central, West Shore and Hudson River roads, and he was also interested in the management of the New York Central, Delaware Lackawanna and Western and Delaware & Hudson. When he was stricken with paralysis he was unable to do his work. He is now well, but he will continue to do the work. Even if Cornelius Vanderbilt recovers entirely, he will not return to active business life, but that William E. Vanderbilt has shown himself an excellent business man. Personal business life, but that William E. Vanderbilt has shown himself an excellent business man. Personal business life, but that William E. Vanderbilt has shown himself an excellent business man.

HYPNOTIZED A PRINCESS.
Artist With Whom Don Carlos' Daughter Eloped is an Ugly Cripple With a Blemished Complexion Over Her.
Berlin, Nov. 19.—The Berlin police were informed that Don Carlos' daughter, Enrica, who eloped with the penniless artist, Filippo Folchi, from Rome, was hiding in the city. The police were unable to find her, but they are probably still in Southern France. Her young stepmother's cruelty and harshness drove the Princess from her home. Folchi is an ugly cripple. He exercises a demoniac influence over the Princess.

Death of Mrs. Mary B. Hill.
Mrs. Mary B. Hill, widow of John Hill and mother of the Rev. Dr. John Hill, passed quietly away yesterday at her home in Bloomington, at the ripe age of 78. Mrs. Hill was a native of Toronto for upwards of 50 years. She was an adherent of the Methodist Church and will be missed for her good works there and elsewhere in the city.

The Children's Aid Society.
Yesterday was the regular monthly meeting of the Board of the Children's Aid Society. The number of cases reported as coming under the notice of the office during October was 191, involving the interests of 210 children. Thirty children were admitted to the shelter and 41 discharged. Three children were sent to foster homes.

A HAMILTON BOY'S TROUBLE.

Mate Malcolmson Tells About the Buffeting of the Singapore.

The Crew Exhausted When They Got to the Welland Canal—Prosecution to Follow in the House of Refuge Case—Resolutions Passed by the Young Liberals—Crockett Resigning Alleged Against the Wood Market Clerk—General Hamilton News.

Hamilton, Nov. 19.—(Special).—For some time F. C. McIlroy, who has a news agency on King-street east, has been annoyed by boys stealing his bundle of Toronto Worlds from his store door before he arrived in the morning. He reported the matter to the police and yesterday morning F. C. McIlroy was detained to catch the thief, and he did. A 12-year-old boy named Fred Warren, who had been convicted of theft on a former occasion, was found to be the culprit. The young prisoner was arraigned before Judge Jeffs at the Police Court this morning, and, being a second offender, he was sentenced to three years in the Mimico Industrial School, to which institution he was taken by Detective Bleakley this afternoon.

HER BULWARKS WASHED AWAY.
James Malcolmson, mate on the schooner Singapore, arrived at his home, 279 Murray-street, yesterday, and he has a somewhat exciting story to tell about the experience of the Singapore's crew on Lake Erie two weeks ago to-day. He says that the bulwarks of the vessel were completely destroyed by the heavy sea, and everything movable was washed off the deck. There is no truth in the report that the vessel struck a leak. The mate admits that had she they would never have reached shore alive. Upon reaching the Welland Canal three of the sailors were so exhausted from the hardships they endured that doctors advised them not to go further with the boat.

GROUND FOR COMPLAINT.
To-day J. Springstead, Saltfleet, complained to Mayor Tuckett that Paul Stuart, clerk of the John-street market, systematically underrated his load of wood. At the Mayor's request, Engineer Bagnow measured a load that had been marked as containing 64 feet and found it contained 80.85 feet. The manner in which the wood was piled might account for some of the difference.

DOINGS OF YOUNG LIBERALS.
At a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Young Men's Liberal Club last night resolutions were unanimously passed recommending the nomination by the club of the appointment of Edward Williams to the Senate the formation of ward committees for the purpose of selecting and electing candidates for municipal, provincial and Dominion Parliamentary honors, these committees to have full power to raise funds to carry out all details in connection with said elections, independent of other associations and interests.

FRUIT MARKET CO. ASSIGNS.
The Hamilton Fruit Exchange Company, which has been in business at the H. G. and B. station for a little over a year, has assigned to F. W. McBeth, secretary of the company. The liabilities are not known yet, but they will probably be large.

A NEW INDUSTRY.
Edward New has established an industry for the manufacture of fire-brick and fire-clay in the building formerly occupied by the Hamilton and Toronto Sewer Pipe Company on Tavistock-street. The fire-brick has been tried in the west end pottery kilns, and has proved a success. Mr. New has had the products patented, and it is likely they will soon develop into a large industry.

PATROL BOXES INTRODUCED.
In the joint celebration of the opening of the market shelter for dealers in poultry, butter and eggs, and the inauguration of the police patrol box system, a banquet was held to-night. The affair took place in the new shelter. During the evening Mayor Tuckett, Chairman McAndrew and Ald. McDonald were presented with keys of an ornate character and Chief of Police Smith distributed patrol box keys to most of the citizens present. Mayor Tuckett was in the chair and about 100 prominent citizens were present. The shelter was opened at 10 o'clock and the patrol boxes were turned in until the patrol wagon was driven up by P. C. Centon. Later an alarm was sent in for the fire brigade, and the entire department was on hand in a minute and five seconds, notwithstanding the fact that the alarm had to be telephoned from the police station to the fire station. In addition to feasting and testing of the apparatus, there were the usual after-dinner speeches and songs.

MINOR NOTES.
Provincial Engineer McCallum has completed an official inspection of the Hamilton, Grimsby and Beaverville Electric Railway, and pronounces the recent extension from Grimsby to Beaverville to be in good running order.
The work of the spur line, which is to connect the T. & H. & B. Railway with the Grand Trunk, for the purpose of reaching Toronto, is progressing favorably and the contractors are confident that everything will be in readiness for trains to pass over on Dec. 1. Barnabas Swazley was seriously injured while assisting to uproot trees on Alexander Kerr's farm, about four miles east of this city, yesterday afternoon. The arm of a machine being used accidentally struck him on the head.
Treasurer Stuart to-day received a check for $35,203.38 from the Bank of British North America for the jail debentures, with accrued interest and premium. The city paid $35,000 for the jail and sold $35,000 of debentures, less one of $124, which has matured, so that there will be a surplus of over $200 for repairs.

John Ross Robertson, M. P., was in the city for a few hours yesterday afternoon.
The steamer Melbourne of Montreal was loaded with pig iron at the smelting works dock this afternoon and cleared for Three Rivers.
So far Judge Snider has issued about 80 certificates in the Bracey claims.
