QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS. Miscellaneous.

TREES ON ROAD ALLOWANCE.

I have a snake fence along the front of my farm. I wish to plant trees on the line of the fence to answer for posts for a wire fence when large enough. Would I be safe in building a straight rail fence about two feet outside the line to protect trees from stock on the road until trees are large enough to put on wire? Ontario. SUBSCRIBER.

Ans.—Not without permission from your township council.

WEIGHTS AND MEASUREMENTS.

1. How many tons of hay do you reckon there is in a mow 20 feet high, 18 feet by 18 feet—timothy, last year's, and nothing been on top of it? How many cubic feet do you reckon approximate to make a ton of such hay?

2. In measuring grain in a bin, how much space to a bushel, or how many cubic feet to a bush?

3. Where could one get a book with the most reliable data concerning weights, measurements, rules, tables, etc., of all kinds? SUBSCRIBER.

Ans.—1. It is a pretty risky business venturing one's reputation for judgment by estimating the weight of hay he has never seen. The rule covering this point prescribes a normal latitude ranging from a cube of 7 feet, or 343 cubic feet, up to a cube of 8 feet, or 512 cubic feet for a ton. In this case, we should think 400 or 425 cubic feet ought to weigh a ton, although the use of the scales would be much safer.

2. A cubic foot contains 25 quarts. Stating it the other way a bushel is equivalent to 1.28 cubic feet.

3. Prof. Wald's Handbook, for farmers and dairymen, issued a few years ago, is one of the most comprehensive we have seen, but many of his statistics are American. The trouble with most books of that character is that they soon get out-of-date.

LIME SLAKED OR UNSLAKED—FERTILIZER FOR CLOVER.

1. Is lime that is slaked before you get it as valuable to put on the land as that which you get in barrels unslaked?

2. Is slaked lime a good thing to put in the gutters behind the cows and to scatter around the stable?

3. What is the best fertilizer for clover?

4. How much more is a ton of clover hay worth than a ton of timothy hay, if it is used in feeding milch cows? W. C.

Ans.—1. To get an even distribution of lime over the ground, it would have to be slaked before spreading. Therefore, if the slaked lime is fresh, it would be approximately equal to the unslaked lime, but if the lime has been slaked for some time, it is quite possible that a good deal of it has combined with the carbon dioxide of the atmosphere, forming calcium carbonate. In such a case, it would not be so active as the freer lime.

2. Slaked lime will liberate ammonia from manure and liquids which would be got in the gutters, and, therefore, it would not be the proper thing to use in the stable. By doing so, a large amount of nitrogen would be lost.

3. It is well known that clovers have no difficulty in gathering nitrogen from the atmosphere. The particular substance which the clovers have difficulty in collecting, is potash, and, as a rule, the application of no one constituent will give such returns as potash. Lime acts as a liberator of potash, and it may be used with profit on clovers. It not only liberates potash, but supplies lime, a constituent which clover feeds liberally upon. I would, therefore, state that, as a general rule, potash and lime are the best fertilizers for clover.

4. It is practically impossible to say how much more clover hay is worth per ton than timothy hay. So many points come into consideration that it is hard to get figures to truly answer the question. As proteins are a very important constituent in the feed of milch cows, I think that we can state that clover hay would have at least one-third greater value than timothy hay when fed to cows producing milk.

WEAK TIRED WOMEN

How many women there are that get no refreshment from sleep. They wake in the morning and feel tireder than when they went to bed. They have a dizzy sensation in the head, the heart palpitates; they are irritable and nervous, weak and worn out, and the lightest household duties during the day seem to be a drag and a burden.

MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS are the very remedy that weak, nervous, tired out, sickly women need to restore them the blessings of good health.

They give sound, restful sleep, tone up the nerves, strengthen the heart, and make rich blood. Mrs. C. McDonald, Portage la Prairie, Man., writes: "I was troubled with shortness of breath, palpitation of the heart and weak spells. I got four boxes of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and after taking them I was completely cured."

Price 50 cents per box or three boxes for $1.25, all dealers or the The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.
