Economy of Ford Service

WEAR is unavoidable even in the best car, but certain parts wear out more quickly than others. There is no need of scrapping your car because the piston rings have seen their day, because the platinum points of the vibrators are worn out. Probably the rest of the car is as good as new.

Medical men agree that the human body is renewed, cell by cell, every seven years. You can do the same with your Ford Car and prolong its life at minimum cost by replacing worn parts from time to time.

Ford service has been the means of doubling the lives of hundreds of Ford Cars, and cutting down the cost of motoring. The fact that a Ford Touring Car, which costs $690, f. o. b. Ford, Ont., can be purchased part by part separately for $917 is ample proof of the economy of driving a Ford Car.

It will pay you to have your car overhauled during the winter months. 700 Canadian Dealers and over 2,000 Service Garages supply genuine Ford parts and prompt repair service.

When buying, choose a Ford, and take advantage of the economy of Ford service.

News Gathered From Our Exchanges and Various Sources

Mr. and Mrs. George Wauless, of Chatlam, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary, when their six children and their families were present.

The U.F.O. Club at Huffman, in Harwich, received a carload of potatoes from Alberta, the cost being about $1,300. The health officer condemned them as unfit for food on account of being overwatered, and the club has refused to accept them.

G. A. Brown, of Leamington, probably the largest individual grower of tobacco in Canada, will this year realize about $100,000 from his crop. His largest acreage was in Virginia, bright leaf, which brought $85,000. The balance was Burley.

Lawrence Flannigan and Ralph Gibson, the young men arrested in London on the charge of assaulting Harry Harvey, merchant at Woodgreen, appeared before Judge Macbeth on Monday, and pleaded guilty. They were sentenced to twenty-three months in jail.

Dr. S. Joy, who had been a resident of Tillsonburg practically all his life, died after several months' illness. He had a large practice in the town and country. He was 86 years of age. Two years ago he erected a family vault in the local cemetery costing in the neighborhood of $10,000.

Ridgetown lost one of its best-known citizens in the death of W. H. Ellsworth, after an illness of three years. He resided in the town for thirty-five years, being in charge of the marble plant of J. E. Thatcher, now of Chatlam, until failing health forced him to retire. For many years he was a member of the board of managers of Mount Zion Presbyterian church.

Two government officials, James Clause, lighthouse-keeper at Erieau, and John H. Johnston, game-keeper at the provincial park, appeared before the magistrate at Blenheim. Clause laid a charge against Johnston of throwing the dead body of a dog into the lake, contrary to the health act, and also charged him with shooting his dog valued at $60. The first charge was dismissed, and decision reserved in the second.

"It will be five or six years before the automatic telephone system will be installed in Ontario," stated F. W. Dewar, manager of the Bell Telephone Co., Windsor. He declares that it would take four years to get the requisite machinery, and at least another year to install, but added that in not more than six years, the automatic system will be in use throughout the entire country. Plans are already under way to install the new system as soon as possible.

Peter D. Keith, councillor of Glenora, died in Victoria Hospital, London, following an operation. He was born at Lakeport in 1864 and for some time lived with the late Rev. Neil McKinnon, of Kilmartin. Later he went to Glenora and took a position in the store of the late James Young. Nineteen years ago he opened a general store which he conducted continuously since. Besides his widow, he is survived by one daughter, Florence, teacher at Walker's, and one sister and one brother, the latter being Rev. Neil D. Keith, principal of Westminster Ladies' College, Edmonton.

The Presbytery of London has undertaken an extensive arrangement of pastoral charges in the rural districts around London. These charges are being urged at this critical time to enable all the congregations to be self-sustaining on the new minimum stipends, and to save large drafts from the home mission fund. It is proposed to unite Muncy, Delaware and Komoka into one pastoral charge; Mount Brydges, Cook's church, Caradoc, and North Caradoc into another. Hyde Park and London West will form the third. All these fields have been visited and the ministers have shown such a fine spirit that no obstacle seems now to be in the way of carrying out the whole plan.

TRAGEDY AT ALVINSTON

Boy Accidentally Shot By Companion and Later Turns Rifle on Himself

The vicinity of Alvinston was the scene of a terrible tragedy on Saturday, when a number of lad were on a hunting expedition, and Joseph R. Barnes was accidentally killed by his companion, John A. Horspool, and the latter, laboring under fear that he might face trial on a serious charge turned the rifle on himself with the result that he died instantly.

It appears that the boys who were both sixteen years of age, and who resided a short distance from the village, accompanied by several other boys, started out on a hunting trip. After journeying a short distance in the woods, they sighted a squirrel, and armed with .32 calibre rifles stood on each side of the tree awaiting its descent. When the squirrel descended, Horspool fired, but instead of snuffing out the life of the furry creature, the bullet found lodgement in Barnes' brain, causing almost instant death.

As Barnes fell, Horspool ran away, stating he was going for medical assistance. His last words were: "I've killed him, I've killed him." A minute later his companions heard another shot, quite near by. An investigation was held and the body of Horspool was found with a gaping wound through his head. His body was but a few yards from that of his dead companion, accidentally killed by the same gun.
