FEARFUL CONDITIONS IN STEERAGE REVEALED

Washington, Dec. 13.—A report on steering conditions based on information obtained by special agents of the immigration commission traveling as steerage passengers on different trans-Atlantic steamers, was made public today, through presentation to the senate, with recommendations for legislation to better conditions. Conditions found on many of these vessels are described as appalling, notwithstanding in some instances the letter of the law was obeyed implicitly.

Summing up one trip as a steerage passenger, a woman agent of the immigration commission, who was herself personally insulted and compelled to withstand privations which were repulsive to her nature, said:

"During these twelve days in the steerage I lived in a disorder and in surroundings that offended every sense. The vile language of the men, the screams of the women defending themselves, the crying of children, wretched because of their surroundings, and practically every sound that reached the ears irritated beyond endurance. There was no sight before which the eye did not prefer to close.

"Everything was dirty, sticky and disagreeable to the touch. Every impression was offensive. Worse than this was the general air of immorality. For fifteen hours each day I witnessed all around me this improper, indecent and forced mingling of men and women who were total strangers, and often did not understand one word of the same language. People cannot live in such surroundings and not be influenced."

The woman agent has described the mingling of the crew with the women of the steerage and said that the same conditions were true of the association of the men steerage passengers with the women.

"Members of the crew," said one woman agent, "never failed to deal a woman passenger a blow when she was found standing on the framework of a lower berth to get anything from an upper berth. If a woman were dressing, they always stopped to watch her, and frequently hit and handled her."

"One night when I had retired very early with a severe cold, the chief steward entered our compartment, but not noticing me, approached a Polish girl, who was apparently the only other occupant of the room. She spoke in Polish, saying: 'My head aches, please go on and let me alone.' But she continued, and soon was insulting her, and she was weakened by seasickness, defended herself as best she could, but soon was struggling to get out of the man's arms. Then then other passengers entered and he released her. Such was the man who was our biggest protector and court of appeal. The agents of the commission also state that the universal human needs of space, air, food, sleep and privacy are recognized to the measure degree now made compulsory by law. Beyond that the persons carried are looked upon as so much freight, with their transportation as their only due."

The sleeping quarters are described as being in many cases filthy, inadequate and all but bad.

Senator Dillingham, chairman of the immigration commission, introduced in the senate today two bills intended to correct much of the evil which complaint is made.

YOUTH AND GIRL DROWNED IN RIVER NEAR LAKESIDE

Hampton, N. B., Dec. 13.—(Special)—The first fatality of the skating season occurred this afternoon on the Kennebecasis River, near Lakeside, when Jack Trimble, aged 15 years, and Irene (Fibbie) McManus, aged 13 years, skated into the open water and were drowned.

Young Trimble is a son of John G. Trimble, foreman in Fleming's Foundry in St. John, and Miss McManus is daughter of Alexander McManus, baggage-master at Hampton and station agent at Lakeside.

The cold weather of the past few days has caused the Kennebecasis to freeze along the shores, and the ice is about four inches in thickness.

This afternoon young Trimble and Miss McManus, accompanied by Jack and Harold Ryan, sons of Dr. J. J. Ryan, of Lakeside, and Miss Clendon Crawford, of Lakeside, donned their skates and for some time enjoyed a spin up and down the gilt sheet of ice.

Young Trimble and Miss McManus, however, finally ventured too far from the shore and suddenly skated into the open water. Their companions were terrified at the tragedy, being enacted before their eyes, but were powerless to give any assistance, as, had they tried to reach the struggling pair, they, too, would probably meet death by drowning.

One of the lads—Jack Ryan, thinking to help—lung his hockey stick out when he saw the girl clutching at the rim of ice, but in a moment both bodies sank beneath the surface.

It was about 5.15 when the accident occurred and as it was then growing dark it was feared there was little chance of recovering the bodies.

Word was immediately sent to Mrs. McManus, at her home at Lakeside station, and she reached Mr. McManus while he was at work at Hampton station. Both were completely prostrated.

Grappling irons were procured as quickly as possible and a boat shoved over the ice to the fatal spot and willing hands offered their assistance in the search for the bodies. About 9 o'clock the girl's cap and a hockey stick were found floating on the water and shortly afterwards Robert Appleby, who was using a long pole with a hook on the end located the boy's body and hauled it to the surface. Messrs. Appleby, Harlan, Smith and young Jack Ryan, with the aid of a lantern, soon after located the body of the girl close by and it, too, was drawn from the water. The bodies were then conveyed to the homes of the stricken parents.

The place where the accident occurred is about three-quarters of a mile from Ryan's shore in a direct line with Spoon Island, and good sound ice was found up to the edge of the six-foot hole in which the bodies were found at a depth of about nine feet.

The whole community is plunged in sorrow at the melancholy event and the sincerest sympathy is extended to the stricken families.

CANON SMITHERS ON DIOCESAN MISSIONS

Canon Smithers addressed a large meeting in behalf of the Laymen's Missionary Movement in St. Luke's church school room last night. H. B. Schofield acted as chairman. His Lordship Bishop Richardson was present and delivered a brief address. Canon Smithers spoke at some length on the diocesan missions and also of the pressing need of immediate work and the need of redistribution of missions and districts. He also referred to the expansion of work and the work of the clergymen and what they accomplished in many parts of the diocese. In conclusion, Canon Smithers asked for the prayers and help of all those present to aid in the work of the diocesan missions.

At the close of the address a vote of thanks was moved by W. A. Sleeper and tendered to the speakers of the evening. The meeting was brought to a close by the singing of Onward Christian Soldiers.

Fashion Hint for Times Readers

A LOUIS XVI. GOWN IN WATTEAU COLORING. Tinted gray combined with pink—the exclusive color scheme of many of the dainty Watteau paintings—has been used for this charming theatre and restaurant frock. The gray chiffon skirt has a deep gray satin hem—a modish and most practical feature of this winter's evening costumes. The bodice matches the satin hem and opens in front over a vest of pink satin, the same tint being used beneath the gray chiffon skirt. Delicate white lace forms the tucker above the bodice and the little sleeves which open from under the satin ones. At the back is a Watteau plait of chiffon and satin, which ends in a moderate train.

HUDSON BAY RAILROAD FACTS AND FIGURES BEFORE HOUSE.

Could Be Used Only Two Months in Year—Port Nelson Favored Over Churchill—Resolution Favoring More Assistance to Fight the White Plague

Ottawa, Dec. 13.—The report of the engineers who surveyed the alternative routes of the Hudson Bay Railroad for Fort Churchill and Port Nelson, with comments of Capt. Engineer Butler, of the department of railways, have been laid before parliament today. The investigation of the engineers leads them to conclusions strongly in favor of Port Nelson.

The report states that the Port Nelson route has through better country, capable of settlement, and the line would be built with better grades and more cheaply to the mile.

The total cost for a line with eight ponds rails with stations, engine houses, water tanks, yards, two four-million bushel elevators and harbor improvements, was drawn from the western estimates, is estimated at $19,108,672 to Churchill, and $16,420,340 to Nelson, a difference of $2,688,332 in favor of Nelson.

Nelson harbor is described as the more commodious and easily approached than Churchill and more economically equipped. The cost of developing facilities in Churchill will be estimated at $6,750,000, and for Nelson the estimate is a little over $5,000,000.

In commenting on the report of the surveyors Mr. Butler says:

"I find considerable difficulty in deciding upon what basis to provide accommodation for a railway that in the nature of things cannot be operated to its capacity for more than two months of the year, to a lessened extent for a possible three months, and for the remainder of the year still less."

"Providing there were facilities for the maximum capacity of a single line it could handle thirty-two freight and one passenger train every twenty-four hours of 160 ton cars could be hauled. This would mean that sixteen loaded trains of wheat or 61,000 tons a day could be landed at Nelson, which would mean the delivery of 49,000,000 bushels in the estimated time between the beginning of the spring and the close of navigation on Hudson Bay. It would take nine ships a day to take care of the wheat for the season of thirty days. Freight going to the bay would have to be stored until the following August or nine months. The operating equipment of thirty-two trains a day would cost an additional $9,000,000. It would mean providing 108 train crews."

"It appears," says Mr. Butler, "to be a difficult proposition for independent operation and would seem to require to be worked by one of the big corporations, so that men and rolling stock could be utilized the whole year."

As wheat could be landed at Nelson as cheaply as at Fort William the cost of the haul to Montreal, or about five cents a bushel, would be saved, providing the whole year.

N. B. APPLE DISPLAY

Visitors to the city market yesterday afternoon saw one of the finest displays of New Brunswick apples ever shown in St. John. This exhibit was shown at the Amherst Winter Fair and carried off several prizes. The exhibit yesterday was in charge of S. L. Peters, of Queenstown (N. B.), who also had charges at Amherst. The exhibit comprises apples grown in Charlotte, St. John, Kings, Queens, Sunbury, York, Carleton, Victoria, Madawaska, Northumberland, Albert, Kent and Restigouche counties, as well as in the remaining counties. Many favorable comments were passed on the quality of the fruit, which emphasizes the fact that New Brunswick can produce fruit that will rank well up with the best. The exhibit attracted considerable attention during the day.

SIR ALFRED JONES DEAD

London, Dec. 13.—Sir Alfred Lewis Jones, head of the firm of Elders, Dempster & Co., ship owners, died today. He was born in 1846.

Sir Alfred Jones was decorated in 1901 in recognition of services to West African colonies and to Jamaica. He was president of the Liverpool Chamber of Commerce, and the founder of the Liverpool School of Tropical Medicine.

J. H. Scammon & Co., the local agent of the Elders-Dempster firm, yesterday received a cablegram announcing the death of Sir Alfred Jones, the senior member of the Elders-Dempster firm.

HAMPTON HAS A SERIOUS FIRE

Hampton, N. B., Dec. 13.—Fire broke out in Smith's building, Hampton station, at a quarter of 11 tonight and destroyed the whole structure, including J. W. Webster's jewelry establishment; Frank A. McPherson's tailor-shop; and Ismael Smith's photograph rooms.

The Methodist church, across the street, and J. W. Smith's hardware store in the adjoining lot, eastward, were in danger for some time, but fortunately there was little wind and the indefatigable efforts of a hundred willing workers, supplemented by the fire apparatus from the village, sufficed to confine the conflagration to the building wherein it first started.

The cause of the fire is unknown, but when first discovered flames were coming through the roof close to one of the chimneys. Webster and his assistant were both away from home, but the latter arrived from the midnight train. MacPherson also was away at Chipman and little can be learned as to insurance. Messrs. Harlan, Smith and young Jack Ryan were got out, including Webster's safe and show cases, which still contain his most expensive goods. The fire is still burning, but seems to be under control.

S. T. GOLDING PASSES AWAY SUDDENLY

News of the sudden death of Stephen T. Golding, the well known livery man, came as a great shock to his many friends in the city Monday night. The deceased was a member of the jury that met in the court house Monday to inquire into the death of the late H. F. Heenan, and at the expiration of the request was leaving the court house with several members of the jury, when he was suddenly seized with a paralytic stroke. He was assisted to the drug store of Burpee Brown at the corner of Princess street, and Dr. T. D. Walker was summoned. Seeing that nothing could be done he ordered Mr. Golding removed to his home on Princess street. On his arrival home Mr. Golding appeared to be resting quite comfortably, but about 11.30 p. m. he took a sudden bad turn and soon expired.

Mr. Golding was in his usual good health earlier in the evening, and his death came as a great shock to his family. For about forty years the deceased conducted a livery stable in this city. He came to this city when a young man and has resided here ever since.

He is survived by his wife, one son, Ernest, city editor of the Sun, one brother, A. Wellington, of this city, and one sister, Mrs. O. G. Branscombe, also of St. John. The funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

THERE WERE NO OTHERS.

McGuire—"What was done with that man down your way who stole automobiles and wrecked them by running them over a cliff?"

Rushville—"Nothing."

McGuire—"Nothing? How is that?"

Rushville—"Why, when his case came up for trial no man in the community could be found who was scrutable as a juror. The defendant's attorney objected to all those that owned or operated autos, and the attorney for the plaintiff objected to every man that an auto had run down, injured or scared."

STRANGE AS FICTION. Newspaper For Kidney and Rheumatic Sufferers

In Germany there is a newspaper published in the interests of all rheumatic sufferers, and each week symptoms and treatments are discussed by leading medical men. One of the articles related that a formula originated by a physician to relieve kidney troubles, had almost phenomenal virtues in the treatment of all forms of rheumatism.

No secret is made of this formula, which is composed of one ounce of fluid extract Buchu, one ounce of fluid extract Balmwort and two ounces of compound scurvy Sarsaparilla, mixed in a bottle, and to be taken in teaspoonful doses after each meal and one at retiring.

A local druggist expressed the opinion that rheumatic and kidney sufferer will be grateful for this item.

CANADIAN NEWS NOTES

Toronto, Dec. 13.—Eight persons from Galt, including four children, left today for the Pacific Institute, New York, having been bitten by a mad dog. The names are: Andrew Wright, Bert Sinclair, Andrew Battigrew, J. Graham, W. Smith, J. Hyndman, C. McKeown, Annie Duncan.

Toronto, Dec. 13.—Magistrate Denison committed for trial today Victor Simonsky on a charge of robbing the Bank of Nova Scotia at Rainy River last summer. Simonsky has just finished four months for vagrancy across the line. In a confession secured by a police detective in Buffalo, Simonsky related how Andrew Salinger, MacLaur, Winicki and he went to Rainy River, and at Winicki's suggestion went into the bank and held up Manager John A. Templeton with a revolver and got away with $9,032.

Toronto, Dec. 13.—Dr. J. O. Orr, manager of the Canadian National Exhibition, who returned today from a feature hunting trip to Europe, stated that a number of prominent firms besides taking space at the exhibition for next year, have decided to open branch factories in Canada. Among the concerns that will come are Doulton & Co., the famous makers of Doulton ware; Maw & Co., one of the largest makers of fancy tiles, and Hope & Co., of Birmingham, makers of locks and ornamental iron works.

British manufacturers, said Mr. Orr, have come to realize that they must follow the example of the American competitors and establish factories in Canada.
