London. Nov. 14.—Gabrielle D'Annunzio has occupied Castua, to the west of Fiume, but has met with some resistance from the Siav population, the Milan correspondent of The London Times says. Another buccanneer expedition left Fiume Friday and landed at Sebenico. A band of Fiume roughs invaded the suburb of Sussak, destroying all the Slav shops.

"All this meets with popular disapproval," the correspondent adds, "as Italy accepted favorable terms in the settlement."

DEMOCRACY NEEDS HIGH CITIZEN TYPE

Dr. Herridge Stresses Spiritual Foundation of Social Reform.

The necessity of a regeneration of was stressed by Rev. Dr. W. T. Herridge, who discussed "Democracy" in a sermon preached last evening in new St. Andrew's Church. Greed, not altruism, the preacher implied, was the motive in many schemes of economic redistribution at present being agitated under the caption of democ-agitated under the caption of democracy.

"But," Dr. Herridge stated, "the Bolshevik of today may be even a blessing in disguise."

In expounding the meaning of this statement, the preacher pointed out that the basis of the sentiment against Bolshevism lay largely in the awakening of individual consciences. Certain classes, with any proposal for the distribution of wealth, were led to mentally question their title to the to mentally question their title to the portion which they enjoyed. Were the issue of conscience then to be the issue of conscience then to be faced honestly, Dr. Herridge could not but foresee a rebirth of honest endeavor along lines that are Chris-

"Would that all my people might become prophets," was the Old Testa-ment text upon which the preacher then based his discourse upon the conditions upon which a successful democracy must rest. From its very character, he stated, a democracy required a high type of citizen body and no higher ideal could be found than that of the Old Testament writer, that all citizens might democrates that all citizens might demonstrate the word of God.

This ideal, he continued, was not impossible of attainment in a large measure. The Hebrew nation had impossible of attainment in a large measure. The Hebrew nation had been uniformly God-fearing, as testified by the appearance from divers classes of a Sampson, a David, a Solomon, and finally, from the humble artisan class, a Christ.

This "God-intoxication," Dr. Herridge maintained in his concluding remarks, might become characteristic by the present aga. When it be.
