CROWN SEEKS TO TRACE

No Direct Evidence Brought in Express Robbery Case-May Not finish To-day.

HAMILTON, Jan. 12.—(Special.)— The trial of Chilman and Acheson, on the charge of robbing the Canadian $8500, was continued to-day before Justice Teetzel. An even larger crowd than appeared yesterday was on hand not all were able to gain admittance Arts, with the exception of those whose to the court-house. Several witnesses names are followed by a subject in yet remain to be examined, and it is parenthesis. Such are required to take extremely doubtful if the case will be a supplemental examination in that extremely doubtful if the case will be completed to-morrow without a night sitting of the court.

To-day's evidence was characterized by an almost infinite detail of enquiry and the crown's probe was, in numerous place, sunk deep into the personal and business affairs of the two accused young men. The evidence mostly related to Chilman, however, and was of a purely circumstantial mature. Nothing sensational was brought to then to-day.

Whence Did Money Come?
The crown's case has so dar been almost restricted to the theory, apparently, that Chilman had deposited considerably more money in his bank, besides what he had spent, than he had received from his business since the rotbery was committed, and that a large part of the money which he has passed has been of the same denomination as that stoien from the express company, namely, one, two apa den-dockar bills.

and ten-go-dar bills.

The principal witness this morning, as well as this afternoon, was 0. 8. Hillman, a certified accountant of this city, who, on behalf of the crown, made an examination of the books and accounts of both the accused, and by whom the crown attempted to show that Chilman had apparently deposited in his bank, between June 19, 1911, and Dec. 5, 1911, nearly $3000 more than the same period. In addition to this excess of deposits over receipts, Chilman had paid bills to the extent of some $400 in cash, which sum was added to the apparent discrepancy.

Accounts Not Accurate.

The principal witness this morning, shows that the university is skeepines pace with the rapidly growing needs of the mining industry.

City Clerk Littlejohn stated yester-day that ExcController Spence had formally made application for a recount of the board of control elections and that the recount out the visable will assemble at the corner of the count of the board of control elections and that the recount out the visable will assemble at the corner of the count of the board of control elections and that the recount out the recount on the visable will assemble at the corner of the count of the board of control elections and that the recount on the visable will assemble at the corner of the count of the board of control elections and that the recount on the visable will assemble at the corner of the count of the board of control elections and that the recount on the visable will assemble at the corner of the count of the board of control elections and that the recount than that he has asked Junge Winnesster for it and that he has asked Junge Winnesster for it and that he has asked Junge Winnesster for it and that he has asked Junge Winnesster for it and that he has asked Junge Winnesster for it and that he has asked Junge Winnesster for it and that he has asked Junge Winnesster for it and that he has asked Junge Winnesster for it and that he has asked Junge Winnesster for it and that he has asked Ju ton thish afternoon, the witness stated that Chilman's account books were that Chilman's account books were not properly kept, and said he would not consider them a reliable record of Chilman's business transactions. His statement of Chilman's business within the period mentioned was made up from the books that had been furnished him. He had seen no record of Chilman's wholesale sales, and did not enquire from what sources Chilman raight have received money. He did not think all the items of the business had been entered on the books, and, in reply to Mr. Staunton's question, admitted that, as the correctness of his statement depended on whether or not these items were so entered, his statements might not be correct.

Bought Soda Fountain.

Wm. Lindsay, representing J. J. Mc-Laughlin, Toronto, testified to having sold Chilman in October, a $2025 soda fountain, on which he received a pay-ment of $225 in $5 and $10 bills, mostly the latter. He could not say by what bank the bills were issued.

Henry McArdle, a confectioner, from whom Chilman bought the Regal Candy Store, which has figured so prominently in the evidence testified at some length in regard to the profits of the business before and since he sold it to Chilman.

Mr. Bell, who cross-examined for the defence, emphasized the matter of profits in his questioning, presumably with the intention of suggesting that Chilman from that source could have obtained the large sums of money which aroused the suspicions of the Business Very Profitable. McArdle swore that the business had always been a very profitable one, and the year before he sold it, he made be-tween $2500 and $3000 clear of all expenses. It was steadily increasing, and since he sold it he knew that Chilman had been forced by the growth of the business to double his manufacturing plant and increase his clerical force McArdle had no ice cream business such as Chilman conducted. Questioned again by Mr. Gamble, witness maintained that the profits he had Put Money in Bank. Stewart Turnbull, accountant in the Traders' Bank, where Chilman's ac-count was carried, told of two deposits made by the prisoner. A savings de-posit of $500 on Nov. 25, consisted of 114 one dollar bills, 53 twos, 15 fives and a prominent part. 21 tens. Rope as Evidence.

Deputy Chief of Police Whatley was put in the box to show the manner in which the ends of the rope found in Acheson's house matched the ends of the rope, which Kennough, the night night clerk, was bound.

Mr. Staunton objected to this as the ends of the rope had become frazzled and had been tied, up again in order to make the crown's point. The rope was, however, passed around to the jurors. Fred Knowles, Acheson's partner in the electrical business, repeated his police court evidence concerning the profits of the business, from which each of them had taken $6 a week.

Gordon Odling again told the story of the sale to Acheson of two motor cycles which had cost $720. Acheson paid $425 cash for them, the payment consisting of two $100 bills, and the balance in twenties.

Interior Department Shows Big Increase in Revenue-Immigrants Take Up Farms

OTTAWA, Jan. 12.—(Special:)—The annual report of the interior department for the last fiscal year, tabled in the house of commons to-day, calls attention to the fact that the total cash revenue from all sources collected by the department during the year reached the large total of $5,93,140. This is an increase of $324,126 over the provious an increase of $384,126 over the previous twelve months. The revenue of the department is now fourteen times as large as it was in 1901-2 and ten times as large as it was ten years ago.

A corresponding increase is noted in the number of homestead entries. During the year there were 44,479 entries, representing a total acreage of 7,166.640, which is an increase of 3000 entries over the previous year, which had been the largest in the history of the depart-

Those entries represent a total population of 107,824 settlers, and their families. It is regarded as very satisfactory from the immigration standpoint that over one-third of the total immigration last year can be accounted for as having engaged in agricultural pursuits in the western provinces.

Forestry Convention.

The thirteenth annual convention of the Canadian Forestry Association will be held in Ottawa on Feb. 17 and 18 of this year, and it is expected that a large number of the prominent forestry experts will be present.
