A few years ago a shrewd hunter in Western country set about discover why the deer, an animal not especially adapted by nature for life in the water, could swim longer and keep affoat longer than any other quadruped. result of his investigation was the dis-covery that the hair of the deer differs from the capillary covering of other ani-mals in being remarkably cellular and extremly well adapted to retain air. Experiments with deer hair proved that wonderfully buoyant. A man named Peck was the first to utilize the covery, and, after taking out a patent for the invention, he sold it to Col. M. A. Bryson of St. Louis, who, associated with Mr. Thomas Knight, is applying the material to practical uses. Deer Hair Manufacturing company have their factory in New York, where they make various articles intended to seep mankind from drowning. Their life buoy, in use in the United States States navy, weighs only 21 pounds, but Their life corset, weighing only half a pound, will support the heaviest man. their mattress, weighing eight pounds, with two square pillows, weighng a pound and a quarter each, will ain the weight of five persons. The mattresses are supplied with life lines at the sides, and, by uniting a number of these, a life raft can be provided in a noments. All these appliances are made of duck well packed with deer hair. Another novelty is a life-preserving pillow, which can be used as a rest for the head, and, at a moment's notice, converted into a life preserver. The life jacket fastens with can be worn under the cost without in-

The most intetesting of the many inrentions of the company is a raft formed of two cigar-shaped cylinders, each twenty inches in diameter, packed with hair and connected by a flooring of wood. The cylinders are fifteen feet ong, and the whole apparatus weighs only 300 pounds. It capacity of 3,600 pounds, and room for thirty persons.

In 1876 a government commission de experiments with the deer hair. and reported that one pound of it would ustain a weight of ten pounds for three The latest test was by a board of naval officers, who reported that after he deer hair had been saturated for seven days it sustained in water twelve times its weight, thus showing a buoyfive times greater than that of cork. Recently the company have adopted a method of removing the oil and other extraneous matter from the hair, and by this means its buoyancy has been reased more than 100 per cent.

Little woman dressed in brown, Sunshine of our hearts and home Lightly rest in years to come -Mary P Rollins.

This series of experiments is designed for the use of young people who are in terested in the wonders and the beautiful realities of nature, and who delight to observe for themselves how curious are the phenomena revealed by scientific knowledge. Simple instructions are given for the performance of a number of pretty experiments, all of which are perfectly safe, and cost very little money. "evenings at home," it is hoped that these experiments will be found in definitely amusing and recreative, at the same time they will lead the minds of boys and girls to inquiries into the entire fabric of the grand sciences which explains the principles on which they are founded. All the materials spoken of, and all the needful apparatus, which is of the simplest and most inexpensive kind, can be obtained at a good chemist's. It is of the highest importance that all the materials be pure and good.

PARLOR SUNSHINE, -Obtain a yard of "magnesium tape" or "magnesium wire," sold very cheap by most druggists. Cut a length of six or eight inches : bend one extremity so as to get a good hold of it with a pair of forceps, or even a pair of ordinary scissors, or attach it to the end of a stick or wire. Then hold the piece of magnesium verti cally in a strong flame, such as that of a candle, and in a few seconds it will ignite, burning with the splendor of sunshine, and making night seem noonday. As the burning proceeds, a quan tity of white powder is formed. This is pure magnesia. While performing this splendid experiment, the room should be darkened.

CADAVEROUS FACES .- This is an amus ing contrast to the lighting-up by means of magnesium. Again let the room be nearly darkened. Put about a tea-cup ful of the spirits of wine in a strong ommon dish or saucer, and place the dish in the middle of the table. Let every one approach to the distance about a yard. Then ignite the spirit with a match. It will burn with a peculiar yellowish-blue flame, and in the light of this the human countenances, and objects of similar color, lose the natural tint, and look spectral. The with the smiling lips and white teeth of those who look on, is most amusing. The effect of this experiment is height ened by dissolving some common tablesalt in the spirit, and still further by ered with wounds, at the engagement of putting into it a small quantity of saf-

Noiselessly I seated myself near him, packages, preserving its aroma in-and listened to the strange music; for I bright-eyed, glossy, gray mouse. confess that I had then never heard of a singing mouse, and did not more than believe that the sound proceeded from him.

As if guessing my thought, and determined to convince me that in musical Germany even beasts can sing, away he scampered from the window, ran across the room and up the cushioned side of my sofa.

Perching himself on one of the arms, his eyes twinkled with a knowing look, as much as to say, "Now doubt, if you dare!" and then he lifted up his voice and sang.

· I have read that their song is much like a canary bird, but this did not bear the slightest resemblance to the singing of any bird; it was much softer and lower, and had a strange, far-away sound, as I said before, more like a flute softly breathed upon than anything else I can think of.

There were no sharp, shrill notes, nor was there any approach to the clear whistle of many of our birds; and instead of the long sustained trill of the canary, there was only a gentle "tremulo." Very likely, however, mice differ as much as people do in their manner of singing; and my mouse sang according to the German "method," I suppose. The entertainment lasted for about half an hour, and then before I could reward him with a crumb of cake, he shot away as fast as only a monse can run, and vanished through a little hole in the floor. Now remember, children, that this is a true story, and that some mice do sing .- Youth's Companion.

Kosciusco Did Not "Fall." The jingling couplet which tells that the Polish pariot Kosciusko fell in battle, is not truthful. Every school-boy remembers Campbell's lines contrast of the wan and ghostly hue "Hope for a season, bade the world farewell, and freedom shrieked as Kosciusko fell."

But a writer, by a statement of the tacts, destroys the veracity of the couplet :

He did not fall from his horse, covsalt in the spirit, and still further by purisions, to certain suburban passes from Let the spirit burn itself away.

The Finest Residence in America.

Flood, the California millionaire, is building what will, it is said, be the finest private residence in America. The grounds include 1.500 acres on San Francisco bay, comprising a natural park ready for improvements to any desired extent. The house is 100 by 200 feet in area, and resembles a French chateau of the old style. Verandas surround it, and the roof is broken with many gables and two towers 140 feet high. tire exterior is very ornate. Among the apartments are several parlors music oom, library and wine room, the latter being of uncommon size. The dining room is 100 feet long, so that great dinners may be given in it; most of it can be shut off, leaving a room of com-paratively small size for ordinary use. Five years will be consumed in completing the house and its surroundings. Mr. Flood also contemplates a city residence of corresponding magnificence.

A Word of Warning to Counterfeiters. The wide-spread fame of Hoseteter's Stomach Bitters causes a necessity on our part to remind, from time to time, whom it may concern, of the fact that imitating said article is a punishable offense, and we now give this word of caution: that we will most assuredly have all those persons engaged in refilling our second-hand bottles, selling by the gallon or barrel, or in any manner whatsoever palming off on the public a spurious article purporting to be our preparation, punished to the full extent of the law. Penalty for counterfeiting, or dealing in counterfeit trademark goods, as set forth in a law recently passed by Congress: "Fine not exceeding $1,000, or imprisonment not more than two years, or both such fine and imprisonment." We never fail to couviet.

NOTICE TO DEALERS AND PURCHASERS—Hostetter's Bitters are never, under any circumstances, sold in bulk, but always in bottles, with a finely engraved U. S. Internal Revenue (special proprietary) Stamp covering the cork of each bottle, fastened to both sides of the neck of same. All Bitters purporting to be Hostetter's, without this stamp, are counterfeit.
