

CANADA REVENUE AGENCY

The Canada Revenue Agency provides knowledge and technical support to tax administrations in developing countries, both bilaterally and multilaterally, as a key member of international and regional tax organizations. In 2017-2018, this included helping developing countries strengthen their tax capacity to better mobilize domestic resources, and to participate, on an equal footing, in the global tax dialogue to benefit from the implementation of international tax standards.

INNOVATION, SCIENCE AND ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT CANADA

Innovation, Science and Economic Development Canada is Canada's official representative at the International Telecommunication Union. The International Telecommunication Union, as the lead UN agency for telecommunications and information and communication technologies, is an important source of information, education and training in this field. The organization provides opportunities, especially to developing countries, to acquire the specialized knowledge and skills they need to engage in, and benefit from, telecommunications technologies.

EMPLOYMENT AND SOCIAL DEVELOPMENT CANADA

Employment and Social Development Canada, through its Labour Program, helps partner countries build their capacity to implement existing labour legislation and modernize labour policy and administration. Assistance provided by the department's Labour Program fosters better enforcement of national labour laws and greater respect for internationally recognized labour rights and principles. To achieve these goals, financial resources are provided to international organizations and regional non-governmental organizations to implement projects on behalf of Canada.

PARKS CANADA

In 2017-2018, Parks Canada contributed to four international organizations dedicated to cultural and natural heritage conservation and environmental sustainability. These included the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization's World Heritage Fund, the International Union for Conservation of Nature, the International Centre for the Study of the Preservation and Restoration of Cultural Property and the Instituto de Fomento Pesquero (in support of the International Marine Protected Areas Conference hosted in Chile in 2017). Parks Canada's multilateral work with these organizations honours Canada's commitment to international conventions. It also marks Canada's commitment to achieving the Sustainable Development Goals through productive partnerships with international organizations to conserve natural and cultural heritage.

NATURAL RESOURCES CANADA

Natural Resources Canada supports the International Energy Agency, which works to ensure reliable, affordable and clean energy for its 30 member countries and beyond. In 2017, on the margins of the International Energy Agency Ministerial, Canada's Minister of Natural Resources announced a $1 million contribution over four years to the International Energy Agency's Clean Energy Transitions Programme. With the support of numerous other member countries, the Programme provides cutting-edge technical support to the governments of emerging economies, whose energy policies will significantly impact the speed of the global transition towards more sustainable energy production and use.

CANADIAN SPACE AGENCY

The Canadian Space Agency is a member of the International Charter Space and Major Disasters. This charter is a worldwide collaboration among space agencies to provide unified access to space-based data to support disaster relief operations at no cost to the end user. Canada contributes valuable satellite data from RADARSAT-2 and a 24/7 emergency on-call officer service to disaster cases throughout the world, to collectively help mitigate the impacts on human life and property.

CANADA POST

Canada Post transmits Canada's assessed contributions to the Universal Postal Union, which are partially ODA-eligible. A portion of these contributions is used to provide technical assistance to developing countries to reduce the postal divide between industrialized and developing countries and enable the transfer of know-how.

PUBLIC HEALTH AGENCY OF CANADA

The Public Health Agency of Canada represents Canada at the Pan American Health Organization and delivers emergency management training to developing country partners. The training helps learners understand and apply public health emergency management principles and practices.

STATISTICS CANADA

Statistics Canada's development initiatives focus on governance through capacity-building support to accountable public institutions—specifically, national statistical offices and other key areas of national statistical systems in developing countries. The agency is an active participant in working to fulfill the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development. It provides Canadian statistical expertise to the development of sound global indicators for measuring the Sustainable Development Goals and to helping other countries measure progress toward achieving them, particularly in key areas such as education and the environment.