LAST NIGHT'S WAR CABLES

A reverse of the Allies along the river Aisne, in the neighborhood of Solsona, is admitted in the latest French official statement, although the possible effect of the German advance is officially minimized.

After continuous engagements, which lasted nearly two days, the Germans forced the French to yield in front of Vregny, to the east of Crouy. It is explained by the French war office that the flooding of the river Aisne destroyed several of the bridges, and thus rendered precarious the communications of the troops operating on the right bank. These troops were withdrawn, as it was thought impossible to send reinforcements to their support.

"The success is a partial one for our adversaries," says the French statement, "but will have no influence on the operations as a whole."

Emperor William himself was present at these operations, which resulted in the capture of several thousand French prisoners, and were continued throughout January 12 and 13.

Petrograd claims that the Russian troops have progressed on the right bank of the lower Vistula, where the German cavalry was repulsed. On the other front the fighting is made up largely of skirmishes and artillery duels.

The general staff of the Caucasus army devotes a statement to the operations in Azerbaijan, it is explained, it became expedient to re-group the Russian forces, necessitating the evacuation of certain places previously occupied. No important action took place, only an engagement by the Russian advance guard.

British aviators, early in the week, dropped bombs on the German position in Antwerp, according to a Netherlands newspaper despatch. The damage done by the bombs has not been ascertained.

Geneva reports that members of the Austrian nobility and aristocracy and Viennese financiers are depositing large sums of money in Switzerland, and also giving orders for the purchase of quantities of American securities.

The American secretary of state has acknowledged, in a friendly speech, the receipt of the preliminary report of the British government to the American note protesting against the treatment accorded neutral commerce by the British warships. No comment is made by the secretary in view of the fact that it is Great Britain's intention to reply later in detail.

Maritime Province Conditions

In the Canadian Bank of Commerce Review of conditions for 1914, D. Macgillivray, manager at Halifax, writes: "The value of the agricultural products of Nova Scotia for the last year was estimated at $2,000,000. On the outbreak of the war the premier of the province addressed a letter to the farmers pointing out the opportunity for increased agricultural production and the important service which would thereby be rendered to the nation in the present crisis. This appeal has met with a good response, and we look for a further substantial increase of probably 15 to 20 per cent. in the cultivated acreage next year. The Agricultural College at Truro continues in a high state of efficiency and is doing invaluable service to the farmers."

"The total lumber cut in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick in 1914 was approximately 1,000,000 cubic feet, but the shipments were larger. The total trade in lumber was estimated at $2,000,000.
