LUMBERMEN, ATTENTION!
I AM SOLE AGENT FOR THE

WOODBRIDGE SAW MILL, which with the late improvements, stands unrivalled.

This Machine requires no expensive puffing, as it has by its own merits become the leading Saw Mill of Canada.

It is so geared that the saw makes two revolutions to one stroke of the piston, thus avoiding the shaking caused by direct action.

This Company insures only Insured Property, and is subject to no more than Two Thousand Dollars in any Risk.

This Company Effects Insurance as follows: 1st.—On the PREMIUM NOTE PRINCIPLE, that is, a small payment each year. In this branch for the past 15 years, a trade more than one-half the notes have been sufficient to defray the expenses and pay the losses.

2nd.—On the SHORT DATE NOTE PRINCIPLE, that is, the amount to be paid in full at any time within six months at the option of the Applicant.

3rd.—On the CASH PRINCIPLE, that is, all down at the time of insurance.

By the two latter methods the Applicant knows exactly the amount to be paid, and by the Premium Note Principle, the Applicant is liable only for the Amount of the Note and a good fortune of the Company tends to lighten his payment.

CHARLES C. CARLYLE, ESQ., SHEDAC, has been appointed General Agent for the Maritime Provinces, through whom we hope to secure a fair share of the Insurance patronage.

Selected Literature.

The Autumn of the World.

BY EDMUND W. GOSSE.

The last wan petals leave the rose,
The latest swallows preen for night,
The summer's gone where no one knows,
With dead men's love, and spent year's light,
And warm hearts buried out of sight.

And roses are the crown of youth;
The warm light strikes on lovers' lips; Laugh though, and fondle, happy mouth,
And yet, remember, sweet time slips, Death hurries on with full eclipse!

Short, it is! Oh! let not Death And only faded flowers and wine,
The summer's gone where no one knows,
light,
And warm hearts buried out of sight.

Ging to the flying hours; and yet Let one pure hope, one great desire, Like song on dying lips, be set,
That ere we fall in scattered fire Our hearts may lift the world's heart higher.

Here in the autumn month of Time, Before the great year can break, Some little way our feet should climb, Some little mark our words should make For liberty and manhood's sake!

Clear brain and sympathetic heart,
A spirit on flame with love for Man, Hands swift to labour, slow to part—If any good, since time began, The soul's a fashion, such souls can
And so when we are dead and past, The undying world will some day reach Its glorious hour of dawn at last,
And we across time's sunken beach May smile one moment, each to each.

THE BABES IN THE BASKET;
-OR-
DAPH AND HER CHARGE.

It was in vain that Daph pleaded To her to give up her wild purpose; All the poor negro's store of possession and warning was exhausted, and in her despair she said, desperately, 'Now you Mary! sit still here, and let Daph tell you somewhat that do all the solemn truth, every single word.' Daph had been no inattentive listener to Rose's frequent reading of the Saviour's life on earth; and now, in her own simple, graphic language, she sketched the outline of His patient suffering, and painful, unrelieved death. She told of the glory of His heaven, where those who humbly follow Him shall rejoice for ever; and the speaker and the listener forgot the dreary place and the midnight hour as she dwelt in faith on that glorious theme. 'Dere'll be nobody dere, Mary, dat tans back on de work de Lord gibs em to do!' said Daph, earnestly. 'Stay, Mary, and try to bear de Lord Jesus' sake!' Who knows but your poor ma, her own self, may learn to know 'bout de heavenly home!

Every human heart has its trials, which it can only bear in the strength that God alone can give. Every human heart feels the need of comfort and hope, which can only be found in God's truth.

Mary Ray was touched by the simple eloquence of her humble friend, and acted upon by the glorious motives held out to her for her efforts of forbearance and patient endurance.

The world she had known was dreary and dismal enough; but what terrors, trials, and temptations might not await her in the new scenes into which she was hastily rushing! Subdued and softened, she crept back to her bed, and lay down beside the mother whom she had so nearly forsaken. Compared with the wide, lone world without, that poor, low room seemed a kindly and comfortable shelter; and as her mother sighed and groaned in her sleep, Mary felt that natural affection was not dead in her heart—that a tie bound her to her on whose bosom she had been nursed.

True prayer was at that moment going up to heaven for that poor, tired desperate girl. And what faithful petition was ever unnoticed or unanswered!

Mary met Daph's kind 'good morning' with a shy, averted face, and kept out of her way as much as possible during the day.

When evening came on and the sound of singing was heard in the room of the lodgers, Mary lingered at the open door, and did not resist when Daph noiselessly stepped to her side and drew her to the low bench where she herself was seated.

Mary Ray learned to love that evening hour when she could hear Louise read of the blessed Saviour, and join her voice in the hymns of praise that went up from the faithful worshipers.

Even this pleasure she was soon obliged to deny herself, for all her time and attention were needed beside the sick bed of her mother.

Mrs. Ray had never wholly recovered from that cold with which she had been attacked soon after the arrival of Daph. At times, her cough returned with violence, and at length a sudden hemorrhage, laid her low. Prostrate, enfeebled, and hopeless, Mrs. Ray had time to dwell on her past life, and see all too plainly the hollowness of her own wicked heart. A dull despair crept over her. She gave herself up as a lost and hopeless being, waiting for her eternal doom. Daph felt her own incapacity to reason with and comfort the wretched woman, and to Rose she turned for aid and counsel.

Often and long Rose Staynesant sat beside the bed of the unhappy woman, and strove to open her mind to the free forgiveness granted through the blood of Christ Jesus. Her words of peace seemed to fall on a deaf ear and a deadened heart; but to the listening unnoticed Mary, they were the message of pardon and joy in believing.
