Information has been laid before magistrate R. H. Griffiths, by Henry Gerhardt, of Kingsburg, against Freeman Spindler (of Salmon), Solomon Winters, Ben. Cook and one Barkhouse for stealing a quantity of fish from the fish store of Wm. Culp, Middle South. The case comes up for hearing on Saturday.

This morning three of our popular young ladies were bidding good-bye to friends on the train. They were so engrossed in getting the last hand shake, and the last word, that they did not hear the conductor's cry of "all aboard." The consequence was that they were obliged to take an unexpected trip as far as Mahone Bay, where they stopped, returning here on the 11 o'clock special.

The Collector of Customs at Lunenburg requests all owners or masters of fishing vessels who during 1890 paid license fees for bait in Newfoundland and who have not already made application for a refund of the same, to communicate with him with a view to making such application. This request is made by the Department of Marine and Fisheries, and early attention thereto is desired.

A correspondent from Mahone Bay writes that a very modest and absent-minded young lady went to a store at that place for some flour. She gave the clerk what she thought was a neatly folded and ironed pillow slip. The clerk unconsciously emptied one scoop of flour in it and it went right through to the floor. When the horrible discovery was made that what had been taken for a dainty little sack had two outlets, and each outlet was trimmed with embroidery. The clerk fainted and has been in that condition ever since.

On Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday last, the rash at the millinery show days at Mrs. Adair Rhalph's, was immense. On visiting the establishment on Tuesday we were confronted with a grand sight, in the shape of a fine display of ribbons, feathers, flowers, laces, buckles and everything else that can be found in a first class establishment. Women's heart desire—bonnets—were there in profusion, and of every description, from the Lady Aberdeen, Natalie Ripon style down to the helmet shaped Bon Marche. The style of trimming, etc., reflects great credit on the young lady who has charge of the department.

OBITUARY.

We are sorry to have to record the sad, and rather sudden death of our esteemed townman Mr. Freeman H. Beckman, son of Mr. J. Henry Beckman, who took place at the Backman Hotel on Wednesday evening last.

Mr. Beckman had been suffering with a slight cough, and was still attending to his everyday business. On Wednesday evening after returning from the post office with his mail, and while engaged in conversation, he gave a slight cough, and on expectorating noticed a tinge of blood. He procured a basin and started to go to another room, but was unable to do so, as the blood gushed in a steady stream from his nostrils and mouth. Two minutes only elapsed from the time he coughed first until life was extinct, the blood rushing out so fast, that it was impossible for him to breathe. Doctors were summoned, but of no avail, and they are of the opinion that he must have broken one of the principal arteries. The deceased was 31 years of age, well known and highly esteemed, and was a prominent member of King's Sun Lodge, I. O. O. F., by which he had been elected Master in charge of, and the funeral which took place on Sunday, was conducted by them. A very handsome wreath, with the emblem of the order in its centre, was presented by his brother-in-law, about 180 odd-fellow members, representing the Lunenburg and Bridgewater lodges, besides about 2000 other persons, friends of the deceased. In fact it was one of the largest funerals ever seen in Lunenburg. We tender our sympathy to his bereaved parents and relatives.

IT'S THE CRITS WHO MAKE ROWS. To the Editor of the Herald: Sir,—I was much pained on scanning the pages of the Halifax Chronicle of the 24th inst. to find a letter headed "Tony Howdriam at Lunenburg," purporting to have been written at Chester by styling himself "Fair Play," but which in reality was written by a young blood in Lunenburg who might in truth be styled "Foul Play," and who for some time past has been seeking to make himself obnoxious to this town. However that may be, he has succeeded in doing so to the fullest extent. The fact of his having been dated Chester is a sufficient guarantee of its baseness. When the owner of an article seeks to disguise his ownership it must be of a very inferior quality indeed, and the public will place its true value on it. But as several of those false and malicious statements have appeared in the Chronicle during the late political contest, I ask to be allowed to put matters in their true light in your paper. The facts are these: It is customary here on declaration day for the defeated candidates to have part of the on that day Sperry spoke first, when during every second of the time you could almost hear a pin drop. So far so good, but when Hirtle, one of the defeated candidates, had spoken for a moment, Mr. Eisenhauer, ex M. P., and his followers, began and kept up an incessant screaming in consequence of which Mr. H. had to resume his seat without finishing his address. Church then arose to speak and as he did so the conservatives, and very properly so, in return gave them a dose of their own medicine, in the same way preventing him from speaking. I say very properly so, because it would allow outsiders to come in and prevent one of our own townsmen from speaking and then take a back seat and allow them carte blanche. The Gloucester of the Dominion is a happily not composed of such stuff. Had Mr. H. been allowed to speak everything would have passed pleasantly and quietly. With regard to the late elections, I know I am safe in saying that immediately before the elections one general sentiment ran through this county viz., that Church, as minister of public works and mines, was a huge failure and that his time had come, and the liberal party, recognizing this fact, knew their only chance was to get money, and, taking advantage of the conservatives having entered into an agreement that no liquor should be used, they used those weapons (rum and money) from one end of the county to the other, a fact which the liberals laugh and boast of. The Dominion elections were referred to with regard to that Kaulbach's prospects were never brighter, while Eisenhauer's power has been waning for some time until he has now lost the respect of a large number of even his own political friends. And lastly I hope that should the young blood or the Chronicle ever again attempt to publish such degrading slanders, the public will take them at their word, and that when the complimentary expression "Mongrel breed Tories" is used they will not forget that it is a reflection on the good old progressive town of Lunenburg, a town composed of people whose influence is felt in all parts of the civilized world, whose sails whiten the waters of the globe, and who are noted for their intelligence, honesty and thriftiness. Thanking you for space. Truly yours, Lunenburg, March 29th, 1894.

EMPERORS KISS. ABBAZIA, March 29.—The Emperor of Germany, wearing the uniform of the Austrian hussars, and the Emperor of Austria, in the uniform of the Prussian grenadiers, met at Mattuglie, the end of the railway near Abbazia, this morning. They embraced and kissed each other affectionately and conversed together for several minutes. After the greeting the emperors took a carriage together and were driven to Abbazia. Arriving there the emperors were received by the civil and military authorities and conducted to the Hotel Stephanie, which will be the residence of the German emperor during his stay here. Emperor William gave a reception this afternoon in honor of the Emperor Francis Joseph on board the German warship Moitke, which is anchored off Abbazia. This evening Emperor Francis Joseph left here for Vienna.

A PRIZE FIGHT IN A CHURCH.

READING, Pa., March 30.—The police stopped a prize fight in the Methodist church at Warnersville early yesterday morning. They found a ring pitched in the centre of the church and benches and pews occupied by a motley crowd, who were prepared to see the fight in comfort, a good supply of liquid refreshments being on hand. The principals were Mike Butler, of Wilmington, and Harry Sawyer, of this city. They entered the ring at 2.25 a. m., and the fight progressed five minutes when the officers arrived and stopped the fight. No arrests.

IN POTTER'S FIELD.

St. Louis, Mo., March 30.—An Austrian nobleman will be buried in the potter's field today. Descended from an illustrious family and with the secret of a strange crime locked in his breast, Hugo Baron Von London, died without the common necessities of life, in this city yesterday. General London, the renowned Austrian warrior, who fought against Frederick the Great, was one of the ancestors of the unfortunate man, and a number of other famous Austrians belong to the same genealogical tree. Hugo Von London has been in America a little more than ten years. According to the story of the deceased, he fled from Russia to this country to escape the consequences of a murder he was supposed to have committed there. He owned vast estates in that country, but was afraid to return and claim them.
