THE BAKERS' FIGHT HOUSEHOLDERS BENEFIT

Drop of 1c Per Loaf in Effect Today Not Justified by Price of Flour

Prices of wheat and flour are at the high water mark today. There has been no drop in the price of any other ingredients used in making high quality bread. The cost of labor is as high as it was a month ago. Yet today we announce a one-cent drop in the price of Canada Bread—the recognized leader for quality and value. On Oct. 31st flour sold at $10.00 per bbl., and all the Toronto bakers found it necessary to raise prices. Since then flour has gone as high as $10.40. The list price yesterday was $10.20, with a 7c advance in wheat.

On account of these conditions bakers in Toronto who baked bread which for many years has sold for 1c per loaf less than Canada Bread, found it necessary to come to our prices. The result was such a tremendous falling off of business in favor of Canada Bread that other bakers became panicky after losing thousands of customers. The public have shown their appreciation of the high quality of Canada Bread, so we are now prepared to reciprocate and sell Canada Bread at the same price as other inferior bread is selling at, "BUT THE QUALITY STILL GOES IN BEFORE THE NAME GOES ON."

CANADA BREAD

8c Per 24 oz. Loaf      13 Tickets for $1

There's no getting beyond the facts. Canada Bread is superior in quality. Whenever prices of Canada Bread are the same as other makes, we gain customers by the hundred. The first week of even prices our sales increased by 21,000 loaves, in spite of the fact that some of our former customers baked their own bread. Under present conditions the spirit of wishing to devise methods of reducing the cost of living is to be commended, though it will hardly pay to bake at home when Canada Bread sells for 8c per loaf.

The Toronto public want Canada Bread. They have endorsed it by a majority vote. Their liberal patronage is ample evidence of this fact. In offering Canada Bread—the standard of quality and value—at the same price as other inferior varieties we are actuated not only by a desire to give our customers the very best at the lowest price, but we also believe it to be good business judgment to retain our large volume of trade, with good bread and good service, in the hope that when the war is over and prices are normal we may again be entitled to a small profit.

SUES TO RECOVER FOR SECRET STEEL PRODUCT

Ten Million Dollars Involved in Suit Against R. I. Henderson in Osgoode Hall.

A secret process for the manufacture of steel, was the subject of a suit by J. B. Ware and Lena T. Ware, against R. I. Henderson and others at Osgoode Hall. The plaintiffs alleged that the process was turned over by them to Henderson on a ten per cent basis, and that it was finally disposed of for $10,000,000. The defendant claimed that the formula he used was not the same as the one the Wares supplied and refused to acknowledge that the plaintiffs had any claim against him. According to the plaintiffs the formula communicated by them was the one disposed of by Henderson to Mackenzie & Mann and afterwards to the Universal Steel Co., Limited, the sum involved being $10,000,000.

D. A. Cameron, of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, a director of the Universal Steel Co., with whom it was alleged that both formulae had been deposited, said that they were not altogether dissimilar and after inquiries from certain chemists he declared that the ingredients of plaintiffs' formula did not enter into that of Henderson's.

Mr. Henderson, who had filed that on examination R. I. Henderson had refused to divulge the names of the ingredients of the process sold to his defendants, and also refused to divulge the particulars of the sale and in his refusal was within his rights. But he added that the defendant should be referred for examination and should state whether the defendant used the formula supplied by the plaintiffs or any of the ingredients as the plaintiffs were entitled to have this information on discovery.
