ect an approappellations f our home. "" Firmly f that style, them. She he said, but and like a nd "Ganguse it sughich natu-

tation, we

ange, but that the I to overther porte in talk7as occurase," and a to look

matting
paper on
f chairs,
kitchen.
ad comed with

Euphemia's cunning little meals. The dear girl loved good eating so much that she could scarcely fail to be a good cook.

We worked hard, and were very happy. And thus the weeks passed on.