FATAL ACCIDENT.

Mrs. Baldrow is Killed by a Batlway

On Saturday, Sept. 15th, Mrs. Mary Baldrow, of London, mother of the wife of George Merritt, residing on the South Line, Kincardina township, reached here by the mixed train at two e'clock. She was accompanied by her grand daughter, who, as soon as the train stopped, left the car to see if any friends were in waiting at the station. She returned in a moment and saw that her grandmother had jieft the car on the lake shore side. She at once went to her assistance, and taking her by the hand, was crossing the track at the rear end of the train when track at the rear end of the train the cars were backed up. Mrs. Baldrow was struck by the car, and the grand-daughter was unable to bull her off the track in time to prevent the wheels passing over her body. Death was instan-taneous, as the wheels of the truck crossed the body at the abdomen. The grief of the grand-daughter was heart-rending. Deceased was aged seventy-nine years, but was hearty and vigorous. The relatives were at once notified and the body was taken to the residence of Mr. Mentity. The functional tools are of Mr. Merritt. The funeral took place on Sunday afternoon, and the very large number who followed the remains to the Kincardine cemetery showed the sympathy felt for the bereaved ones. From enquiries made, we think that no blame can be attached to the railway employees, or any person else in connection with the unfortunate occurrence. The husband of deceased met his death a few years ago by being thrown off a wagon. - [Reporter.

A Bear Killed in Kinless

On Monday of last week three of Wm. On Monday of last week three of Wm. McNeice's daughters were some distance from their father's house, on Range 2, S. D. R., in the vicinity of Black Horse, township of Kinloss, when they observed three large bears. The girls at once ran home and narrated what they had seen. Two young men, John McNeice and Hugh Taylor, secured a shot gun and revolver with a dog and started in pursuit. In a short time two of the animals were lovertaken. Taylor treed one, and Mcovertaken. Taylor treed one, and Mc-Neice with his dog was soon engaged in a hand-to-hand conflict with the other, he having found that something was wrong with his revolver, which prevent ed it from being discharged. Taylor observing that McNeice was in great danger in the fight at close quarters ran te his assistance and using his gun as an Irishman would a blackthorn, soon killed the brute. During the fight the bear that Taylor hr i treed made its escape. The young men certainly exhibited great pluck in attacking the bears single handed. Taylor completely ruined his gun in striking the bear, break ing the stock and bending the barrel.

The same animals were seen a few days before while they were endeavor-ing to secure some of John McGregor's pirs. Mr. McGregor and Jos. Stafford heard the pigs squealing and went to see what was wrong. As soon as they saw the bears they set their dog upon them. The bears turned upon the dog and a lively race at once ensued, with the men leading for home. Stafford fearing that he was just becoming winded made for a small tree and was soon safely esconseed among the branches. It is said that he was not afraid of the bears; he only wanted to secure a good position to watch the race between McGregor, the dog and the bears. McGregor won on a canter.

The Children's Watches

Yesterday, an old man entered a Little Rock store, and taking from his pocket an old buckskin pouch, he emptied two coins on the counter, and then, after regarding the silver for a few moments,

"Mister, I want to buy some goods to nake a dress.

"That money is mutilated old gentle man. This twenty-five cent piece has notches filed in it, and this fifty-cent piece has been punched. You see they have has been punched. You see they been abused. I can't take them.

"Abused?" said the old man. "Abus ed?" and he took up the fifty-cent piece and looked at it tenderly. And you won't take it on account of the holes? Heaven grant that I did not have to offer it to you. Years ago, when my first child was a little girl, I punched a hole in this coin and strung it around her neck. It was her constant plaything. At night when she went to bed we'd take it off, but early at morning she would call for her watch. When our John-you didn't know John, did you? No? Well, he used to come to town a good

"Where is he now?" asked the merchant, not knowing what to say, but desiring to show appreciation of the old man's story.

"He was killed in the war. I say that when Jehn was a little boy I strung this quarter around his nc.k. One day, his watch got out of fix, he said, and he filed these notches in it. He and his sister Mary—that was the girl's name—used to play in the yard and compare their watches to see if they were right. Sometimes John wouldn't like it because Mary's watch was bigger than his, but she would explain that she was bigger than him and ought to have a bigger watch. The children grew up, but as they had always lived in the woods they were not ashamed to wear their watches. When a young man came to see Mary once, she forgetfully looked at her fifty cents. 'What are you doing?' asked the young man; and when she told him she was looking at her watch, he took it as a hint and went home. After this she did boundary question, says to a Winnipeg not wear her watch in company. Well, reporter:—I have studied it, and am not wear her watch in company. Well, Mary and the young man married.
