Girls may be smail and young, but the aspirations of some run pretty high, as the following, which was a composition of a little girl of one of North Toronto's schools, will show: "What would I do with $1000? I would give $100 to missionary work and then I would build a house and furnish it. It would be a four-storey house, with good would build a house and turnish it. It would be a four-storey house, with good foundation. Then invite the poor sick people, who could not pay to go to other hospitals. And I would take care of them myself, and I would be married to a doctor and have two or three nurses to look after them. I would be the matron myself. Coupled with the tale of the bravery of his own men, who risked their lives at the height of the gale, he told of the wonderful fortitude and daring of the remaindered in the mention of a British vessel, who lowered themselves in small boats in the midst of the fleroest storm and picked a dozen or mere bodies of the living and dead from the wreckage in the guif.

The six sailors who were taken aboard the Lucas had built a fire on top of the houseboat in which they were drifting occanward, and when the vessel was brought alongside to take them off there was momentary danger that some of the huge oil tanks would explode and blow up the entire crew.

The plight of the fishermen was called to the attention of a watchman on the Lucas during the height of the storm by a signal fire which they were thurning on top of their houseboat. Before assistance could be sent to the men the fire had spread to the houseboat and the men were in imminent danger of being burned to death. There was no time to lower a small boat, and the steamer was run alongside the men were rescued.

Oct. 26.-The court of reviion has given an important decision on an appeal of the McCormick Manuon an appeal of the McCormick Manufacturing Company against an assessment for income on sums received by members of the firm each year, irresspective of the stock held by them. The firm appealed on the ground that these sums were dividends and were exempt, and the court agreed.

It is said that this judgment will affect scores of assessments in London, and the fear is expressed that the city will lose a large amount of taxes thru it.

Insurance Investigation Concludes at Montreal and Resumes With I.O.F. in Ottawa.

Montreal, Oct. 26.- (Special.) -Evidence in the investigation of the Royal Victoria Assurance Company of Mont-real was concluded to-day, and with it ended the session of the insurance com-mission in Montreal.

Chief emphasis was laid in the evidence of David Burke, general manager, on the small cost with which the company had been organized. He stated that the entire cost of stock, parliamentary expenses, etc., had been only $1700, and the Royal Victoria, unlike many new companies, had never had any benuses or gifts from shareholders or directors.

Mr. Burke had organized the company. The men he sought to interest in the first place were A. F. Gauit, James Crathern, Senator Forget, Senator Mackay and S. Finley. In the matter of inducements there was nothing of a personal character held whatever. The witness had pointed out to the stockholders that a considerable period must elapse before there could be any dividend. He had never felt safe in naming any definite period, and he had never discounted any notes.

The capital stock authorized was a million dollars, and the sum was now subscribed. No premium had been charged for the stock, but the cost of business was not so great The policyholders took no part in the
