REVIVAL GOLD MINING.

Evidences to This Effect to Be Found On All Sides.

WHAT CAUSED THE SLUMP.

The Exploitation of a Few Unreliable Companies On the Market.

Many Stocks Were Sacrificed Just After the Boom Which It Would Have Been Better to Hold—Development Work is Now Beginning to Tell the Tale—London Has at Last Awakened to the Importance of the Mining Industry in Canada—Experimental Stage Has Passed.

There are evidences on all sides of a speedy revival of the interest in Canadian gold mining. The exploitation on the market of a few unreliable companies last fall has had the effect of causing a general slump in stocks, but an improved condition of the market may soon be looked for. The majority of people who in the first boom days of the mining industry invested in stocks foolishly expected quick returns, and when these did not come they contributed to the falling off, begun by the shutting down of the aforesaid unstable companies, by getting into a panic, and selling their stocks at a loss.

Development, however, is now beginning to tell the tale, and a rise in the price of many of the bona fide company stocks may be looked for as an early date. The regular turning out of gold and silver bricks this fall by a respectable number of British Columbia mines, and the domestic production of bullion by such properties as the Deloro Hastings and the Sultan, Mikado, and the Western Ontario cannot but instil fresh activity into the gold mining operations of this Dominion.

But the most encouraging aspect of the situation is the fact that English and American capital is interesting itself with marked vigor in partially developed and even wholly undeveloped prospects in several of the Canadian mineral districts. At last even London has awakened to a knowledge of our rock-hold resources, and the slow-witted Britisher is now taking up propositions from this country. No doubt the kinds of the Kingdom are greatly benefited in the work of convincing the Saxons for these is a general and finally come to a conclusion that Canada is a good field for mining investments. The bulk of several important British Columbia properties by Englishmen has recently been chronicled, and the world learns that within the next few weeks a number of partly developed claims on the Upper St. Lawrence and the Western Ontario have been disposed of in London at figures ranging from $50,000 to $1,000,000. This is a remarkable fact, only last spring nobody in the Old Land could be got to consider gold propositions for a mine.

Canadian mining has now passed the experimental stage, and before long a series of rapid advances will undoubtedly be made in this important industry of our country.

MINING AND TIMBER.

Tremendous Consumption of Wood Incidental to Development.

There is a tremendous consumption of timber incidental to the development of the mineral deposits of a country, and big inroads into Canada's forests will be made in connection with the work of the numerous mines of the country.

An idea of the possible consumption may be gotten by statements of the statisticians in other countries: W. Allford, in the proceedings of the American Forestry Association, reports that from 1870 to 1891 there were used in the mines and mills of the Connecticut Lode 74,765,000 feet of timber and 3,055,290 cords of cordwood, representing a total cost of $15,000,000. About 200,000 acres of forest have been cut to supply these mines, and at present the greater part of the supply has to be brought to miles. The area on which the forest has been cleared is now being covered nearly with pine, but it will require nearly a century for the trees to attain the size of those which have been here before used in these mines.

TWO GOLD BRICKS.

late 8790, brought to Toronto and Placed in Quebec Bank.

The Crystal Gold Mining Company, having the mine of that name in Rath, in Township, near Sudbury station, has cleaned up two gold bricks, one of the value of $1000, and the other of $1700, in the Quebec Bank, yesterday, when they were inspected by The World.

The previous clean-up netted $800, so that already the company have taken out $6500 in bullion.
