

Reports of the Commissioner of the General Land Office, Department of the Interior, Washington, D.C., give statistical and administrative information regarding the management of public timber lands and forest reserves, also Forest Reserve Manual for the information and use of forest officers, 1902. Pp. 90.

Reports of Bureau of Statistics, Treasury Department, Washington, D.C., gives statistics of exports and imports, monthly, quarterly, and annually, prepares annually Statistical Abstract of the United States, and also issues in the Monthly Summary of Commerce and Finance valuable special reports, among which, The Lumber Trade of the United States, 1900, pp. 1081-1169.

Reports of Department of State, Washington, D.C. — Consular Reports contain references to forestry, and forest conditions in foreign lands.

Forestry in Europe, a special publication brings details of reports from the consuls of the United States, 1887, also Forest Culture in Sweden, by C. C. Andrews, 1872. Pp. 48.

Census of 1860, 1870, 1880, 1890, 1900, Washington, D.C., give statistics of lumber industry. As a result of the 9th Census an article on The Woodland and Forest Systems of the United States, with a map showing forest distribution, by Prof. F. W. Brewer, was published in the Statistical Atlas of the United States, 1874.

Vol. IX of the 10th Census (1880), pp. 612, is the first comprehensive statement on forest conditions: Report on the forests of North America, by Chas. S. Sargent, 1884.

Vol. IX, Part III, of the 12th Census (1900), "Selected Industries," contains an extensive compilation of the statistics of the lumber and other forest industries on 122 pages.

Smithsonian Institute Report, 1869: Forests and their climatic influence, by A. C. Becquerel, translated from the French.

Reports of State Commissions. — California State Board of Forestry, 3 reports, 1885-1890.