The Evening Chit-Chat

By MRS. CAMERON

"To be truly happy is a question of how we begin and not of how we end, of what we want and not of what we have. An aspiration is a joy forever, a possession as solid as a landed estate, a fortune which we can never exhaust and which gives us, year by year, a revenue of pleasurable activity."

—Robert Louis Stevenson.
The daughter of one of the wealthiest men in our town has recently been married.

Her father's wedding gift to her was a house completely furnished. The house stands on the edge of a fine lawn. It is a beautiful big building with wide verandas, open fireplaces, and a splendid vista. It is finished in rich natural woods and it is furnished complete, even to the minutest detail. Hangings, rugs, ornaments, all the little minutiae of utility and service that most people acquire gradually through years of married life were absolutely complete in that house, the day the owner stepped into it as a bride.

By most of the young girls in the neighbourhood this bride is considered quite the most fortunate girl who ever was married. From this opinion I most respectfully, but none the less firmly, beg to differ. Why, I think the poor little girl is positively pathetic. And I think her father, though undoubtedly he meant to be the kindest and most generous of parents, has really robbed her of vast possibilities of happiness.

Don't you pity her, you people who have known all the joy of gradual home building, all the interest of planning and waiting and contriving, and all the satisfaction of acquisition made a hundred fold keener by the delay? Why, just think, she'll never have the unequalled delight that you knew when, after waiting and longing for years, you bought that beautiful mahogany bookcase. To be sure that bookcase didn't cost as much as one of the armchairs in her library. And yet it probably brought you more pleasure than her whole library gives her.

And how can she ever experience the excitement and elation which possessed you, when you found that the particular Oriental rug you had admired for years, had actually been marked down within your means. To be sure every room in her house is lavishly strewn with far more costly rugs, but what of that? Do they bring her half the joy the acquisition of that one brought to you? Indeed no.

What chance will she ever have to feel as happy as you did the Christmas that all your family clubbed together and bought you a good table for your living room and made it possible for you to get rid of the cheap and ugly makeshift you had used so long?

Hunger, they say, is the very best of sauces. Who has never tasted food thus seasoned does not know what a real feast is.

Now, planning and longing and contriving are equally good sauces for the meal of acquisition.
In my mind, the young people who start out with the necessities and a few of the luxuries, are far better off than the young folks who have almost everything the heart could desire right off at the beginning.

Every little thing they acquire will be beautified and glorified by longing and waiting, and perhaps by the sacrifices made to obtain it. Every humble piece of household furniture will have a meaning and a history. Thought and love will be the interior decorators of such a house, and will gradually make it as different from a mere house as from a city hall—a home.

Poor, little, rich girl who has been robbed of all the joys of home building. Aren't you sorry for her? I am.

"Only a Cold"

SNEEZING and running at the nose, stuffed up feelings in the head, sore throat, tickling in the throat and coughing.

This is the natural development of what is in the beginning "only a cold." It is the way in which scores and thousands are allowing colds to develop into bronchitis, pneumonia, or consumption.

If colds were promptly cured there would be no need for sanatoriums and hospitals for consumptives. Because people have weak lungs they need not become consumptives if they will but guard against colds and cure them promptly by using Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine.

This great medicine has proven its right to a place in every home by curing croup, bronchitis, whooping cough, asthma and all sorts of coughs and colds. 25 c. in a bottle, at all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

Death of Mrs. E. J. Bonner.

Mrs. S. Marion (Hierlby) Bonner, wife of Edward J. Bonner, died Saturday night at her home on Silver Lake Street after a long and brave struggle with consumption. Mrs. Bonner had twice been an inmate of the Rutland sanatorium, and everything possible had been done for her in the hopes of recovery. Nearly three months ago her condition confined her to her bed. She bore her suffering without complaint. Two months ago her mother, Mrs. Georgiana Cox of St. John's, Newfoundland, came to assist in caring for her. With her devoted mother, a faithful husband, and the untiring efforts of her mother-in-law, the deceased was given the best of care, and her last days made as comfortable as possible. She was a great care, but it was loving hands that were working for her. Mrs. Bonner was 28 years of age, a native of St. John's, N.F., the daughter of G. W. R. Hierlby, Esq., and his wife Georgiana. She had resided in Athol about ten years. She leaves a husband, two children, Rowland and Norman, her mother, Mrs. Georgiana Cox, a brother, Geo. Hierlby of St. John's, N.F., and a sister, Mrs. A. W. Cameron of Athol. Funeral services were held at St. John's Episcopal Church, Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock. Rev. J. A. Ticknor officiated, and burial was in Silver Lake Cemetery. Higgins & Co. had charge of the funeral arrangements. Her cheerful, helpful life, her devotion to her family and kindness to everyone will long linger as a fragrant memory in the home which her presence brightened.

At the annual parish meeting of St. John's Church, held Jan. 1, 1912, all present united in expressing their sympathy for Edward J. Bonner, vestryman and choir director. In the bereavement which is come to him in the death of his wife, a committee was appointed to set forth a fitting testimonial, and report the following: 1st—It is with profound sorrow that the officers and members of St. John's Mission have heard of the passing away of Mrs. Bonner; 2nd—They join with the immediate family of her whom God has lately called to himself, in mourning the loss which has come to them whose lives she has enriched and sweetened, and we thank God for this life and for all the blessings which have radiated from it. "The strife is o'er, the battle done. The victory of his life is won; The song of triumph has begun. Alleluia."

revers on many of the outer garments. Wide collarettes of chiffon or tulle are scalloped around the edge. They are used to trim the newest, smartest blouses.

One of the novelties of the spring coat is the back longer than the front, a harmonious feature with the cutaway front.

Lovely satins and cashmere and paisley designs are used for separate wraps. These are trimmed with bands of plain satin.

Light-weight serge is still very popular, and cheviot in fancy weaves and stripes is one of the new fabrics for tailor-mades.

Leather belts, more on the girder type, are several inches wide at the back and curve slightly to the front.

The new colors for novelty cottons are white, cream color, old-lace color, champagne, flocle and khaki.

At the present time there is a great tendency for white collars, cuffs and
