Lou Criger, the Boston catcher, has a brother, Elmer, a raw youngster, who was taken south with the club this spring for a twill on the rubber. He had never been out much before, and the Boston players tell some wonderful stories of his innocence. Tehn I. Paylor, owner of the club, was along, and for a week or so he did not get out to morning practice. Seeing him strolling away one afternoon just as the team was going to the grounds, young Criger sought one of the players and said: "That guy'll be canned pretty quick if, he doesn't attend to business better." Another time in Cincinnati, on the way north, Elmer saw the boys looking over the letters at the hotel. So up he went to the clerk and asked to see the E's. After going thru them he turned away disappointedly, with the remark: "There's nothing here for Elmer."

Big Leagues Begin To-Day. To-day the big leagues open the base-ball season, with Detroit, the champions of the American League, at Chicago, and Chicago, the world's champions, at Cin-cinnati. Joe Kelley's doves play at Brooklyn, while the Beaneaters, of which Thoney nd Carrigan are members, are at home, with Washington their oppon-ents.

At the Woodbine.

The fine weather is having the effect of attracting an odd railbird to the Woodbine in the early morn ng. Yesterday there was nothing doing except some slow gallops. Charlie Phair had the Orpen horses cantering and the Hendrie platers took a spin. It is reported that T. P. Phelan's King's Plate candidate, Flying Arrow, has developed so severe a cold that he will be thrown out of train-At the Woodbine.
