Two Dollar Carpets Monday for $1.25

Over 1700 yards, representing fourteen distinct patterns

The headlines give you Monday's Carpet story in a nutshell. Elegant Axminster and Wilton Carpets, of the choicest makes and qualities—carpets that this store always sells at $1.75 and $2.00 a yard—will go on sale Monday morning at ONE DOLLAR AND TWENTY-FIVE CENTS A YD.

In the seventeen hundred yards there is not an unworthy pattern or coloring. The designs are chiefly Oriental and floral effects, with beautiful colorings in Rose, Blue, Fawn, Indian Red, Green and Three-Tone Effects. Rich 5-8 borders go with all these carpets, and those who come first have their pick of fourteen different designs, samples of which may be seen in the Yonge-Street windows. We can safely say this is our biggest carpet bargain this season, and even though you had no thought of buying new carpets before fall, this price inducement ought to make you buy on Monday. At any rate, don't fail to come and judge these values for yourself. Come bright and early before the best patterns are picked over.

UNCLE SAM COCKSURE

Sir Wilfrid Laurier was quoted the other day as having stated to a New York newspaperman that the refusal of the United States to arbitrate the question of the Alaskan boundary is a menace of open conflict between the two countries. It is interesting to note how at least a section of the American press views this assertion. The New York World says:

"Only 'question' is the question whether the Russo-British treaty of 1825 means what it says. It states that the line shall be a line parallel to the 56th parallel, shall thence run along the summit of the mountains 'parallel to the coast land' and thence follow the coast, the boundary, in the treaty's exact words, 'shall be formed by a line parallel to the coast land' and thence follow the coast, and which shall never exceed the distance of ten marine leagues therefrom."

That is the boundary we bought from Russia in 1867. There was no "question" then, or for years after. It was a British map, British, Canadian, American and American, agreed practically upon the boundary. Even the British Admiralty chart, for the use of the Royal Navy, corrected up to April, 1898, showed the true boundary. After the discovery of the Canadian claim to land within the 30-mile limit.

That the United States has "nothing to arbitrate" is not a "menace of open conflict" but a statement of fact. It is Canadian officials should invade Burlington, open a custom house at Burlington, and argue that the State, we should reply that we had nothing to arbitrate; but would that reply, or the real act of aggression?

Following this up, a Rochester paper goes further, and says:

"That is a good illustration of the absurdity of the Canadian claims in this government. It is a mistake to include them among the topics for discussion by the Joint High Commission. It is safe to say that this government will never agree to submit the 'question' to arbitration. If such arbitration is to be held, it will be a party, in doing so that party will give its grave."

We are sorry to see this spirit manifested by these United States newspapers, and we think that the easier the United States can be made to understand among the American journals will take a fair view of the question. The fact remains that a boundary dispute exists between the two countries, and the United States will gain nothing by assuming a bull-dog attitude towards us.

THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY

In preparation for the pending election in November, which is only preliminary to the next presidential campaign, the Democratic party in the United States is clearing the decks for action. Conventions have been held in Maine, Illinois and other States, and the result is that the party will enter the next conflict with a policy free of those features with which it has been burdened during the last eight years.

The party has wiped its slate clean by shelving the free silver question, and by turning Mr. Bryan's picture to the wall.

Bryan and the free silver cry combined have clearly been too heavy for the party to carry, and, having got rid of these, the party conventions have come out strong on the tariff trust and Imperial questions. Two declarations recently adopted by Democratic state conventions read:

"A thorough revision of the tariff and the abolition of all special privileges, and that every product of a tariff-protected industry."

LOVE

Lives only in the present. Nature throws a glamour around youth and maidenhood, but although they saw misery and marriage walking hand in hand in every home in the world, they would not believe that they could marry and defy misery.

Young women should be taught to prepare for marriage. They should understand how to preserve their womanly health and vitality through the functional changes of maternity. Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the most effective medicine for the preparation of the woman for marriage.

BERESFORD ROASTS NAVY

Indulged in Scathing Criticism in the Imperial House of Commons Yesterday.

THE DEPARTMENT LIPS INITIATIVE

Treasury Control is Fatal to the Efficiency of the Navy Fleet.

London, June 20.—During the course of the discussion of the navy estimates in the House of Commons to-day, Rear Admiral Lord Charles Beresford (Conservative) scathingly criticized the deficiencies of the navy. He declared that the Admiralty system was rotten and that the great extravagance and the general want of efficiency of the navy, on which depended the existence of the empire.

This was the judgment of all the commissions of inquiry, and had been proven to be a fact. Every increase in the number of ships and every improvement in them had been the result of outside agitation. As the result of this agitation, the British Mediterranean fleet was now a fourth stronger than it was a year ago.

It was remarkable, Lord Beresford said, that the Admiralty had been compelled to threaten to resign in order to get things righted. The Admiralty had been in the habit of making a list of the ships to be built, and then the Treasury had been asked to supply the money.

The Secretary of the Admiralty, Mr. Arthur B. Hamilton, had been in the habit of making a list of the ships to be built, and then the Treasury had been asked to supply the money.
