volume of continental travel. About six thousand people may be accommodated in the numerous hotels throughout the city at present. Naturally the spacious warehouse of the Hudson's Bay Company attracted attention. The old gateway of Fort Garry stands as a sentinel in a connecting link in the history of the march of progress. The ground once occupied by the old fort is to be given to the city, for a public park. The beautiful homes of the influential citizens were pointed out, and the broad avenue leading to the Farliament buildings would interest some of the promoters of the City Improvement Society of Hamilton. Crossing the Red River on a pontoon bridge, a short rest was made at Elm Park.

Unfortunately the waste needed. Two trunk lines had been projected, to which a million acres of land besides money grants had been given. He also referred to the opening of the country north between Tosoroto and Hudson Bay to secure the advantages of the timber of Algoma. Ontario had aided the construction of a line of railway from Lake Superior to connect with the Winnipeg South Eastern. The prairie of Manitoba could produce grain theaper than any part of Ontario, but Ontario would supply the manufactured goods. Canada had been able to deal with her own problems and her power of self-government. Canada should be Canadian and should settle her own difficulties in her own way, as a part of the British Empire. Mr. Ross spoke earnestly and with eloquent force and on resuming his seat was loudly applauded. Mr. Marter paid a glowing tribute to the courage of the settlers in the district of Algoma, whom the members of the Legislature had seen. In Winnipeg he could see a great distributing point for the Province of Manitoba, but during his brief visit he had seen man, of the manufacturers of Ontario represented. There should be no jealousy between the provinces, and he predicted a bright future for Manitoba. Mr. Clarke spoke of the extent and resources of Manitoba. He had just returned from a driving trip of 400 miles. He spoke of the work done by the settlers on free homesteads and vigorously upheld the interests and advantages derived by honest work. Mr. Isaac Campbell, also responded for the Legislature of Manitoba had only readness to convey the guests of the points of interest:

Introductions were in order, and before a start was made the Mayor summoned the Chief of Police to accompany the delegation, and issued spicial instructions that the wearers of the maple leaf should be dealt with very leniently if they attempted to shoot any buffalo or carry away too much of the Manitoba mud on their insteps. In addition to his recognized official and municipal ability, His Worship has a fund of information, which he carries about with him. His pet hobby is the development of the park system, and in this results were seen in the pretty park adjoining the grounds of Mr. Drewry, the President of the Board of Trade, and in the wide boulevards leading to the grounds of the Parliament buildings. With stiel an energetic chief executive and capable Council.

OTHER SPECIAL SERVICES.

Yesterday Rev. J. A. Jackson, late of Harriston, commenced his pastorate at Emerald Street Methodist Church. Notwithstanding the heat, a goodly congregation assembled yesterday morning to hear Rev. Mr. Jackson's first sermon to his new charge. The new minister of this handsome little church made a very favorable impression at yesterday's services. He is a clear, forcible speaker, decidedly natural in his style, and with a very distinct enunciation. His first sermon was based on the very appropriate text, I. Cor. ix. 16, "Woe is unto me, if I preach not the gospel." The preacher described at length some virtues, which, such as truth itself, were not necessarily the gospel. The best definition of the gospel was to be found in the words "God is love." The preacher hoped that in his forthcoming ministrations he would be able to convince his people of the need of a personal Saviour and a deep personal knowledge of God's love. No greater or deeper sympathy and consolation for the weary or sick heart could be found anywhere in the universe than in God's love. The great story of the gospel was forgiving freely, loving freely and pardon for all sin. Christ's gospel was not one of sacrifice. To tilose wno had the love of God in their hearts self-abnegation became a pleasure in every sense.

AT SIMCOE STREET CHURCH.

In Simcoe Street Methodist Church yesterday morning, Rev. Theo. J. Parr, M. A., preached the first sermon of his pastorate to a large congregation. The reverend gentleman is a polished speaker and elucidates his thoughts eloquently and earnestly, and should prove a valuable addition to the ranks of the city clergy. In a preliminary address he stated that he would preach the godnel of Jesus Christ, first and always, and asked his congregation to think of him as being Christ's ambassador in every sense of the term. He wished to be known also as a citizen of Hamilton, and as such he would stand for honesty in public affairs, and an application of the principles of Jesus Christ's teachings in the carrying out of all municipal matters. He urged his hearers to be persistent and faithful in attending church services and in taking interest in all the classes and institutions connected with the church. "I will give you," he said, "the best that is in me, but we cannot have success unless I have your co-operation. I want you to decide this morning that Simcoe Street Church shall be a progressive, prosperous, powerful church in this city, and known throughout its limits for the spirituality and faithfulness, of its people, and with your attention to the especials. I have pointed out, and with God with us, nothing can hold us back." AT SIMCOE STREET CHURCH.

He took as his text acts i. 8: "Ye shall receive power, after that the Holy Ghost is come upon you." This, he said; was the promise of Jesus Christ to His early disciples, a promise not local in its character, but holding good for all succeeding ages, and what made them a power would make us a power. In order to obtain it and be successful, however, certain conditions had to be fulfilled. These were the power of religious earnestness, the power of union, loyalty to authority, the power of witnessing for Christ and the power of the word of God. With all these conditions and with the power of prayer and the power of the Holy Ghost appropriated as the church's equipment, it was bound to go ahead.

London, July 2.—Inhabitants of Thurso, in the far north of Scotland, are at present undergoing a most curious, if unpleasant, experience. The ther day, during a strong wind, over ther day, during a strong wind, over thundred bottle-nosed whales were tranded along the sands close to the cown. To remove them, far less bury them, was out of the power of the nhabitants, and the June sun, which nhabitants, and the June sun, which is pouring its rays upon the bleached bottle-noses, is making the little town almost uninhabitable. Short of a convulsion of nature to clear the shore of the whales and decrease the offensiveness of the odor, Thursonians have the prospect of being compelled to racate their homes for the remainder of the summer.

Buffalo, July 2:—James K. Tom, who was on his way from New York to his old home in Exeter, Ont., after an absence of twenty years, died yesterday aboard a New York Central Railroad train just outside of Rochester. He was 44 years old.

Tom was a printer by trade and was employed in a big New York establishment. He contracted consumption and spink rapidly. A short time ago he was removed to Bellevue Hospital, and it was later decided to take him to his old home in Exeter. Coroner Wilson took charge of the body when it arrived here. He will ship it to Exeter to-day.

Mrs. Richard Hurley, wife of a gardener at Peabody, Mass., went to the police and said that she had murdered two of her children. The report proved true. The victims were the 12-year-old daughter Mary and a 7-year-old son. The weapon used was a heavy-piece of crockery, with which the children were beaten to deathe. The woman has been in an insane asylum and is no doubt crazy.

Most Pleasure Seekers Went Out of Town

A GOOD TIMES HOLIDAY.

Saturday was the quietest public holiday the city of Hamilton has seen in many summers. During all most the entire day the streets were almost as devoid of people as the lanes of Ancaster. The reasons for this are nest hard to find. The baseball games were the only attractions within the limits of this good city, while there were excursions by boat or rail to every part of the compass. Excursion managers gentions within the limits of this good city, while there were excursions by boat or rall to every part of the compass. Excursion managers generally are of the opinion that business in their line was the heaviest in years. This speaks well for the prosperous condition of elizens, in that the surest evidence of people hvaing money is the fact that they spend it freely when en pleasure bent.

The Beach, that old-time mecca of Hamilton pleasure seekers, would seem to have got back some of the popularity which made it such a populous place on the holidays of former years. By rail and beat the people flocked there in thousands to enjoy the delightful breezes of bay and lake. The Hamilton Steamboat Company carried an immease number of people; and, notwithstanding that it had several special cars in commission, the Radial line had difficulty in accommodating all its passengers. At no time since the destruction of the old Ocean House has the need for an up-to-date summer hotel on the Beach been more emphasized than it was on Saturday. Capt. Campbell is authority for the statement that the crowd at the Beach was the largest in ten years. And the worst of it was that while there were thousands of excursionists, all with money to spend for amusement, there was little or nothing for them to spend it on but beer and penuts. Torouto, Burlington and Stoney Creek added their quota to the crowds, and the road was lined with rigs and bicycles. Despite the immunes crowds, not a single accident was reported during the day.

The steamers Macassa and Modjeska were well patronized on their trips to and from Toronto, the late trips each way proving a specific accommodation to many. The Toronto excursionists for the most part spent the afternoon on the mountain, the pretty little park at the head of James street having over two thousand people within its bounds.

dlle electric railway did a banner busi-ess all day, bringing country people to the city and conveying city people to Grimsby village and Park.
