

MANY IN ORANGE CHURCH PARADE

Prentice Boys Also Take Part in Ceremony—Yesterday in Churches.

The church parade yesterday of the Orange Lodges of the city and county and the Prentice Boys' Lodges of the district was an impressive sight. There were about 800 taking part and they marched from Orange Hall, Fairville, to St. Columba Presbyterian church where Rev. W. McN. Townshend conducted service and gave an eloquent address. Before the parade left the hall brief addresses were given by Richard Magee, Harry Selton and William M. Campbell. County Marshal John Byers, of Lorneville, led the parade with the Kiltie hand following, and in order there marched Richard Magee, eastern division county master; William Golding, western section county master, the Black Knights, members of the Scarlet Chapter and the various lodges of the two orders with Willis Lodge No. 70 bringing up the rear. The route of march was along Main street, down Station street, up Prospect, Collins and Morris streets, and on the return the parade went by way of McKell street in order to pass the house of Mrs. Martha Totten, who is 88 years of age and a staunch upholder of Orangism. All of Mrs. Totten's relations have been connected with the Orange order, and it has no more faithful member than herself.

Miss Katie Fox was at the organ and the choir of the church led the singing and sang the anthems "Lead Me Gently Home," "Miss Sadie Coughlan," "Supplication" and "Purdy Coughlan." The "Prophet Song" was also sung. The parade was a very successful one and the amount given in the collection will go to the New Brunswick Protestant Orphanage.

The Oranges Lodges which marched in the parade and their Worthy Masters were as follows: Verner No. 1, H. C. Bowler; York No. 2, Richard Magee; Johnston No. 3, W. V. McKinley; Havelock No. 7, S. Napier; Portland No. 141, George McQueen; True Blue No. 11, George B. Tufts; Willis No. 70, William Golding; Mount Purple No. 28, John Ferguson; Coronation No. 121, George H. Galbraith; Court-may Bay No. 8, Earl MacFarlane; King's Own, of Mace Bay, William Snyder; Musquash Lodge No. 5, Mr. Joseph Sweet; and No. 34, Andrew Galbraith.

Rev. W. J. Davis preached his farewell sermon as minister of the Lorneville Presbyterian church last evening. He reviewed his six years' work in the church there and expressed his satisfaction that the church was free from debt and in a flourishing condition. Rev. Mr. Davis is taking charge of the East St. John church on November 1.

Harvest Festival.

The harvest festival services in St. Luke's church were largely attended yesterday. Rev. A. L. Fleming was the preacher in the morning while Rev. Canon R. P. McKim, the rector, spoke in the evening. The church was attractively decorated for the occasion and there was a very generous response in the special offering. George Lanyon was in charge of the special musical program arranged for the occasion.

The special speaker at last night's service in Centenary church was Rev. J. M. Murdock, district secretary of the N. B. & P. E. I. branch of the British and Foreign Bible Society, his subject being the new testament power of the Bible. Mrs. L. M. Curran and Miss Audrey Kee sang a duet. Rev. E. S. Styles, pastor of Exmouth street, was in charge of the service.

Furs Popular This Fall

By HEDDA HOYT.

(Fashion Editor of the United Press.)

New York, N. Y., Oct. 25.—Women are all making a rush upon the fur coats these early fall days. Furs are being worn despite the fine weather. Short jackets are appearing by the hundreds until it seems that every second woman must own one of these short fur affairs. Besides these jackets, there are numerous neckpieces and fur-trimmed coats and suits and scarcely any garment appears which is untrimmed.

One is astonished at the popularity of the short jacket this year. It seemed as though we overplayed our hand on short jackets during the past two spring seasons, but they have bobbed into style again and are being worn by both matron and miss. The 1924 jackets have earmarks of their own, however. First, the fur itself is new. The latest jackets are made of a golden muskrat, which is a tannish and white-tinted fur. Another popular jacketette is made of white coneys. This latter type is worn mostly by young girls. Summer is a lovely combination which several well-dressed women are choosing.

Brown caracul is perhaps the most popular jacketette of the season, if one wishes to wear the most popular fur. Natural squirrel jackets are also coming into vogue again and these are popular with the young college miss.

Raccoon Coats.

Raccoon coats of tomboy type are being sold in numbers to school girls. These sport coats are good looking, youthful, warm and particularly well-suited to the fapper of today. They are quite inexpensive.

Another inexpensive coat which is new and very attractive is made of natural muskrat, which is a golden brown fur. Long coats of this fur are trimmed with a longer and darker haired pelt and are most attractive. These will appeal to the woman of limited means who prefers a good-looking fur coat to a model.

Brown dyed caracul is replacing seal this season, according to the furriers. Women are tiring of seal and want novelty furs. Some of these caracul are trimmed at border and on collar and cuffs with fox or skunk or other long-haired furs. Sheared lamb is used in the same manner and is prettiest when dyed a brownish shade.

White ermine evening wear will be as popular as they ever were. Furriers state that they can not make them up fast enough to supply the demand. This season's ermine is untrimmed by tails and depends upon the manipulation of was in charge of the services in the morning. Rev. Dr. A. H. Kent, professor of Old Testament history at Pinehill College conducted the services in St. Andrew's church yesterday. This is his first visit to St. John since he occupied St. Andrew's pulpit during the tenure of Dr. McVicar.

Overlooking congregations in Portland Methodist church yesterday afternoon welcome to Rev. Dr. E. T. Crossley and T. H. Leonard, evangelists, who opened a three-weeks' series here. Rev. H. A. Goodwin, pastor, introduced the speakers, speaking appreciatively of their work. Dr. Crossley spoke at both services.

The 56th anniversary of the Carmarthen street Methodist church was observed by special services yesterday with two returned missionaries as the chief speakers. In the morning, the Rev. G. D. MacLeod, returned Presbyterian missionary from British Guiana spoke interestingly of his many experiences among the natives. In the evening, Rev. Walter Small, returned missionary from China, had his two little daughters appearing on the platform, one wearing the richly-embroidered dress of a Chinese girl of noble family and the other wearing the dress of the Chinese schoolgirl. At the close of the service, Rev. Mr. Small arrayed himself in the handsome dress of a Chinese mandarin. His description of conditions in China was very interesting. The anniversary celebration will be continued throughout the week. Tonight, a congregation reunion will be held and a former pastor, Rev. Henry Penna, will give the address.

bordered all around with a narrow band of fitch, where one wishes to make odd bits of old fur into a 1924 model. Hudson seal jackets collared and cuffed in velvet is also attractive and new in appearance.

One can combine almost any fur with tan or gray. White furs trimmed in leopard, seal, mink, etc., and other combinations which were formerly unheard of.

GIVES $100 FOR ORPHANS. A contribution of $100 has been received by H. C. Rankine, treasurer of the N. B. Protestant Orphans Home toward the maintenance and upkeep of the home. The contribution, a liberal one, is much appreciated by the directors.

KNOTTY QUESTION IN JURY FINDING

Was Magistrate Vindicated or Not?—Sir Richard Squires Comes to Canada.

St. John's, Nfld., Oct. 27.—The jury which was asked by the Crown attorney to find against William O'Reilly, former magistrate of Placentia, on a charge of larceny of $12,864, or an alternate charge of securing this sum under false pretenses, yesterday acquitted O'Reilly of larceny, but disagreed as to guilt on the second charge.

A legal argument was begun after the finding, as to its real effect, whether it amounted to a complete vindication or whether a new trial might be held on the charge of securing money under false pretenses. Court was adjourned until Monday.

This case was one growing out of the alleged corruption under the administration of Sir Richard Squires, former Premier. Sir Richard, whom a grand jury failed to indict, left last night for a month's trip to Canadian and U. S. cities.
