If you have not any business for this world. my Christian friend, then you ought to be doing business for eternity. PICTURE OF A GREAT MASTER. People go to Florence and to Venice and to Rome to see one of the works of the great masters. I think I can show you the picture of one of the great masters. "I went by the field of the slothful and by the vineyard of the man void of understanding, and, lo, it was all grown over with thorns, and nettles had covered the face thereof, and the stone wall thereof was broken down. Then I saw and considered it well. I looked upon it and received instruction. Yet a dittle sleep, a dittle slumber, a little folding of the hands to sleep. So shall thy poverty come as one that travelleth and thy want as an armed man." There is no more explosive passage in all the Bible than that. It first begins to hiss like the fuse of a cannon and then bursts like a 54 pounder. The old proverb was true, "The devil tempts most men, but idlers tempt the devil!" Therefore eek something to do. If no worldly business offers, then, in the name of the Lord Jesus Christ, go out on Christian toil, and the Lord will bless you. and the Lord will help you. Again I counsel you, avoid the pleaure seeker, the man whose entire business it is to seek for recreation and amusement. I believe in the amusements of the world so far as they are innocent. I could not live without them. Any man of sanguine temperament must have recreation or die. And yet the amusements and recreations of life must administer to hard work. They are only preparative for the occupation to which God has called us. God would not have given us the capacity to laugh if he did not sometimes intend us to indulge it. God hath hung in sky and set in wave and printed on grass many a roundelay. But all the music and the brightness of the natural world were merely intended to fit us for the earnest work of life. The thunder cloud has edges exquisitely purpled, but it jars the mountain as it says, "I come down to water the fields." The flowers standing under the fence look gay and beautiful, but they say, "We stard here to refresh the husbandman at the nooning." The brook frolics and sparkles and foams, but it says: "I go to baptize the moss I go to slake the thirst of the bird; I turn the wheel of the mill; in my cyrstal cradle I rock muckshaw and water tily; I play, but I work." Look out for the man who plays and never works. Look out for that man whose entire business is to play ball or sail a yacht or engage in any kind of merriment. These things are all beautiful and grand in their places, but when they become the chief work of life they become a man's destruction! George Brummel was admired of all England. He danced with peeresses and went a round of mirth and folly, until after awhile, exhausted of purse, ruined of reputation, blasted of soul, he begged a crust from a grocer, de-

you they never knew men who continus ously broke the Sabbath who did not fail either in mind, body or moral principle. A manufacturer gave this as his experience. He said: "I owned a factory on the Lehigh. Everything prospered. I kept the Sabbath, and everything went on well. But one Sabbath morning I bethought myself of a new shuttle, and I thought I would invent that shuttle before sunset, and I refused all food and drink until I had completed that shuttle. By sundown I had completed it. The next day, Monday, I showed to my workmen and friends this new shuttle. They all congratulated me on my great success. I put that shuttle into play. I enlarged my business; but, sir, that Sunday's work cost me $30,000. From that day 'everything went wrong. I failed in business, and I lost my mill." Oh, my friends, keep the Lord's day. You may think it old fogy advice, but I give it to you now: 'Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy. Six days shalt thou labor and do all thy work, but the seventh is the Sabbath of the Lord thy God; in it thou shalt not do any work." A man said that he would prove that all this was a fallacy, and so he said, "I shall raise a Sunday crop." And he plowed the field on the Sabbath, and then he put in the seed

THE BREAKING IN PROCESS.

In 48 hours after this innocent young man has entered the store the had young men will gather around him, slap him on the shoulder with familiarity, and, if he is stupid in not being able to take certain allusions, will say, "Ah, my young friend, you will have to be broken in." And forthwith they go to work to "break him in."

Oh, young man, let no fallen young man slap you on the shoulder familiarily! Turn around and give him a with ering glance that will make the wretch cower in your presence. There is no monstrosity of wickedness that can stand before the glance of purity and honor. God keeps the lightnings of heaven in his own scabbard, and no human may reach them, but God gives to every young man a lightning which he may use, and that is the lightning of an honest eye. Anybody that understands the temptations of our great cities knows the use of one sermon like this, in which I try to enforce the thought that "a companion of fools shall be destroyed."

And, first, I charge you, avoid the skeptic-that is, the young man who puts his thumb in his vest and swaggers about, scoffing at your old fash ioned religion, then taking out the Bible and turning over to some mysterious passage and saying: "Explain that, my friend, explain. I used to think just as you do. My father and mother used to think just as you do. But you can't scare me about the future. I used to believe in those things, but I've got over it." Yes, he has got over it, and you will get over it if you stay in his companionship much longer. For asyhile he may not bring one argument against our holy Christianity. He will why sooffs and jeers and caricatures destroy your faith in that religion which was the comfort of your faither in his declining years and the pillow on which your mother lay a-dying.

That brilliant young skeptic will after awhile have to die, and his diamond will flash no splendor into the eye of death. His hair will lie uncombed on the pillow. Death will come up, and this skeptic will say to him: " I cannot die. I cannot die." Death will say: "You must die. You have but ten ds more to live. Your soul-give it to me right away. Your soul!" "Oh, " says the skeptic. "Do not breathe shat cold air into my face. You crowd me too hard. It is getting dark in the room. Here-take my rings and take all the pictures in the room, but let me off." "No," says Death. "Your coul! Your soul!" Then the dying skeptic begins to say, "O God." Death says, "You declared there was no God." Then the dying skeptic says, "Pray for me," and Death says: "It is too late to pray; you have only three seconds more to live, and I will count them off-one, two, three. Gone!' Where? Where? Carry him out and lay him down beside his old father and mother, who died under the delusions of the Christian religion singing the songs of victory.

Again, avoid the idlers-that is, those mow on the Sabbath, and then he stood out defiant to his Christian neighbors and said, "There, that is my Sunday crop, and it is all garnered." After awhile a storm came up and a great darkness, and the lightnings of heaven struck the barn, and away went his Sunday crop. Beware, young man. of all Sabbath breakers.

them and you will in time adopt their Who is that man fallen habits. against the curbstone, covered with bruises and beastliness? He was as bright faced a lad as ever looked up bright faced a lad as ever looked up and nearly all members and senators in the from your nursery. His mother rocked (ity, Mrs. Borden presented Colonel Steele him, prayed for him, fondled him, with four guidons, which were the gift of several device. Col. Steele would not let the night air touch his cheek and held him up and looked down into his loving eyes and wondered for what high position he was being fitted. He entered life with bright hopes. The world beckoned him, friends cheered him, but the archers shot at him; vile men set traps for him, and habits bocked fast to him with their iron grapples! his feet slipped on the way, and there he lies. Who would think that that uncombed hair, was once toyed with by a father's fingers? Who would think that those bloated cheeks were ever kissed by a mother's lips? Would you guess that that thick tongue once made a household glad with its innocent prattle? Utter no harsh words in his ear. Help him up. Put his had over that once manly brow. Brush the dust from that coat that once covered a generous heart. Show him the way to the home that once rejoiced at the sound of his footstep, and with gentle words tell his children to stand back as you help him through the hall. That was a kind husband once and an indulgent father. He will kneel with them no more as once he did at family prayers-the little ones with clasped hands looking up into the heavens with thanksgiving for their happy home. But now at midnight he will drive them from their pillows and curse them down the steps, and howl after them as, unclad, they fly down the street in night garments, under the calm starlight. Who slew that man? Who blasted that home? Who plunged these children into worse than arphanagy-until the hands are blue with cold, and the cheeks are blanched with fear, and the brow is scarred with bruises, and the eyes are hollow with grief? Who made that life a wreck and filled eternity with the uproar of a doomed spirit?

Oh, if I had some art by which I could break the charm of the tempter's bowl and with mailed hand lift out the long serpent of eternal despair and shake out its coils and cast it down and crash it to death!

Shake off the Sabbath breaker. Oh, turn your back upon these men. Shake off the skeptic. Shake off the idler. Shake off the pleasurist. You may do this work of ejection in politeness, but you may do it firmly. You are not under any circumstances to lose all the remembrance of the fact that you are a gentleman and must always act the gentleman. A young man said to a Christian Quaker, "Old chap, how did you get your money?"

"Well," said the Quaker, "I got it by dealing in an article in which thou mayest dealt if thou wilt-civility." Be courteous, be polite, but be firm. claring as his deliberate opinion that | Say "No" as if you meant it. If you
