

ALBANS ATTACK WITH GREAT DASH

Albert's Troops Advance Five Miles on First Day.

FREE LINES TAKEN

Resistance, The in Spots, Rapidly Overcome.

Oct. 1.—Cable despatches from the front in Belgium give some interesting details of the brilliant operations of the British army in the attack on the Belgian frontier. The cable at the Belgian initial attack, launched at 5.30 on Saturday morning, followed the line of Albert of a strong proclamation was received with enthusiasm. The Belgians had been waiting for the time when they could be given an opportunity to take the offensive against the enemy. The infantry leaped forward on support from the air. The German artillery reacted quickly. Towards 7 o'clock, a storm set in and added to the difficulties of the territory, which was in an awful condition. The whole of the day was carried before 8 o'clock, the progress was slower of the stubborn resistance of the enemy. The German army, however, despite the tenacity of the second and third divisions, was not able to hold out. At about 200 prisoners were counted. They continued to steadily through the afternoon by numbered 4000.

Deep Penetration. The attack on one German occupied the occupants raised their point blank. No live German particular shelter. In the advance reached an average of from five to eight kilometers and a large amount of war including large guns, fell into the hands of the Belgians. The displayed splendid dash and neither fatigue nor the natural obstacles of a country which had been for four years could check the progress of the Belgians. The losses inflicted on the enemy were very heavy and the prisoners included men belonging to the Guard and to the Saxons.

The enemy lost practically all of his forward artillery and the heaviest naval guns. The capture of the heaviest naval guns was a great success for the Belgians. BELGIAN TAG DAY BEATS ALL RECORDS

Generous Response From Toronto Totals Over $31,000.

Toronto opened her heart and her pocket book and gave gladly and wholeheartedly to the Belgian Relief Fund. The greatest response since the opening of the war was the reply of the citizens to the appeal from Belgium. The recent victories had undoubtedly put an added love for King Albert's suffering people into the hearts of the Belgians, and so the magnificent result.

Over 2500 taggers and 300,000 tags were used. Long before many of the taggers had run out of tags, the response was so great. "I certainly won't give," said one woman to a tagger. "The soldiers are not going to give up Belgium." "All the Belgians can go to hell for me," said a woman at an apartment house as she slammed the door in the collector's face.

Remarks like the above were in the minority, but the few that were heard of the taggers, the greater open hearts of others. An Austrian heard of a factory near the corner of Cherry and King streets took the flag in his hand and, throwing it on the floor, stamped on it. His co-workers made him pick it up, put it on and say for it.

Impostors Found. A man posing as a returned soldier was located in one district collecting for the fund, but as he was not authorized he was soon locked up by the police. Several people had bought tags from someone who said they were tagging for the Belgians. These beautiful responses were noted by the workers, one of a boy who said he had been in a quarry. "I'll give you my lunch money," he said. "I'll give you my lunch money," he said.

The collections amounted to $31,000, and some still to hear from.
