Richard Golden, as "Old Jed Prouty," the big-hearted tavernkeeper of Bucks-port, Maine, will receive more guests next when the Grand Opera House than he did on that record-breaking occasion, the country fair, when he fed "more'n thirteen in one day." The last time Mr. Golden appeared in this city it was in "Princess. Che," and his clever work in this production and also in "The Fortune Teller" will be remembered by all theatregoers. His return to "Old Jed Prouty" will be welcomed, for it 'i in this pastoral idy that he appears at his best. Mr. Golden as the many that the more telling, and the sharp Yankew wit is delivered as if it were spontaneous. Since "Old Jed Prouty" had the best prince telling, and the sharp Yankew will be seen here in "Old Jed Prouty."

"Down Mobile."

"Down Mobile."

"Down Mobile." said to have the treeting and atmosphere in the story it tells of life in the South. This is the new play by Lincoln J. Carter, which has been scoring a tremendous success in the east this season. From start to finish the piece is full of exciting and sunprising Indentity, and supplication of a great cotton mill located near the dismal swamps of Alabama. This fire scene, by an ingenious invention of Mr. Carter's, is given without the use of red fire or chemicals or the striking of a match, yet it is so realistic and stupendous that it has set great andiences in Chicago and other cities wild with excitement and enthus, astic appliause. The usual afteredant discondism as practised by the ignorant negrees and whites of the South is a feature of the play. "Down Mobile" will be seen here at the Toronto Opera House next week, with matinees daily except Wednesday. The reduced scale of prices is making the Toronto more popular than giver.

The Treat at the Princess.

Reeves-Smith brings his celebrated London and New York success to the Princess Theatre.

It is sometimes a wonderful convenience to own a relative who is so like one that even one's parents cannot tell which is which. At least Mr. Alfred Partridge found it so when dying from a writ-server and arriving in a hungry and penniless plight at a country inn, where his consin Arthur—his double—is staying and courting the innkeeper's daughter. He eats Arthur's breakfast, kisses Arthur's parents, who fondly believe they are saving their son from a designing country girl. Arrived in town, Alfred has to interview the American heiress, whom Arthur is supposed to be engaged to. By the terms of her father's will she must marry a Wallerton Partridge, or lose her fortune. The situation is somewhat difficult for Alfred, who is expected to make love to a girl whose name he does not even know, much less the fact that the girl believes him to be her fance. Gradually, however, the situation dawns upon him, and a very destrable situation, that of the heires's future husband, would seem to him to be. Just, however, as he is in the act of signing his cousin's name to the marriage settlement, a letter arrives from the real Arthur, announcing his final determination to wed none but the innkeeper's daughter. The impostor takes flight, with the heiress, the writ-server and Arthur's parents close on his heels, at the country linn, where his unsuspected presence keeps everybody in a whirl of bewilderment to put larger mail receiving boxes at some street corners where the present boxes have been found inadepartment to put larger mail receiving boxes at some street corners where the present boxes have been found inadepartment to business. The new boxes will have larger apertures and one will suffice for letters and papers.

Other changes looking to the improvement of the system are in contemplation, the details of which will be worked out on Mr. Mulock's return to the Capital.

Clarke, the eminent scientist of New York. at Massey Music Hall on Thursday evening next. The akouphone, the remarkable new invention, which has been already spoken of in these columns, will then be explained and put on exhibition by Mr. Clarke, and deaf people will enjoy the rare and exquisite pleasure of hearing for the first time. Mr. Clarke will also do some remarkable things in wireless telegraphy, in which he was the first on this side of the Atlantic to follow up Marconi's discoveries. The great attraction of the evening will be the transmission of a photograph by telegraph of H.R.H. the Duke of Cornwall and York from Montreal, where he will be on that evening, to the stage in Massey Hall. The nudlence will be able to see the whole performance carried on before their eyes, and experiments by Mr. Clarke, and as a finale the picture will be thrown on a screen by a powerful stereopticon machine. Many other astounding experiments will be shown.

The probability that Mr. McKinley will recover, which grows stronger every hour, and the difficulty there will be, in that case, of punishing Czolgosz with more than ten, or, at most, twenty years' imprisonment, makes the suggestion of a World correspondent worth thinking about. In a letter, published yesterday, this correspondent asked, Why would it not be best to accept the plea of insanity and send him for life to a lunatic asylum, asking care that nothing more was ever heard of him?

Many Musical Numbers.

In "Dolly Varden," the new comic opera by Stanislaus Stange and Julian Edwards, which Mr. F. C. Whitney will produce at the Princess Theatre during the week after next, there are no less than twenty-five musical numbers. Miss Lulu Glaser will have four solos, and will lead in three ducts and one quartet. Miss Glaser's three songs are "Run Around the Town a Bit," "The Cannibal Maid' and "The Lay of the Jay," She will also join with Mr. Van Rensselaer Wheeler in a dancing song entitled "The Things That Annoy." Mr. Wheeler has also a great song, and Mr. As one result of this method of dealing with her would-be assassins, victoria has passed into history as a monarch against whom no man in his right mind ever raised his hand.

Non-Personal Liability.

"Whereas, owing to the result of recent negotiations and developments, it has been decided to advance the price of the Treasury Stock of the Ontario and California Oil Company, but owing to certain options, formerly given on portions of said stock extending to the 25th day of September next, it would be impracticable to do so until that date: RESOLVED, that the Treasury Stock of the Ontario and California Oil Company, Limited, no personal liability, at present selling at six cents per share, be advanced to twenty-five cents per share—such advance to take effect after the 25th day of September next."

Contracts will be let within the next few days for the sinking of twenty additional wells on the Company's Ontario properties.

CALIFORNIA--

Look out for some surprising results on the California properties, con trolled under option for development agreement by the Ontario and California Oil Company.

TEXAS--

The Ontario and California Oil Company have secured the option on the control of the stock of the "Blue Bonnet Oil Co." of Galveston and Beaumont, Texas, owning valuable oil lands on Spindle Top Heights, about half a mile from the famous Lucas "Gusher," which has been gushing liquid money at the rate of seventy thousand barrels per day; also three more blocks of valuable oil lands at Sour Lake, Damonds Mound, and close to the Town of Beaumont—all in the very richest oil-bearing lands so far discovered in Texas. The Blue Bonnet Oil Company and its directors are highly endorsed by Walter C. Jones, Mayor of Galveston, Texas.

The above advance is gratifying to the Company's Directors and Shareholders, but is only an earnest of what may be expected in The Ontario and California Oil Company, and looks small when compared with some other oil stocks which have actually advanced from fifty cents to two hundred dollars per share. All orders for the present issue at six cents per share must be forwarded before the above date, accompanied by the cash or equivalent, payable to
