

AMERICANS UNABLE TO OBTAIN SUGAR

Call to The Sunday World.
Bridgburg, Ont., Oct. 25.—Not only Ontario is there a sugar shortage, but right across the border in New York State, there is a still greater shortage of sugar than here, and Americans are coming to Bridgburg, Erie and other frontier towns asking for sugar.
In their quest they are always disappointed, but they still keep coming, and to get just the pound that they need, they are willing to pay a premium. But the customs officials at the border are religiously enforcing the prohibition order absolutely prohibiting exportation of sugar.
Only that, but the American officials are refusing to allow the country, so that even if he is a "pound" one, the chagrin of seeing his sugar away from him even if he does get to smuggle some out of Canada, the United States regulations prohibit the export or import of sugar in quantity, no matter how small.
Water—Steak medium or well done.
Absent-minded Parson—Well, thou good and faithful servant.

Without An Operation

Wonderful Healing of Rupture

How a New Jersey Man Got Rid of a Severe, Obstinate, Inguinal Hernia Without the Slightest Trouble.

is a picture of Eugene M. Pullen, a well-known carpenter of Manasquan, New Jersey. If you could see him at work, particularly when he handles heavy timber, jumps and climbs around a roof, you would scarcely imagine that he had formerly been afflicted with a rupture.

Ruptured in Right Side.

At an early age, Eugene Pullen was an express driver. He handled railroad baggage. One day after delivering a heavy trunk on an upper floor he felt a pain in the right groin. The suffering increased and it was not long before the young man noticed the swelling. The doctor told young Pullen that he was ruptured and that he must either have a drastic operation. All surgeons told him that hernia operations, with anaesthesia, etc., are dangerous; they may be fatal. Moreover, it is a well-established fact that many rupture operations are successful; the bowel soon breaks through the sewed-up opening and grows worse than ever.

Afraid of Operation.

Most others, Mr. Pullen decided to take the risks of an operation; the loss of time had to be considered, too. Hoping he might get a little relief, he went to an anaesthetist, who, to his sorrow, gave him less hope. It was pointed out to the young man that unless the rupture was perfectly held all the time or the surgeon's knife successfully used, he could expect an increase or doubling in the rupture with further complications, the dreaded strangulated hernia which is so many ruptured people.

Victim of Trusses.

The victim bought a truss, a hard, uncomfortable one. He tried another—still relief. He was compelled to give up express business. The hard tasks of his life were forbidden him. He became an insurance agent, in which position he did not need to do bodily work. At six years Mr. Pullen dragged using various trusses, hard, etc., with never any contentment. His mother told him something and just found out. It was a simple thing for him to do. He lost time.

Discarded His Truss.

came at once; he almost forgot had any rupture. Afterward came complete healing—and, although he had passed and Mr. Pullen is an expert carpenter, working on buildings. In fact, he is absolutely free from the hernia. He knows he is completely cured. There was no operation, no time, no trouble—comfort and contentment from the very outset. He is strong, cheerful, and a man.

Valuable Information Free.

The valuable information which Mrs. M. Pullen read in a newspaper many years ago and gave to her son, together with other important facts, will be sent free to any reader of this who writes to Mrs. M. Pullen, 7657, Marcellus avenue, New York, N.Y. Enclosed a stamp for the kind of rupture you have, whether on right or left side and at what you have already done in your effort to cure it. A legion of cases of all kinds of ruptures in men and women, including (groin), femoral, naval, etc., have been reported and detailed. Age seems to make no difference.

POLITICAL NOTES

The political parties in Ontario are marking time over the week-end so far as the public gaze is concerned, but they are undoubtedly doing a lot of quiet thinking. Most of the Farmers who have been in caucus are back home for Sunday, to return by Wednesday to announce the name of their leader to an expectant province. Everything in this important respect is to all appearances in a state of suspended animation. But everybody will be wise on Wednesday.

If there is one thing more than another at which the Farmers have become adepts during their consultation gatherings in Toronto, it is that of dignified silence. They have kept their own counsel in a marked degree and been content only to issue short bulletins. All really that can be said of the Farmers is that they have been using their best endeavors to find a suitable leader. It is believed that they have really succeeded in nearly solving the delicate and important problem. The Liberals, too, have been in solemn and secret conclave in shaping the attitude they will adopt in view of the remarkable political situation.

It was stated at parliament buildings on Saturday morning that Sir William Hearst and his colleagues are prepared to get out of office at the earliest possible moment. They certainly have no arrears of work to clear away. All their decks were cleared for action before the election campaign commenced and their deputies have carried on in their absence. They have also drawn their salaries up to the end of this month, and everything points to their giving up their portfolios by Saturday next.

Wednesday next should, as a matter of fact, decide everything. It is on that day that the Farmers will announce their leader, and probably have a cabinet slate prepared. It is also on Wednesday that all the official election returns will be in the hands of the clerk of the crown in chancery. Sir William Hearst can then resign, the Lieutenant-governor will know whom to send for, and Ontario should then once more be well on the way to real government.

It is also said on good authority that there is now no possible chance of any Conservative members being invited to the charmed Farmers' circle. Dr. Cody has been repeatedly mentioned by people who do not take the trouble to look facts squarely in the face. It can be said at once that the minister of education is hopelessly out of it so far as the Farmers are concerned. Dr. Cody made them his target on more than one occasion during the election campaign.

He spoke of them as men going about with their resignations in their pockets, and said the recall—a plank of the Farmers—was a blow at the basis of British institutions. What would Dr. Cody's chances be after that? The Farmers have no use for the other two ministers who survived the elections. G. Howard Ferguson and his machine methods would certainly not be acceptable, while G. S. Henry, minister of agriculture, has recently been mentioned to be put out of court.

The only fairly safe fusion at the time of writing seems to be with the labor party. What will be done as to bringing in any liberal blood is at present problematical.

The following is a record of war work just fully compiled by the G. O. R. chapter, Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire:

During the war over 8,538 pairs of socks, chiefly handwork, were sent out. In 1915, $200 was sent to the prisoners of war fund, and 86 Christmas boxes, valued at $258, with a list of G.O.R. prisoners to be benefited. During the war $17,763.38 was used in this work alone. One hundred dollars was given to endow four beds at Shorncliffe Hospital, $100 to Queen's Military Hospital and $37 to Dr. Haywood for comforts for the men at Epsom Hospital; $10 was also given to the Christmas stationery fund, $120 was sent to Col. McCordick for the purchase of drums for 35th Batt. Twenty-four hospital kit bags were made and equipped at a cost of $108.

During these years the chapter contributed to various relief societies, some of these being: British Red Cross, $54.62; Maple Leaf Club, $100; Soldiers' House, $50; Overseas Tobacco Club, $25; British Red Cross, $50; Pearson Hall, $55.92; Serbian relief, $10; Hart House, $10. Subscriptions of $500 to the G.O.R. cot at the preventorium, $15 spent on Christmas stockings for overseas, and a number of sweaters and socks to the Navy League at Halifax. Consignments of clothing to Britain, for which were received appreciative letters; 80 personal property bags were sent to Lady Smith-Dorrien; 66,978 articles were made and sent to the Canadian Red Cross. The members of the chapter helped on all the tag days and brought in subscriptions of $32,050 to the Victory Loan. The officers of the G. O. R. were most generous, and the sergeants contributed money from entertainments to the chapter funds.

KING ALBERT CONFERS HONOR ON WEST POINT

New York, Oct. 25.—King Albert flew to West Point in a naval hydro-aeroplane today to review the cadets of the United States military academy. He returned by air, and before landing flew over New York harbor to gain a birdseye view of the shipping. While at West Point, King Albert conferred the order of the crown upon General Douglas MacArthur, superintendent of the academy.
