"HUMAN HATPIN" BEAT ATHLETICS

Falkenberg, the Former Leaf, Had Philadelphia at His Mercy.

NEW YORK BEAT CHICAGO

Detroit and Boston Were the Other Winning Aggregations.

CLEVELAND, July 11.—While Napland bats tapped a merry tattoo that crushed Plank and Houck, long Cy Falkenberg herded the Quaker immigrants in his own corral and branded them with a decisive defeat yesterday 4 to 1.

The effective and agile work of the "human hatpin" permitted the Naps to win. Score: Philadelphia.....00000001-2 Cleveland.....11000002-4

HALL WAS GOOD

His Superb Pitching Was Means of Defeating Washington

DETROIT, July 11.—Hall's superb pitching was too much for Washington yesterday, and the Detroit Tigers made it two out of three by a score of 4 to 2. The Senators outbatted the Tigers, but a pass, Crawford's triple and singles by Gainer, and McKee put the game on ice in the first. Score: Washington.....00001000-2 Detroit.....30000001X-4

YIELDED TWO HITS

"Rube" Foster in Grand Form for Red Sox.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 11.—The pitching of "Rube" Foster was too much for the home team and Boston won from St. Louis yesterday 6 to 2. The young right-hander did not give a hit up to the ninth inning in which the locals tallied their runs. Brief, first man up, was hit, Williams then tripled for the first hit over the visiting pitcher, scoring Brief. Williams tallied when Wagner muffed Johnson's easy roller. Up to the final innings but one man reached second base. Score: Boston.....200002101-6 St. Louis.....00000002-2

CHANCE BREAKS HOODOO

Wins His First American League Game in Chicago

CHICAGO, July 11.—Manager Frank Chance won his first game in Chicago yesterday as head of the American League Club of New York, which defeated Chicago 2 to 1. The run which won the game for the visitors was scored on a sacrifice fly by Rollie Zeider, the former utility infielder of the local club, who figured in the trade for Hal Chase. Warhop allowed the home team but three scattered hits, only one of which—Russell's double—was clean. Score: New York.....010001000-2 Chicago.....01000000-1

Much Married Man Sentenced

John Walter Gerrard Dawson, an insurance agent, aged fifty-one, was, at Hereford Assizes on Tuesday, ordered four years penal servitude on each of two charges of bigamy. Judge Bray said that they were had offences. It was stated that Dawson was married in 1883. After 12 years he and his wife separated. He went away with a second woman and afterwards lived with a third, by whom he had four children. In 1900 he went through the form of marriage with Miss Eliza Clayton, telling her he was a single man, and they had five children. He led her to live with a single woman, who was left in turn, and in 1911 he was wedded to Miss Ada Cheesman at Wakefield, his wife and Miss Clayton being still alive.

Half a Sovereign for a Drink

Lieut. Harold Wesley Hall of the Queen's Bays (and Dragon Guards) stationed at Aldershot, was charged at Woking with attempting to bribe the police. He had been fined £5 previously for motoring at excess speed, and now Police Sergeant Hornett said that when told that his car had been travelling at thirty-five miles an hour defendant asked him if he could not reduce the speed a little, as he had two previous convictions. He slipped half a sovereign into witness's hand. Mr. Hall said he gave the sergeant 10s. to get a drink. But it was not intended as a bribe. The Bench said they were quite of the opinion that money passed, but there was not sufficient evidence to show that it was intended for a bribe. The case would be dismissed, but they hoped it would be a warning to the defendant.

Drowning Accidents

A man named Barnes was implicated by coroner and jury at Hove beach Marsh upon his gallant efforts to save a companion from drowning. The latter, Walter Balderson, was seen had been taking at thirty-five miles an hour, not one of whom could swim. When Balderson got into difficulties a companion named Barnes jumped in and tried to save him, but was dragged underneath, and it was only after a struggle that he freed himself. A verdict of accidentally drowned was returned. Ernest Roper of North Walsham, was drowned while bathing at Baco-ton (Norfolk). Ida Riniper, a Swiss maid, employed by a London family, staying at Lancing, was drowned while bathing there. A boy named Mitchell, seven years old, of Coburg place, Theobalds road, was drowned in the Thames near Cleopatra's Needle.

Young Man Gives His Life in Vain

How a boy and his would-be rescuer were both drowned was related at a Bolton inquest, the circumstances being so pathetic that scarcely any of the jury had a dry eye among them when viewing the bodies. The victims were James Taylor, a child of six, and a young man named William Keighley, side piecer, both of Darcy Lane. Taylor was playing with a boy of nine on the canal bank, not far from his home, when he slipped into the water. Keighley was walking with his sweetheart, Emily Compton, on the other side of the canal, and heard the other boy's cry for help. He took off his coat, vest and cap and jumped into the canal, swam to the spot where the boy had disappeared and sank. When the bodies were recovered an hour later they were found floating. The coroner said that although Keighley could not personally reap any reward now his pluck and courage would be brought before the notice of the Royal Humane Society, in the hope that there might be some recognition of what he had done. The jury returned a verdict of "accidentally drowned" in both cases.

School Girl Poisoned.

Sarah Howley, aged 8, a Motherwell schoolgirl, has died under peculiar circumstances. She returned home from school and declared that she had been poisoned at the school well, and that she was going to die. The mother soothed her, and the girl returned to school last week. Later, however she suddenly sickened and died. A doctor who was called certified death to be due to ptomaine poisoning.

Enforcing Temperance with a Gun.

Murdo Macphail, gamekeeper, who was charged with threatening to shoot his aged father with a gun, pleaded guilty Inverness Sheriff Court to breach of the peace. It was to prevent his father obtaining too much whiskey that the accused acted as he did. Sheriff Grant said if the defendant wanted to spread his temperance principles he had better not do so with a shot gun. A fine of one pound was imposed.

Mishap to Wedding Party.

A motor car accident occurred at Slateford, Edinburgh, to a wedding party. A man named Thomson, a constable in the City Police, had been married at Craiglockhart church, and when leaving the church after the ceremony something went wrong with the steering gear, of the taxi-cab, which collided with a wall. The driver, Macpherson, was removed to the Royal Infirmary suffering from concussion, while Thomson was cut about the head. Mrs. Thomson escaped uninjured.

Unfit to Take Public Office

William Richmond Warlow, formerly engineer and surveyor to the Milton Regis Urban District Council, and Charles Downey Richardson, formerly a member of the Whitstable Urban District Council, were both declared by the judges at Kent Assizes on Tuesday incapable of holding public office, in the case of the latter for seven years. Warlow was convicted of corruptly giving the other £10 and Richardson of receiving it. Richardson was fined £10 and ordered to refund the £10 paid to him. Warlow was fined £20, and ordered to forfeit the office of surveyor to the Milton Council. The trial followed an action heard in Sittingbourne County Court. Warlow had entered a competition for the best drainage scheme for Whitstable, and his scheme was accepted. A month later and a cheque for £10 was sent by Warlow to Richardson, then a councillor.

Difficulties arose in connection with the site, and an amended scheme was found necessary. On Feb. 13, 1912, Richardson received a further cheque for £10 from Warlow. On that day also Warlow's amended scheme came up for consideration, but was postponed. Warlow brought an action for the return of the £10, and Richardson alleged that it was given as a thank offering. Warlow said the money was advanced to Richardson as a loan.

Lady Thrown Off a Car.

Judge Moore, at Clonmel Quarter Sessions, dismissed an action in which the Hon. Mrs. Massey, Ardnamoon House, sued Mr. John Clifford, car-owner, Clonmel, in respect of personal injuries received by being thrown off the defendant's car. His honor also allowed Mr. Clifford's counter-claim for £10 9s. cost of repairs to car and balance of car. The Hon. Mrs. Massey and her daughter gave evidence that the car overturned on the grass margin of their avenue, and they alleged that the driver was stupid and paid no attention to their warnings that he was off the road. On the other hand, the driver attributed the accident to the plaintiff's dog jumping at the horse.

Rules Against Cursing

The magistrates at Limerick Petty Sessions, dismissed a case in which James Clark, of Tuam, was charged with cursing a betting house in William Street. Constable Keighley, who searched defendant's rooms, said he found books, docket, telegraph codes, and racing instructions. The office rules read, as follows:—"Please don't curse, or use any words that we care a damn, but it sounds like h—l to strangers." (Laughter.)

Outrages on a Pressman

Judge Law Smith, at Rathkeale Quarter Sessions, awarded Mr. J. F. M'ony, of Glin, with costs, expecting that on a compensation for a wall which had been maliciously knocked down. The applicant said that outrages had been committed on him for years for the manner in which he had discharged his duty as a pressman. A member of his family said he could go to Mass for some time without calling at the police barrack.

Brave Rescue of Lady Tourist

The Killarney magistrates have adopted a resolution recommending to the Royal Humane Society and the Inspector-General of Police the brave conduct of Richard Boylan and Constable O'Connell and Greany in rescuing Miss Woods, a Dublin tourist, from a dungeon 50 feet deep into which she had fallen, sustaining serious injuries, while exploring the ruins of Ross Castle. The rescue was attended with considerable risk to the three men, the only ladder available being a light one only 15 feet long.

Work for All at Home

A man named Gaffey applied to the Athlone Board of Guardians for help to take himself and his family to Canada. He said they were badly in need of clothes, and he understood the guardians gave assistance to immigrants under such circumstances. He had received passages to bring out his family from relatives abroad. The High Sheriff. There is plenty of work for laborers in this country who are able to work. Mr. Larkin: Well, I know from experience a man could get as good a living in this country as in any country in the world. The application was refused.

Robbery to Repair Police Barracks

A case that caused much amusement was heard at Cootehall (County Roscommon) Petty Sessions, in which Michael Reilly, a carpenter, pleaded guilty to having a quantity of timber illegally in his possession. Reilly was employed by the police sergeant to repair the police barracks. There was a creamery being built in this locality, and Reilly took the timber from the site, and also, it is surmised, some slates—and repaired the barracks with it. The daring of Reilly in repairing the police barracks with stolen timber appealed strongly to the sense of humor in the district. He was allowed off with a fine.

Jane McConnell or Marshall, known professionally as Mme. Nita, was convicted at Glasgow of pretending or professing to tell fortunes by palimistry. She said she believed that by means of the hand she could tell certain things with regard to the future. She practised no deceit, really believing what she told the people. She was fined five pounds.

Dead Woman's Watches

A novel case was heard at Ballymahon Quarter Sessions, in which George Daly, a merchant in the town, was sued by Mr. Arthur J. Bredin to recover two gold watches. The watches were the property of Miss Barbara O'Brien, who, when dying, left them to her sister, Miss Bessie O'Brien, an old-age pensioner, with Mr. Daly stated that Miss O'Brien represented herself to be actually starving and he gave her goods; she deposited the watches with him. The plaintiff said he was the executor of Miss O'Brien, and was unaware she owed anything to Mr. Daly. His honor said Mr. Daly must return the watches and take other proceedings for the recovery of any money due to him.

Growing Outdoor Relief

The Athlone Board of Guardians received a large number of applications for outdoor relief. These were from people who were recently removed from the relief lists owing to the threat of the auditor, Mr. Ellis, to heavily subcharge the guardians. In his recent audit he stated that the Manual labor or even light exercise is impossible with lumbago. The muscles stiffen out like steel—to move means agony. Only a powerful remedy can penetrate deep enough to help. The surest relief comes from rubbing in Nerviline. It sinks into the very root of the trouble—penetrates where an oil liniment cannot go. To prevent lumbago returning, put on a Nerviline Porous Plaster which removes inflammation and strain from the muscles, and acts as a guard from drafts and exposure. Nothing will so quickly cure as these remedies. All dealers sell Polson's Nerviline and Nerviline Porous Plasters. Refuse all substitutes.
