

different from England even so? and, to a just and unbiased mind, how immeasurably superior? Fanatics may lie, and infidels sneer. The one may gibber about Antichrist, and the other represent the condition of Rome, as the leading journal did in a pompous article on Wednesday, as "one huge mass of rigid antiquarianism." But let the Times search its own columns for a description of London morality, commercial dishonesty, social crime, and misery, and infamy. Let it peruse its own articles on the homeless poor, and their miserable shifts. Let it compare with the emissaries of Rome whom English law has prosecuted for joining in matrimony those who have been living in sin, that Protestant parson who, by its own account, suffered two poor wretches to live in adultery rather than "babe a single penny" of the marriage fees.— Let it compare with the Protestant distributors of tracts whom it denounces, those Catholic brotherhoods whose hearts receive their charitable pulsation from the Great Roman Centre, and who bring to every door that is open to them a substantial and unconditional relief, without distinction of creed.— Let it, finally, reflect how many thousands of a Reformed generation know no other use of the holy name of God than to curse with it, and are totally ignorant of the mission of their Redeemer. And then if it compares all these features with the contrasts which the people of Rome present, it will, if candor on such a point is possible to heretics, join us in hoping that our future Monarch, in his six months' residence in Rome, might receive the grace to appreciate the difference between the social rule of Christ and Antichrist.

THE LOST AMERICAN RACE.—Dr. De Haas of Virginia, whose discovery of an inscription in one of the ancient mounds of the West, excited considerable attention in the archaeological world a year or two ago, gave, on the evening of the 18th inst., in the rooms of the Historical Society, the first of a series of lectures on the antiquities of America, as throwing light on the ancient inhabitants of this continent. He estimates that there are 100,000 tumuli within the United States. Their shape is very varied, and they are smaller and more numerous in the North than in the South. Their situation indicates that they were built by an agricultural people; indeed they are generally most numerous in those portions of the Mississippi Valley which are now most numerously settled. In the lake region of Wisconsin there are some which are in the form of animals. Most of these mounds are places of sepulchre, and with the skeletons are sometimes found brass implements, and even pieces of cloth. Some mounds in the South and West have been and are being built by the Indians, but they are different from the ancient mounds in every respect. The ancient tumuli are never found on the first terrace of the rivers, which Dr. De Haas supposes to prove that they were built before the rivers had cut their present channels. He divides them into mounds of sepulchre, of sacrifice, of worship, of observation and of defence, beside miscellaneous. The mounds of sepulchre rarely contain more than two skeletons, and are square or ellipsoid. The mound at Grave Creek, Marshall County, Va., is unique. It is 70 feet high by 80 in circumference, and covered with forest trees. It was opened in 1833, and in the centre were found a male and a female skeleton, in a small chamber constructed of wood and stone, with a passage out toward the north-east. On one of the skeletons were four copper bracelets; and a small stone pebble, containing the inscription which had excited so much attention, was lying near by.— He drew a comparison between the tumuli raised by all the ancient inhabitants of the Eastern Continent and those of this; he finds nearly every variety upon this continent which we knew were built up in the other. The mounds of sacrifice are raised platforms. Dr. De Haas exhibited a large number of articles which he had found in altar mounds. In some of these charred skeletons are found, which suggest human burnt offerings; one such skeleton had its skull fractured so much as to produce death. The guard mounds rarely contain any remains; their position indicates their character. Mounds of observation command most of the Valley of the Mississippi, and probably served for a fire telegraph. The temple mounds stand within inclosures, and contain no remains. Mounds have been thrown up by the Indians for defence, and for refuge in inundation. So, also, the Indians pile up heaps of stones over their dead. Occasionally circles of stone are found about the back of the mounds, reminding us of the Druidical circles. They are most frequent in Yucatan. There appear to have been four methods of interment by this ancient race:—First, in a chamber in the centre of a mound, stretched from east to west, with copper ornaments accompanying the body; second, by folding the body in a small stone coffin; third, by incineration, the ashes being placed in earthenware urns, and fourth, by general sepulchre, which was probably done only after the general slaughter of a battle. After the lecture a large number of interesting relics, including the famous inscription, were shown to such of the audience as chose to examine them.—New York Tribune.

LEGAL CIRCUMLOUTION.—Oh, Law!—What a round-about way lawyers have of drawing up deeds and documents. It is almost enough to keep a nervous person from "going to law at all." The following is a sample. "Suppose a man wished to give another an orange. Instead of making a simple declaration, and saying, 'I give you that orange,' he must set forth his act and deed in this way: 'I do hereby give you, all and singular, my estate and interest, right, title and claim, and advantage of and in that orange, with all its rind, skin, pulp, juice and pips, and all right and advantages therein, with full power to cut, suck, bite, or otherwise eat the same orange, or give the same away, with or without its skin, rind, juice, pulp and pips, anything heretofore or hereinafter, or in any other, deed or deeds, instruments of what kind or nature to the contrary anywise or notwithstanding.'"

SALT FOR HORSES' FEET.—Common salt absorbs moisture from the atmosphere, hence it has been in some instances applied with great success for keeping the hard-bound hoofs of horses moist. The hoofs of some horses become dry and oftentimes crack, thereby rendering them lame, if the animals are driven on hard roads. By bathing the hoof and fetlock joint with a salt brine three times a day, lameness from the above cause will be avoided. It is a common practice with some blacksmiths to rasp cracked hoofs in order to render them more tough, but salt brine is far superior to rasping for effecting this object.—Scientific American.

A Farmer from the neighborhood of Galston took his wife to see the wonders of the microscope, which happened to be exhibiting at Kilmarnock. The various curiosities seemed to please the good woman very well, till the animalcules contained in a drop of water came to be shown off. These seemed to poor Janet not so very pleasant a sight as the others.— She sat patiently, however, till the water tigers, magnified to the size of twelve feet, appeared on the sheet, fighting with their usual ferocity. Janet now rose in great trepidation, and called to her husband: "For guds sake, come awa, John!" "Sit still, woman," said John, "and see the show!" "See the show!—keep us a' man! What wad come o' us, if the awfu'-like brutes wad break out of the water?"

The taxation of the Papal States is less than under any other Government in Europe. With all its dignity, the Court of Rome is the cheapest in the world. The Pope's household costs but $7,500 a year. The salary of the Cardinal-Secretary of State is but $2,500.

SEARCH vs. HOOPS.—It seems that the adoption of hoops skirts by the ladies is proving very disastrous to the companies engaged in the manufacture of starch. A starch factory recently put into operation in Buffalo (says the Express) with a capital of $80,000, has suspended operations, or is doing comparatively nothing, and we learn that another extensive establishment at Oswego, which has hitherto paid its per cent. dividends, is also running at a very small rate, and such is said to be the case with similar establishments throughout the country.

TO CURE CONSUMPTION.—Hall's Journal of Health, for February, has an admirable article showing up some of the new cures for consumption. The article concludes with the sensible remark, that the best things to take in any and all cases of consumption are exercise, substantial food, and out-door air in large but due proportions; and that without these no case of consumptive disease has ever been successfully treated by any man, living or dead.

A piece of copperas, dissolved in warm water, is a sure remedy for frosted limbs, &c., soak the fingers or feet, or rub well on the nose or face.

P. K.

PHILADELPHIA, June 13, 1857. Messrs. Perry Davis & Son.—Gents.—For more than a year I was afflicted with a troublesome cough, attended with a yellowish frothy expectoration, and great emaciation followed. Whether it was a liver or lung cough I knew not, but there was an incessant tickling sensation in my chest. Calling one day at the office of the United States Journal, of this city, one of the proprietors strongly recommended me to try your Pain Killer. I sent and got the article, and was helped immediately, and am now well. This was last March I withheld my address as my family and myself are averse to notoriety. That what I have written is solemn truth, is well known to the proprietors of the Journal. I write under the influence of grateful feeling.—Yours truly, AMICUS.

LOST VOICE RECOVERED.

New Bedford, August 10. Mr. S. W. FOWLER.—Having seen many certificates published in relation to Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry, I take this opportunity of offering a word in its favor, which you are also at liberty to publish.— A few months since, my wife's lungs became so much affected by a sudden cold, that she lost her voice, and suffered severely from pains in the breast. Her situation caused her friends much alarm. Having heard your Balsam strongly recommended by those who had used it, I purchased a bottle of your agent in this place. She took it according to directions, and it produced a wonderful effect. Before using one bottle, she had completely recovered her voice, the pains subsided and her health was soon fully restored. Yours truly (signed) HENRY G. BRIGHTMAN. None genuine unless signed I. BUTTS on the wrapper.

COUGHS.—The great and sudden changes of our climate, are fruitful sources of Pulmonary and Bronchial affections. Experience having proved that simple remedies often act speedily and certainly when taken in the early stage of disease, recourse should at once be had to "Brown's Bronchial Troches" or Lozenges, let the Cough or Irritation of the Throat be ever so slight, as by this precaution a more serious attack may be effectually averted off.

BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES, Cures Cough, Cold, Hoarseness and Influenza. Cures any Irritation or Soreness of the Throat. Relieves the Hoarse Cough in Consumption. Relieves Bronchitis, Asthma and Catarrh. Clears and gives strength to the voice of SINGERS. Indispensable to Public Speakers.

BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES.

[From Rev. Henry Ward Beecher, who has used the Troches five years.]—"I have never changed my mind respecting them from the first, except to think yet better of that which I began in thinking well of. In all my lecturing tours, I put 'Troches' into my carpet bag as regularly as I do lectures or hymns. I do not hesitate to say that in so far as I have had an opportunity of comparison, your Troches are pre-eminently the best, and the first, of the great Lozenge School."

BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES.

[From Rev. E. H. Chapin, D. D., New York.]—"I consider your Lozenges an excellent article for their purpose, and recommend their use to Public Speakers."

BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES.

[From Mr. C. H. Gardner, Principa of the Rutgers Female Institute, New York.]—"I have been afflicted with Bronchitis during the past winter, and found no relief until I found your Troches."

JONAS WHITCOMB'S

ASTHMA, CATARRH, ROSE COLD, HAY FEVER, &c.

PREPARED from a German recipe, obtained by the late Jonas Whitcomb, in Europe. It is well known to have alleviated this disorder in his case, when all other appliances of medical skill had been abandoned by him in despair. In no case of purely Asthmatic character, has it failed to give immediate relief, and it has effected many permanent cures. Within the past two years this remedy has been used in thousands of cases, with astonishing and uniform success. It contains no poisonous or injurious properties whatever, an infant may take it with perfect safety.

[Letter from a Methodist Clergyman.]

WARREN, Vt., May 12, 1857.

Mr. BURNETT—I take great pleasure in briefly stating the wonderful effects of "Whitcomb's Remedy for the Asthma" on my wife. She had suffered for years more than my pen can describe with the Spasmodic form of that terrible disease. I consulted numerous physicians of the highest celebrity to very little or no purpose. As often as ten or twelve times in a year, she was brought to the very gates of death—requiring two or three watchers sometimes, for several days and nights in succession. At times, for hours, it would seem as if every breath must be the last. We were obliged to open doors and windows in mid-winter, and resort to every expedient that affection could devise to keep her alive. At one time she was so far gone, that her physician could not count the pulse. At length I heard of your "Remedy"—it acted like a charm; it enabled her to sleep quietly in a few minutes, and nearly broke up the disease. I kept it constantly on hand—and though it has not cured her, it has done wonders in the way of relief. I have never known it fail in more than one or two instances of affording immediate relief.—I am a Methodist clergyman, stationed here. I shall be happy to answer any enquiries respecting her case, and you are at liberty to make any use of the foregoing facts that will benefit the afflicted.—Yours truly, KIMBALL HADLEY.
