and we are told from quarters friend- This is admitted by the German official ly to Germany it will enable the latter the Russians are retiring to stronger country to find a way out of difficulty positions. The important fact from the without humbling its pride. It is also, standpoint of the Allies is that they are ed to get into the limelight, and this is incidentally, bids fair to disappear also, confirmed by his published "appeal to and only survive as a Big Noise. the American people," in which he de-liberately seeks to embarrass the government of which he was lately a member. It was scarcely worth while to muzzle Dernburg if Bryan is free to rant in the name of Christ and protest that of the United States will, however, attend to the case of Mr. Bryan, and it Lieut. Stethem, R.C.D., Woundwill be very surprising if the same press not criticise the note to Germany

all the participants in this war are equally guilty and equally responsible for its outbreak. The intelligent press on the ground that it is quite too mild and contains too many words. A short, N. S. Masons Give $1,000 To sharp and decisive note would have been fully justified under the circumstances. However, Germany is not at all likely to recede from her position, and the hand of President Wilson may be forced, in spite of his pacific attitude. The fact that Germany in a note received at the Germany in a note received at Washington yesterday declines to agree with the American view in relation to the rights of American vessels will have a tendency to increase the friction beatween the two countries, and in replying to the last American note Germany cannot very well give the assurances so mildly saked for without a loss of prestige at home. Having played the bully so long and with so much noise, it would be humiliating to recede from that position, and such a course may be regarded as improbable. But Germany will be very glad to go on arguing and gaining time. How long the United States will stand for that sort of thing remains to be seen.

A NOBLE EXAMPLE.

reminds us of some of the classic heroes of ancient times. The name of Neill Campbell deserves to live in the story of Canada's part in the war. His patriotism is in very striking contrast to that of any who are content to profit by such sacrifice as his and neither fight nor give material support in other ways in the prosecution of the war. In the desperate struggle which still confronts the British Empire there is need of such perate struggle which still confronts the British Empire there is need of such examples as that of Neill Campbell, for there are still many who do not fully realize the magnitude of the danger or the task, or that to organise the country more effectively for war is the prime duty of the hour. A sort of belief that everything will be all right, and that the Allies must win, is both dangerous and harmful. The German staff in the eastern theatre of war have issued an order in which they boast that "God Himself is on our side," and that their alm, to attain "the power and the domination of Germany over all Europe," will be accomplished. Visitors returning from lished. Visitors returning from Berlin tell us that the people are very confident. All hopes of an early termination of the war may as well be abanination of the war may as well be abandoned. The demands upon the British Empire grow steadily more exacting, since France cannot do much more than she is doing, and there is yet a titanic struggle to be waged before the Germans are hurled back beyond their own borders. The hour of sacrifice for the country's need has not passed.

Germany had an affidavit maker in New York. He made one about the Lusitania to the effect that he visited her and saw concealed guns. He is now held for perjury. His was a typical German war trick.

Two British torpedo boats, Nos. 10 and 12, were sent to the bottom yesterday of the east coast of England by a German submarine.

Ignatius O'Brien has been permitted to retain the Irish Lord Chancellorship, and John Gordan made attorney general, thus to a certain extent easing the differences between Nationalists and Unionists in Ireland.

Exclusive of those lost on the battle-ship Bulwark and the mine-layer Irene, Great Britain's naval losses to date are 4,409.

GOVERNMENT PLAN TO AID THE UNEMPLOYED

Announcement, it is Expected, Will Soon Be Made at Ottawa dense masses of the German attacking formations.

For the first time in this war, the German stillery owing to its overwhelming superiority, regularly had the French had to suffer in 1870, when the German artillery owing to its overwhelming superiority, regularly had the French infantry for a helpless target. The Russians for one day at least avenged their French friends.

The Russian fing line was driven out of its trenches fighting, and retired, apparently reluctantly. The Germans pursued, throwing more and more forces into the fight. Their assurance was so great that they even got together a few bodies of cavairy and sent them after the retreating Russians. This continued with equal satisfaction to both sides until the Germans in ever-increasing numbers came within less than half range of the Russian artillery. From two points there suddenly burst a fearful blast of murderous cross fire upon the packed mass of triumphant Germans.

Satisfaction remained wholly with the Russians, and not with the artillery only but with all arms, for as the withering plan capable of immediate operation.
