The Worst Storm Seen in the Section.

SEVERAL PERSONS WERE KILLED

Thousands of Acres of Grain Destroyed and Many Buildings Wrecked.

A TOWN WIPED OUT. Jacksonville, Ill., June 11.-There was a hard windstorm here last night. Danvers, north of here, was wiped out, it is reported here. There are meager reports of widespread damage in counties north.

VERY DESTRUCTIVE. Peoria, Ill., June 11.-The storm at Peoria was very destructive, many lives being lost and much property being damaged. The loss will be hundreds of thousands of dollars. A Rock Island passenger train was caught in a landslide, and the engine and mail cars were buried in mud. All train service is delayed, many tracks are washed away, and thousands of acres of corn are a total loss. One man was killed today by live wires, and two were injured. There has been serious damage to shipping in the river. The storm was the worst in years. It struck the city traveling at the rate of 80 miles an hour. At least ten people are dead, and several others will die from their injuries. The property damage will be great.

DEATH AND DESTRUCTION. Bloomington, June 11 .- Death and destruction followed in the wake of the tornado last night, the worst that has ever visited Central Illinois. The property loss will be thousands of dollars. The growing crop, it is feared, suffered heavily. The saddest feature, however, was the death of three young women at a dance at the town hall of Merna, a small village, ten miles east of here. A large party of young men and women were at the dance when the tornado struck the hulding. Everyholds, muchod for the building. Everybody rushed for the doors. Several young men held the doors to prevent anyone from emerging, fearing such might be injured or killed if outside. About half, however, got out, and then the building collapsed, burying those inside in the

Letters to the Editor.

A Ratepayer Protests. To the Editor of The Advertiser:

Being a constant reader of your estimable paper, I have had inflicted upon me a vast amount of street railway matter, such as meetings of committees, conferences of municipal and street railway representatives discussing extensions, amount of mileage, location, etc., and to almost every proposition of the council committee objections were made by the street railway representatives, and alterations suggested, or something just as outrage ous, in the form of a compromise.

My impression has always been that the city council had the power, under the franchise given the street railway company, of ordering the extent of track to be laid when due by increase of population, and upon what streets the same was to be laid. Then why not exercise the power they possess? Are they the representatives of the citizens or the agents of the London Street Railway? If the former, let them honestly and fairly compel the railway company to fulfill all that is justly due to the citizens; if the latter, we want to know it.

The people say we are entitled to so placed on such and such streets. The car company answer: "You are entitled to what you claim, but we will not give it unless you give us permission to tear up the track on Rectory street and abandon that route entire-

Is it business for the city authorities to submit to such conduct as this? We all know it was a thorn in the comthe unyielding and patriotic conduct were forced to run both ways. Ever since they have endeavored to render it a failure. The reason is obvious. Should it prove a success, other belt lines, of which this section is the possessor of one, might demand justice and fair play. I should think the Rectory street people had a vested right in that track. It having been maintained there for years, its removal will have a very material and damaging Palace on Wednesday. effect on the value of property border ing on and in the neighborhood of it. If permission is granted for the tearing up of the track on Rectory street, it may be taken as a precedent, and who knows which neighborhood will be the next victim of the street railway company's selfishness? London, June 11.-The newspapers here continue to discuss the British shipping combine, as though the proports in Chicago, the tornado extended from Freeport, in the northern part of The Westminster Gazette intimates today that the Cunard Line will not more especially directed against the restored to working order. A message to the Westminster Gazette the capital received by the railroad officials at that of the Canadian-British line will be to him the resolutions passed at the 000) subsidy from Canada, the prothe capital, amounting to £300,000 ($1,-500,000) yearly. Montreal, June 11 .- Private cables eceived here this morning state that practically an agreement has been reached between the Canadian and Imperial Governments as to the terms upon which the new steamship line is to be subsidized. The Canadian Government is, it is rumored, to increase its subsidy to $1,250,000 for a period of ten years, after which the subsidy is to come down to a figure for which Sir Charles Tupper agreed with the

Allans the work could be done in 1896, namely, $750,000 a year. These terms are to continue for 15 years, at conclusion of which the whole agreement is to be revised. The Imperial Government will contribute alnost, if not exactly that sum, but the agreement declares that in addition to the subsidy which is felt necessary in the interests of imperial unity, the ships shall receive annual payments from the admiralty, and liable to be transformed into armed cruisers. It is yet uncertain whether the C. P. R. will be officially in the new enterprise. That depends upon the state of the money market and whether the new concern will be floated successfully as an independent concern. If not, the C. P. R. will come many miles of track and we wish it forward and be the means of completing the link in the chain of communication. But it is certain that Strathcona and the parties representing the Bank of Montreal have identified themselves with the new proposition, and it remains to be seen wheth-Sir Alfred Jones, Elder-Dempster Line, will be able to carry through his scheme or will have to call in the aid of Canada's big railway. One pany's side when they were compelled thing is practically certain, that is, to build that belt line, and through that before the cabinet at Ottawa separates this afternoon for the coroof ex-Alderman Robert Carrothers nation festivities, Sir Wilfrid Laurier will have been definitely informed as to the opinion of his colleagues, and when he reaches London and meets Mr. Chamberlain in conference, he will be

The former urged the appointment of a royal commission to conduct a broad and intelligent inquiry into trade between the mother country and the colonies, and suggested terms upon which a preferential trade arrangement might be based. The latter favored an annual appropriation by the Canadian Parliament for strengthening the defenses of Canada. Mr. Ames explained that the question of defense caused a very long debate, and the congress did not reach a unanimous conclusion. After discussing the matter very calmly and from every available point of view, the resolution submitted was carried by to 32 votes. It was felt that giving effect to this resolution would not involve Canada in any statutory obligations to take part in British wars, but would provide of means of strengthening our own defenses and place Carada in a position at the proper time to

That gentleman said he was especially interested in the matter of German discrimination against Canada. At the present time Germany discriminated in favor of the United States to the extent of ten cents a bushel on grain, while be used for a small number of eggs. German goods were admitted here at a very much lower rate of custom duty than was levied by the United States. The Germans seemed to think they could treat Canada pretty much as they liked. consideration. able to show once more that Canada is

Allan laid stress on the nportance of establishing a commercial depot in London, but said that previous occasion he had fully acnainted the premier with his views. Mr. Watts said the farmers of Ontario were more interested in the question of a preference than anything Great Britain imported 170,000,-000 bushels of wheat and flour, and the colonies export 85,000,000. They felt they could at least supply half of the mother country's requirements. If Great Britain granted a preference it would do more than anything else to build up and develop the colonies. THE PREMIER'S REPLY.

In reply, Sir Wilfrid Laurier said: "I may frankly tell you, gentlemen, that I receive the resolutions with very great respect, and I shall give them all the attention which they deserve, coming from so important a body as that which was assembled the other day in Toronto, and, to continue to be frank, A dispatch from Bombay says the I may as well tell you at once that I am more interested in the question of The United States battleship Illinois, flying the flag of Rear Admiral Arents Crowninshield, and the United States cruisers, Albany and Nashville have arrived at Gibraltar. That seems to be not unreasonable, but it would have been expected-in Great Britain at all events-that some information should be given as to corresponding concessions which Canada would be prepared to make. It is urged here that trade in Canada would be stimulated by a preference on the part of Great Britain, but I see no reference as to what Canada is prepared to do in that direction. I would like to know the best organized of all French trade how far the Canadian people, represented especially by the Manufacturers' Association, would be prepared to go in that direction. Can you, Mr. Munro, give me any information?"

Voile Dress Goods.

Mr. Munro, who is president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, in answer to the premier, said: "Not very definitely, sir. The feeling, think, prevails pretty generally that if there was a higher tariff we should thereby be able to give a much larger preference to Britain." I do not think the British people are ready to adopt a customs iff of 50 per cent, or anything like it. If you have 50 per cent you cannot expect them to adopt 50 per cent upon your account. Mr. Munro-I am sure the Canadians are not yet prepared for tariff for tariff. Sir Wilfrid-Well, I am very glad to know that. I will know where we are when discussing these questions. The premier dismissed the deputation with a renewed expression of pleasure at having been given the resolutions.

Preserving Eggs.

An American poultry journal contains the following formula for the preservation of eggs, which our readers may find useful: Take 24 gallons tion, according to the quantity of eggs to be preserved. Stir well several times a day and then let stand until perfectly clear. Dip off carefully the clear liquid, leaving the sediment at the bottom. For the above quantity take 5 ounces each of baking soda, saltpeter, cream of tartar and borax, and 1 ounce of alum. Device the sediment at the content of the conten and dissolve in one gallon of boiling water. Put this into the clear lime water in a barrel. Put into this mixstatement the premier asked for an ture perfectly fresh eggs, as they are expression of opinion from other gathered, and keep in a cool place. Be careful not to put in any cracked eggs and use care not to break any in putting into the preservative. Keep the liquid one inch or more above the top of the eggs, and when the barrel is full put a cloth over the eggs and cover this with the sediment left from slacking the lime. Jars or kegs may

The Joys of Farming. Those people who write and talk about the farm give the impression that it is a life of drudgery to be escaped. This is a mistake; the average farmer does not toil so many hours in the year as do men in most city employments. With modern machinery the farmer is very much mechanic, and a mechanic the severity of whose labor has been greatly reduced by labor-saving and labor-lightening machinery. No man who so the largely depends upon his daily employment for his bread is so much his own man as the average farmer. At the present time the drudgery of the farm is no greater than any other employment. There are thousands of men who, farming intelligently, are forehanded and are making money from year to year. It was the opinion of the late Governor Mount, of Indiana, that no occupation afforded such opportunities for acquiring competency as does farming. While it may be that many of the brightest of those born on the farm have cast their lots in the cities, there is good reason to believe that in a comparison of all who left the farms with all who remain on them the average of the latter would be the better so far as living conditions are concerned.-Indianapolis
