Frank Rogers and Desplaine cluded_A Useful Hint for Prisoners.

A useful hint for the guidance soners, who have the selection of trial or trial by jury, was thrown Mr. Justice Walkem this mornin ing the hearing of the application H. Senkler, of Vancouver, for ba the fishermen concerned in the 1 strike troubles on the Fraser. It was in the early days in Ca and the principal figure in it was red-headed fellow to whom Sir Ma Begbie and Mr. Justice Walker each given 35 to enable him to go the river. Later, in recognition the river. Later, in recognition of kindness, the man sought free adw Sir Matthew, and that old worthy moned Mr. Justice Walkem to him in dispensing counsel to the f who had got into a scrape and wished to know whether it was able to come before a judge or bef jury. "Well, if you are guilty," observe Matthew, "you had better go bef jury, because then you stand a c of getting off; but if you are inn you had better go before a judy cause you will then get free at or The man deliberated for a m and then said quietly: "I gue take a jury." Mr. Senkler's application was en this morning from the six men ori included in the application, to en also Frank Rogers and Desplain two alleged ringleaders.

Mr. Senkler as a preliminary asked that a clause in the affida one of the police officers be struc as negotiations for settlement of did not take part between union canners but by a committee of p ent citizens of Vancouver. Deputy Attorney-General McLee that this committee was simply a tween. Mr. Senkler's application strike out this section was refu the Court. Mr. Senkler held that there fish running, and no fishing being and that his clients were therefor preventing the Japs from carry their lawful occupation, and furth there was an arrangement entered between the police and the cann catch these men. While he admitte the police officers were instructed Hussey through a sergeant, the were instructed by the canneryme even the police would not say the they stood up and shown their

that it would not have sufficed. His Lordship cited a case which before Mr. Justice Hawkins a few before he left the bench, in wh said that the practice of laying to catch a man could not be too s condemned. But the present case ppinion of the court was that the p instance was not one that could h ed a trap, but merely a fair piece tective work. What right had the to carry fire arms at all? Mr. Senkler then asked for cause of the hardship entailed of men of waiting for a trial by jur court retorting that they could co for speedy trial to-morrow if the desired. Mr. Senkler held, howeve this course robbed them of the i able right of a Briton to be trie jury of his peers.

Mr. Senkler then asked if the tion of whether the men would the offence or not if released w considered, the Court replied would not take that ind

Continuing Mr. Senkler asked th be granted, as his clients were poo and by their detention were m from carrying out their lawful and that it be not set so high as t it prohibitive. Bail could prop refused in case of a treasonable but the present, he thought, was which it should be allowed.

In reply, Mr. McLean referred refusal of Mr. Justice Martin to bail to the six men concerned Court here intimated that after co ation he felt that an applicati egular and legitimate. Mr. McLean felt however th judge in considering the presen cation was in a different position which he would be had the origi plication came before him. He w sitting somewhat as in an appeal. Court said he would dea this matter entirely as if it came habeas corpus. On the other hand Mr. McLea that it would be proper to grant t only if it could be shown that in r bail Mr. Justice Martin had arbitarily.

Further the case was not only which men had been interfered v the pursuit of their occupation narooning. It possibly involved n marconing. It possibly involved a for Rogers himself admitted kn one man senseless, and of an jumping overboard and not being wards seen, while the body of a evidently a Jap, had just recentl picked up. More, many of thes were Chilians, negroes and other i alities, who were loose fish in the unity, and who would promptly bail if released.

Against Rogers and Desplaine were eight charges. The forme the head and front of the whole i He had boldly enunciated a poi marconing, and had gathered about a body of desperate men, who ace to Rogers's own story were real anything. The evidence against was clear, and undoubted, and a p ine of conduct was permissil case in order that justice might efeated. Mr. Senkler, pointed out that th reason given by Mr. Justice Mart refusing bail was that the strike w settled. The strike now being that reason no longer obtained. F the Japs induced violence by savin were going to fish, when, if the told the truth, and said that they
